Soccer team 11-0-1

The Charlevoix High School Soccer Club recently completed their 12-game season with a record of 11-0-1.

Coach Tom Sikavitsas said this is the fifth year Charlevoix has fielded a team and each year the team has added a few more players. This year's team had 18 players.

"The year went pretty well. I wish we could have picked up a little stronger competition," Sikavitsas said.

The teams Charlevoix played were varsity or junior varsity teams or clubs from other schools, many of them smaller than Charlevoix. Sikavitsas said that ideally, Charlevoix should be playing varsity teams from class C and D schools.

He said that may be possible in the future as from Cadillac north in the Lower Peninsula there is the possibility of about 20 teams developing in the next four to five years.

Sikavitsas claims interest in soccer is growing both locally and nationally. He said there are currently between 200 and 240 children participating in Charlevoix's recreational soccer program.

In 1994, the United States will host the World Cup Championship. In soccer, the World Cup is similar to football's Super Bowl, but it involves the best teams from all over the world rather than just one country.

Sikavitsas credited several players for Charlevoix's success this season. He said Jose Garcia, an exchange student from Madrid, Spain, was a phenomenal player.

Sam Bingham, who played outside forward, made significant contributions to the team as a freshman.

John O'Brien drew the goal tending assignment and performed well while Bob Sell and Webb Friedley held the team together at midfield. Charlie Witthoef and Jamie Monteith were solid as fullbacks, the last line of defense before the goal.

"Everybody contributed when you have a season like that," Sikavitsas remarked.

Sikavitsas noted that he was also pleased that two girls, Heather Dietrich and Tanya Rostor, chose to be part of this year's team.

Drama fundraiser

Check your costume closets. Charlevoix High School Performing Arts students are scouring the community for adult sized animal and cartoon character costumes for their annual fall variety show.

This year's show, slated for Saturday evening, Nov. 12, is entitled "Fantasy World." It will be an evening of favorite fairy tales and Disney stories, as told, sung and danced by the varsity members of the Performing Arts group.

The students ask that anyone with any animal costumes or Disney related costumes contact Mrs. Connie Ford at Charlevoix High School, 547-3222.

Tickets for the Variety Show go on sale next week, through the Charlevoix High School office and members of the cast. Ticket prices are $2 for senior citizens and students, $3 for adults.

Curtain time for Charlevoix acting students' season opener - "Fantasy World" - is 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 12.

Senior center plans

Charlevoix area Senior Citizens are preparing for a home of their own.

They will soon take possession of the old Charlevoix Township Hall on Norwood Road, which, at the Primary Election in August, township voters agreed to deed over to the County Commission on Aging "for use by the Charlevoix area Senior Citizens."

Sherry Black, Community Education Coordinator for the Charlevoix Senior Center, reports the Center has approximately $5,000 with which to start making the building suitable for their purposes, and hopes to get another $10,000 from a local source.

"This will get us going," Black said, "then if we can get a grant, we should be able to just about become self-supporting."

The next fund-raising effort of the Charlevoix Senior Center is a Christmas Bazaar and Salad Luncheon, to be held at the V.F.W. Hall Saturday, November 19. Craft items, gifts, and baked goods will be available at the Bazaar. Vendors interested in purchasing table space are asked to call the Senior Center at 547-5361 between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. Monday through Friday to make arrangements.

Bus rides to polls

"I don't have a way to get to the polls" will not be a valid excuse for not voting next Tuesday.

The Charlevoix County Transit System will offer free bus rides to the polls for residents throughout the county. They will be picked up at their homes, taken to their polling places, and returned home. Pickup will be by advance telephone reservation to the bus system at 582-6900. They suggest that reservations be made a day early if possible. Because the bus system will be carrying its usual load of passengers during morning and late afternoon rush hours, most voters will be picked up during mid-day hours.

City to pave industrial park

Charlevoix has received a $75,000 state grant which will allow roads at the city's industrial park at the north end of town to be paved next summer. The city will also contribute $25,000 to the project.

According to an Oct. 27 news release from the Michigan Department of Transportation, Charlevoix was one of 22 recipients of grants totalling $8,440,000. There were 70 applicants for the grants.

The State Transportation Commission decided which applicants would receive the grants. Decisions were based on factors such as the number and quality of jobs created, the size of the economic development and return on investment for each dollar from the fund.

City manager Mike Wiesner said the grant award was good news for the city and showed that there are others who also believe this area is prepared for economic growth.

SCRAPBOOK

It was 24 years ago that this group of Charlevoix women served as inspectors in the 1964 general election. That was back in the days when part of their job was counting x's on paper ballots. Now a computer counts the punches on each ballot and comes up with the total within minutes. Edna

GENERAL ELECTION

To the Qualified Electors:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a General Election will be held in the Township/City of _____, County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, within said Township/City on

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1988

AND FOR THE PURPOSE OF VOTING ON THE FOLLOWING STATE AND LOCAL PROPOSALS:

PROPOSAL A
RESTRICT USE OF TAX FUNDS FOR ABORTIONS FOR PERSONS RECEIVING PUBLIC ASSISTANCE

Public Act 59 of 1987 is a law that states that tax funds shall not be used to pay for an abortion for a person receiving public assistance unless necessary to save the life of the mother.

Should the law be approved?

PROPOSAL B
PROPOSAL TO INCLUDE CRIME VICTIMS' RIGHTS IN THE CONSTITUTION

The proposal would amend the constitution to provide:
1) That crime victims shall have certain rights throughout the criminal justice process.
2) That crime victims' rights, as provided by law, shall be the right to be treated with fairness and respect for their dignity and privacy; be reasonably protected from the accused; be notified of court proceedings and attend trials; confer with prosecution and make a statement to court at sentencing; restitution, timely disposition of the case; and information about conviction, sentence, imprisonment and release of accused.
3) That legislature may enact laws to enforce crime victims' rights and provide for assessments against convicted defendants to pay for crime victims' rights.

Should the proposed amendment be adopted?

PROPOSAL C
PROPOSAL TO AUTHORIZE BONDS FOR ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION PROGRAMS

The proposal would:
1) Authorize the State of Michigan to borrow a sum not to exceed $600 million dollars to finance environmental protection programs that would clean up sites of toxic and other environmental contamination, contribute to a regional Great Lakes protection fund, address solid waste problems, treat sewage and other water quality problems, reuse industrial sites and preserve open space; and
2) Authorize the state to issue general obligation bonds pledging the full faith and credit of the state for payment of principal and interest on the bonds; and
3) Provide for repayment of the bonds from the general fund.

Should this proposal be approved?

PROPOSAL TO AUTHORIZE BONDS FOR STATE AND LOCAL RECREATION PROJECTS

The proposal would:
1) Authorize the State of Michigan to borrow a sum not to exceed $140 million dollars to finance state and local public recreation projects; and
2) Authorize the state to issue general obligation bonds pledging the full faith and credit of the state for payment of principal and interest on the bonds; and
3) Provide for repayment of the bonds from the general fund.

Should this proposal be approved?

TOWNSHIP PROPOSAL
Shall the limitation on the amount of taxes which may be assessed in Boyne Valley Township, Michigan, be increased by .25 (¼) mill ($0.25 on each $1,000.00) on state equalized valuation for the fire department sinking fund, for a fire truck, for the year 1989?

FIRE PROTECTION MILLAGE
"Shall the limitation on the total amount of taxes which may be assessed against all property in the Township of Charlevoix, Charlevoix County, Michigan, for all purposes be increased by .7 (7/10) mill ($0.70 on each $1,000.00) of the assessed valuation as equalized, of all property in said Township, for a period of four (4) years, 1989-1992 (inclusive). This represents a renewal of .618 mills that presently covers fire protection in the Township, plus an additional .084 mill to cover an increase in fire protection costs?"

CHARLEVOIX CITY PROPOSAL
"Shall a general City Charter Revision Commission be convened?"

ALSO ANY ADDITIONAL AMENDMENTS OR PROPOSITIONS THAT MAY BE SUBMITTED
THE POLLS of said election will be open at 7 o'clock a.m. and will remain open until 8 o'clock p.m. of said day of election.

Cross country: We're still the #1

by TIM HENNE

The Charlevoix boys' cross country team defended their Class C state championship overcoming foot-deep mud and cold, rainy weather Saturday to crush the nearest competition, Sandusky, by 28 points.

Coach Pete Spieles said of his championship team, "We work as a really close knit unit. This just didn't happen over night. Our discipline over a long period of time was really important. We knew our job, and we went out and did it."

As predicted by the Detroit News and the Detroit Free Press, junior, Scott Miller, triumphed individually, after a showdown with Sandusky's Chris Long. In spite of doubts at the second mile, when Long started to pull ahead, Scott, in the tradition of Charlevoix runners like Jeff Drenth and Bill Taylor, held on, passed Long and then built up an incredible hundred yard lead in the last half mile finishing with a time of 16:43.

Not far behind Charlevoix's state champion, Gehry Wiesner also received all state honors for his seventh place finish with his typical tough running. Not letting the course, which was a mud bog from start to finish, slow him down, Wiesner's only complaint was of a ski hill halfway through the course that was so slippery with mud it seemed as though he was standing still despite the fact he was running up it.

Senior Dylan Stewart went out with glory missing all-state by one place and completing what Coach Ken Plude called "the race of his life." Gaining momentum throughout the course, Stewart eclipsed anyone who challenged him in the last half mile, including Matt Neal from the only team to beat Charlevoix all year — Beaverton. Beaverton finished almost 40 points behind Charlevoix. Stewart finished with a race time of 17:57.

The mud didn't bother Paul Wakulat either. His twenty-first place finish of 18:02 showed Charlevoix's young talent is still strong. Paul was the fourth sophomore to the finish, which looks good for future years for Charlevoix.

Bill Crook, a junior, showed off his considerable muscle placing one second behind Wakulat, capping a year in which he consistently finished ahead of goals anyone had set for him.

The cross country team's reformed football player, Bill Burns finished 27th. His mental toughness showed through his finishing kick—in which he sprinted for over a hundred yards against a rival Clare runner, finally nipping him at the finish line.

Running a strong seventh for Charlevoix was junior Tim Henne. His 61st place finish put the entire Charlevoix varsity in the top half of the 125 man field. Tim ran relaxed and in control of himself, enjoying the mud and beating out more than one team's first and second men.

There was much more to the State meet than the race itself—the post race locker room screaming, the team's second annual run through town escorted by the city's entire honor guard of sirens, and stopping in East Jordan to visit Fran Martin, to whom the victory was dedicated and who seem as proud of the victory as the team

Spieles, Class C individual winner Scott Miller, Gehry Wiesner, Dylan Stewart, Paul Wakulat, Bill Crook, Bill Burns and Tim Henne.

Lots of deer for hunters

Approximately 740,000 hunters will take to the woods in the next few weeks. Firearm deer season begins next Tuesday and continues through Nov. 30.

Last year, bow and arrow, rifle and muzzle loader hunters combined to take 337,860 Michigan deer. The breakdown was 257,270 during rifle season, 8,360 by muzzle loaders and 72,230 by archers.

According to predictions, hunters will take approximately 65,000 more deer than that this year and for the first time ever, Michigan hunters will break the 400,000 deer mark.

This year, the Michigan deer herd is estimated to number 1.5 million. The large herd is attributed to high winter survival rates due to milder than usual weather in the Lower Peninsula last year and an average Upper Peninsula winter.

With the rising number of deer have come complaints from insurance companies over car-deer accidents and from farmers regarding crop damage.

According to State Police tabulations, there were 38,927 car-deer accidents in Michigan during 1987. Those accidents killed four people and injured 1,751.

Kent County, near Grand Rapids, had 1,363 car-deer accidents last year. Keweenaw County had only one. Charlevoix County had 435 car-deer accidents last year, which was right about in the middle of Michigan counties.

Michigan is currently in the midst of the worst time of the year for car-deer accidents. According to AAA Michigan, 52 percent of all Michigan car-deer accidents occur between October and November.

Late October and early November are the deer's mating season. Deer travel more and get careless.

As a police officer once said when asked about car-deer accidents during the deer's mating season, "If we only had three weeks out of each year, we might not be as careful crossing the road as we should be either."

Farm Bureau Insurance company has become so concerned about car-deer accidents that they are now selling deer alert devices for cars to members at a cost of $5 compared to the average retail price of $21.95.

The Department of Natural Resources is taking steps to reduce the deer herd by increasing the number of bonus hunting areas in the state as well as the number of doe permits.

108 Clinton Street debate continues

It's hard to say how far the Charlevoix City Council has come toward reaching a decision on the property at 108 Clinton Street. But they've gone over the same ground often enough to beat down an awful path in reaching the point they're presently at.

The city purchased the land, upon which sits an old grey house, some time ago. Their initial intention was to tear down the house and expand the municipal parking lot next to it.

The Downtown Development Authority (DDA) proposed an alternative to using the entire lot for parking. They proposed saving and restoring the front half of the house, which would be used as a business, and only using the back half of the lot for additional parking.

The city council seemed to be going in that direction, until a few weeks ago. At a work session, a straw vote came out 4-3 in favor of soliciting and reviewing bids on the front half of the house. An appraisal was done, bid specifications were drawn up, a for sale sign was painted and posted and bids came in.

Then, a few weeks ago, the council began vacillating on what they wanted to do with the lot.

Currently, there are four thoughts floating around on what should be done at the lot.

The first proposal is to tear down the entire house and put 32 parking spaces there. Proponents of that position, council members Shirley Roloff and Butch Russell among them, maintain that was the original intention when the property was purchased and parking needs in the downtown area will continue to grow in the future.

A second proposal is to save the front half of the house and allow it to be renovated and converted into a business while creating 16 parking spaces at the back of the lot. Councilman Bill Haggard and the DDA support that approach, contending that it will put the front of the property back on the tax rolls, add a business to the community, keep that section of town from looking like a sea of asphalt, save an old historic home and still provide 16 spaces of additional parking.

Proposal number three, favored by councilmen Bill Bellows, Norm Probert and Earl Muma, would have the old house torn down and the city selling the front portion of the lot where a new building would be built. The rationale is that the building may not be worth saving and that this plan will allow for more than 16 additional parking spots.

The fourth proposal, which is really just a variation of number three, would have the front half of the house salvaged and moved forward on the lot, rather than constructing a new building.

During Monday night's council meeting, the council had a public hearing on splitting the lot, something which would be conducive to proposals two, three and four. Following the hearing, the council, by a 5-1 vote, denied the lot split. Haggard voted against denying the split.

Norman and Rosemary Lawson earlier submitted a high bid of $45,625 on the property. They have indicated that they want to renovate the old house and operate a small retail business there.

At an earlier meeting, the Lawson's indicated the council's actions and vacillations seemed somewhat mystifying. However, at the end of Monday night's meeting the Lawsons said they're still interested in acquiring some portion of the 108 Clinton property and operating a business there. They said they want to continue negotiations with the council.

Davis rep. visits

Betty Mankowski, district representative for Congressman Bob Davis, R-Gaylord, will be at the Charlevoix County Building from 1:30 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. Nov. 15. Anyone wishing to speak with Mankowski about a problem they are having with the federal or state government may do so at that time. No appointment is necessary.

DONE BEFORE
THE SNOW COMES.

L. SCOTT SWANSON

In praise of Venusian weather

Folks around here are tired of being threatened. These clouds have hung over our heads for too long.

The time has come for Northern Michigan's weather to either put up or shut up. For the past week, maybe longer, we've been threatened with snow. Yet, every morning we look out our windows and the ground below remains as dark as the sky above.

Every evening, the weathermen predict snow. "...and a possibility of some scattered flurries," they say, waving their hands over our area of the weather map.

"Fine," we say. "If snow it must, then let it snow. But let's get on with it. Enough of this continuous cold, drizzly, grey, weather that's been lurking over us for the past two weeks."

"This is Northern Michigan, not Seattle. Let there be a day-long blizzard. Let the clouds open up and give us their best shot then move on. We can take it. Us Northern Michigan folk may not be the brightest people you'll ever come by, but we're a hearty breed."

Where has the sun gone? I've heard rumors that it still exists, but for the past two weeks I've had to take people's word for it. It's nothing I've been able to verify with my own eyes.

Is daylight savings time responsible for the sun's disappearance. Somehow, that's supposed to save sunlight. Where is it saved? And what are we saving it for? A rainy day perhaps. If that's the case, I feel now's the time to get it out and use it.

Lately, I've only seen a clear sky on a few occasions. Those occasions have come in the evening, as darkness settled in.

Bowhunting, sitting in a tree in the evening. Darkness slowly closes down the world around me, patiently, yet methodically, narrowing my horizons. An apple tree a short way off was clear just a few moments ago. Now, it is but an eerie silhouette.

Then I look up and see that Venus has risen above the trees on the eastern horizon. Seconds ago, I was having trouble discerning the details of the world at my feet. Now, I ponder a planet millions of miles away.

Venus is a planet, not a star. The light I see from Venus is not Venusian-original. No, it is but reflected light from the sun, our sun.

Ah! Now I know why the sun has not shone on Charlevoix lately. It's been spending all of its time frolicking around on Venus.

Is there life on Venus? Was there life in a college course I took entitled, "The Archeology of the Americas?" On both counts, I think not.

But if there was life on Venus, occasions would visit us, I'm sure they wouldn't drop by at this time of the year.

The weather's too dreary right now. They would wait until winter when a body can go outside and ski or until summer when there are a million things to do.

The Venusians will not come to Northern Michigan in early November, a time when it always seems dark and the natives sit in misery and wait for some type of commitment from the weather.

The Middle School and Elementary School loaned us artwork that we used to decorate portions of the ship. The talent and time obviously spent on these paintings made it difficult to choose the best painting. In the end, though, the crew decided on a painting of "Dracula" by Carrie Wakulat, Jeff Hoffman and Chris Pain. These three were awarded a gift certificate for a free pizza at Village Inn Pizza.

A total of 695 people visited the ship and the same number departed; some still recovering from their fright and most with a smile on their face. Mesquite's crew had a great time planning and staging the whole affair and we thank Charlevoix for such a good turn out on a cold and dreary Halloween night.

Letters to the editor:

108 Clinton ?s

Dear Editor,

The headline should read, "City of Charlevoix turns down free space to expand parking." Is this really possible when we all know how precious every downtown parking space is?

On May 11, at a work-study session, the Charlevoix City Council voted 4-3 to advertise for bids on the property at 108 Clinton. The DDA and Planning Commission were directed to put up the sign and to advertise for bids in the Courier. We responded to this ad with a bid of $45,600 (25 percent more than the appraised price) and have, or will have met, with all the requirements. At the October 24 meeting, the City Council totally discounted the recommendations of the DDA and the Planning Commission to accept our bid. We, as bidders, were rebuffed, not allowed to present our bid and were told that the City never intended to accept any bids or to sell the property.

As a taxpayer of Charlevoix, I have some concerns about the procedures at the October 24 meeting. I am planning to open a

It is not very pleasant to ponder tomorrow's problems, because even from here it is easy to see that some of them are going to be whoppers.

But Dick Farmer of Charlevoix feels the present generation has an obligation to look ahead and propose a few solutions.

One of the problems Farmer worries about is solid waste disposal — and well he should. The amount of land available for garbage dumps and landfills is finite, while the amount of waste we generate is infinite. The total appears take a quantum leap every year.

But Farmer believes that Alpena and environs have come up with an ideal solution to waste disposal by burning combustibles in the kiln of Alpena's Lafarge cement plant. He called my attention to an article in the Oct. 25 edition of The Alpena News which discussed the proposal in some detail.

Farmer believes that waste planners in the Charlevoix area should look into a similar system at the Medusa cement plant on South Point.

I checked with Elbert Kaiser, Medusa manager, to learn if solid waste could be consumed in his kiln.

It sure could!

In fact, Kaiser said that burning waste in a cement plant kiln is far preferable to burning it in an ordinary incinerator because of the extremely high temperatures. At Medusa, the kiln temperature reaches 2,900 degrees F., enough to melt metals and break down some toxic chemicals.

Another plus is the fact that in a cement kiln, combustibles have a longer "residence," meaning they remain under extremely high temperatures for a longer period of time than in an incinerator.

Still another factor in favor of kiln incineration is the fact that the ash combines with the cement itself. Furthermore, any remaining toxins are locked in and refuse to leach out, Kaiser said.

AT ALPENA, a subsidiary of Lafarge Corp. called Systech is working on the waste disposal system, which would include facilities for reclaiming recyclable materials.

One problem is assuring that the plant has a dependable supply of waste material to burn in its kiln — which means that Systech will have to transport waste from up to 12 nearby counties. The system will need 400 tons of refuse a day for maximum efficiency.

The company also will need at least two permits from the state Department of Natural Resources, but doesn't anticipate any trouble.

Once the permits are secured, construction of a facility to feed the kiln is expected to take from 15 to 18 months. The waste-to-energy facility will cost approximately $8 million and will reduce the volume of materials that must be landfilled by at least 75 percent.

From here it appears that kiln incineration in cooperation with Medusa might be just the ticket for Charlevoix and adjoining counties. It certainly would be preferable to eating up our precious landscape with landfills and suffering the consequences of possible groundwater pollution.

Farmer thinks succeeding generations would be grateful if we could solve the perplexing problem of waste disposal before it becomes a full-blown nightmare.

THE WARM rain Friday night and Saturday took many of us by surprise.

This time of year, snow would have been more apropos.

But when it was over, I was glad it wasn't snow — because we would have been buried up to our eyebrows.

Some sections of the state weren't so lucky.

The precipitation did come down as snow in the western Upper Peninsula and by Saturday night the Porcupine Mountains had between two and three feet of snow on the ground — with more falling.

What bothered me most throughout our 24-hour downpour was that it was the kind of storm we needed last July but didn't get.

Precipitation for the year now must be approaching normal, laying to rest the Great Drought of 1988.

Crowd size

Editor,

Bob Clock's column of Oct. 19 related a couple of anecdotes about the difficulty of estimating the size of crowds at public events, and I'd like to add one I've treasured and often told.

The late Fred Cartier and Ken Usher, reporting respectively for the Grand Rapids Press and Grand Rapids Herald, were friendly rivals who cooperated even while trying to scoop one new retail business at 108 Clinton. I hope you don't treat all your prospective businesses in the manner we have been treated!

It doesn't seem appropriate to have the Council ask, "Who let these people in here?" It was a public meeting and we were on the agenda. We are the only respondents to the request for bids for the 108 Clinton Street property.

We do appreciate the effort, support, and consideration the Planning Commission and the DDA have given our proposal. However, we do not feel that a careful and thorough study has been made by City Council. We were rebuffed in our efforts to refine our proposal.

The 108 Clinton property was purchased by the City to expand the parking capacity of the adjoining lot. To do this, the City would demolish the house and trees, put in storm drains and lighting, grade and blacktop. This would provide 32 spaces at a cost close to $100,000 (over $3,000 a space). $70,000 has been spent, to date, and it is borrowed at 11 percent to purchase the property. How long will this debt go on?

If the City were to carry through on their bid request and divide the lot, there would be 14 spaces, a retail business, a large maple, and a restored house.

We have offered the city 25 percent over the appraisal for the house and 1/2 lot. City property taxes paid on the 1/2 lot and the house would amortize the cost of the 14 spaces down to $0.

We all know that parking space during the peak season is at a premium. There are several other sites in the downtown area to make into parking lots. You can always lay more blacktop. Not too many vintage houses being built these days.

All we are asking City Council to do is to work with us and give us a chance to answer any doubts or questions they may have about our proposal. If after that they still feel that "the best interests of the community" can be served by spending $3,000 a space, we would seek another location. Of course the council would approve getting 14 free spaces and keeping Charlevoix beautiful.

We will be at the November 7 meeting of City Council and will be prepared for an exchange of information.

another. After one Venetian Night boat parade, Fred asked Ken (in his office in the old Courier building where the Rainbow Shoppe is now) "How many people are you going to say were watching the parade?" Ken replied, "I thought I'd say 10,000." "In that case," Fred answered, "I'll say 20,000."

I think of this at least every January 2, when local papers variously report the size of crowds watching the Tournament of Roses Parade in Pasadena. They've had the figure up to as much as three million, even though every year some smart mathematician figures out that, given so much room per person and covering every viewing spot on the entire five-mile route, the number has to be slightly less than a million. The old Fred and Ken method is still operating.

Live from the 69th parallel

by PEG OHLE

Paul Skogholt is one exchange student at Charlevoix High School who will probably never complain about the weather.

Paul comes from Stamsund, Norway, a small island-area town on the coast of the Norwegian Sea at approximately the 69th parallel. When we remember that Charlevoix is just north of the 45th parallel, we can understand that Stamsund is really up north.

Their weather is not as bad as we might think, however. As Paul explains it, the gulf stream has a moderating effect, preventing the winters from getting very cold and the summers from getting very warm. The average summer temperature is about 62 degrees, and sometimes when the wind comes down from the north, it can drop to 32 degrees.

Samsund is a small island town populated by about 1,500 people. The high school Paul attends is larger than Charlevoix High School because it draws students from a larger area. It is attended by students like Paul who intend to study law or prepare themselves for other professions. Other students attend other high schools depending on their choice of life's work, whether it be business, mechanics, fishing, cooking, or any other of the 14 careers for which they can be specifically trained.

As might be expected, Paul's curriculum in high school has been heavy in science and language. Last year, he studied English, French, German, mathematics, Norwegian, physics, biology, computers, and swimming. As a 12th grader at Charlevoix High School he is studying English, French, trigonometry, United States history, performing arts, and computers. His favorite subjects are performing arts and United States history, and his first period grades were four A's, one B, and one C. (The C was in English!)

The one thing about classes at Charlevoix High School that Paul is not too happy about is that they meet every day of the week, which he calls "boring". In Norway, some classes meet on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday; others on Tuesday and Thursday, or some other similar set schedule.

One other thing that Paul does not quite understand is why the students move from classroom to classroom every period, hurrying to get from here to there in five minutes. In Norway, it is the teacher who moves from room to room during a ten-minute intermission. In this way, the students have their own room, their "home room" which they decorate and equip with such necessities as tape players and coffee makers. The home room also provides a place to play cards and games.

High schools in Norway do not support athletic teams. Instead, students join sports clubs outside of school and may participate in a variety of sports. Paul has been especially interested in soccer and windsurfing. He was a member of this year's Charlevoix High School soccer team which ended the season with 11 wins, no losses, and one tie. When asked if the Charlevoix team played as well as his hometown team, he replied, "Yes, they were good."

Paul says he has been too busy to get homesick, but he may have problems around Christmas. He is already thinking about Christmas shopping for his family because it will take about six weeks for gifts to reach them if shipped by boat.

Paul's family consists of his father and mother and 14-year-old brother, Karl Inge. His father teaches school and also writes books, fiction and non-fiction as well as a volume of poems. His mother also writes books, particularly books for teenagers, and produces radio programs. With four published books to her credit, Paul says his mother is probably ahead of his father in the writing business.

We asked Paul if Charlevoix and Charlevoix High School were anything like he thought they might be. His reply was, "No, because I didn't know what to expect." He added that he had a pre-conceived idea about America derived from watching such TV shows as "Miami Vice", "L. A. Law," and "Dynasty." Television people and American tourists ("with cameras hanging around their necks and looking wealthy") are not typical of people he has found in Charlevoix, Paul is happy to report.

Paul is enjoying living with Walter and Ann Hufford and will probably share the homes of three other Charlevoix families before he returns to Norway at the end of the school year. He knows he will have many happy memories of his time in Charlevoix as he prepares to enter Tromsø University to study law in preparation for a career in the Diplomatic Corps. Incidentally, the university is even farther north than Paul's hometown of Stamsund!

Berlage request raises roof

Although the Don Berlage's development plan only asked to raise the roof literally, not figuratively, it sparked a renewal of friction past at Monday evening's city council meeting.

Berlage attended the council meeting for a development plan review concerning a building at 101 Bridge Street. He said the existing roof of the building is rotten and he wants to fix it. His repair plans call for extending the roof two feet four inches higher than it presently is.

Prior to the matter coming before the council, the city planning commission reviewed the plan and recommended approval.

After some wrangling between Berlage, councilman Norm Probert, and Dave Miles, who lives next to a different building Berlage is constructing on Park Avenue, the council approved the roof repair by a vote of 3-2 with one abstention. Probert and Butch Russell voted against approval while Bill Bellows abstained.

Early in the discussion of the Bridge Street building, Probert began to raise the issue of Berlage's condominium project on Park Avenue.

Berlage asked Probert to disqualify himself from the Bridge Street building discussion and decision as well as any other cases in which Berlage appears before the council. Berlage based that request on a contention that Probert has demonstrated bias and antipathy toward Berlage in past matters.

Berlage said that in the previous project (on Park Avenue) Probert took it upon himself to solicit and instigate litigation against the project.

Miles, who was involved in that litigation, said that was not true.

Probert asked city attorney Jeff VanTreese if the Park Avenue project could be brought up during the public hearing on the Bridge Street building.

VanTreese advised that according to the law, each case should be addressed on a case by case basis (in other words separately from other cases.) He also said that Probert should consider if he feels he is biased against Berlage and determine if he should disqualify himself.

Berlage said that if Probert would not disqualify himself from the issue, the council should vote to disqualify Probert from the matter.

Council member Shirley Roloff then indicated that she wasn't particularly interested in debating whether or not Probert is biased against Berlage, but was more interested in debating the matter of the roof replacement.

Probert never indicated one way or the other how he felt about Berlage's request that he disqualify himself. He didn't say much during the latter half of the debate, but did vote against the motion to approve the development plan.

Miles said that last year Berlage told him he plans to convert the Bridge Street building into housing. Miles said he thinks Berlage is raising the elevation on the building so he can put a three-story condominium there in the future.

Miles also contended that Berlage was asking the city for another favor while not complying with the city zoning ordinance or a court agreement on another project. Specifically, Miles alleged that at the Park Avenue project Berlage has put landscaping where seven parking spots were supposed to be and also has not put a hedge between his building and Hoffmann Park.

Berlage said he didn't come to the meeting to argue with Miles, but currently has made a variance application dealing with some of the matters Miles mentioned.

The discussion is hosted by FOCUS, a community forum group. Participating on the panel will be: Jeff Porter of the Downtown Development Authority; Dick Beagle of the Emmet-Antrim-Charlevoix Growth Alliance; Rod Cortright, director of the Cooperative Extension Service; and Bruce MacArthur, citizen advocate. All interested citizens are invited to participate in the discussion.

Lake levels decreasing

The elevation for Lake Michigan and Lake Huron at the end of September was about 18 inches below what it was one year ago and about 2 inches below one month ago. The end of September level of the two lakes was at 578.23 feet above the mean water level at Father Point, Quebec.

The September monthly mean level was about 4 inches below the long-term average. This level was about 36 inches below the all-time September monthly mean high, which was set in 1966, and about 28 inches above the all-time September monthly mean low, which was set in 1964.

For mariners, the end of September level was 17 inches above chart datum (1).

The six-month forecast (2) of levels for Lakes Michigan-Huron shows that the lakes are expected to be below the long-term average level during the next six months.

The forecast shows that at the end of October, Lakes Michigan-Huron will be about 3 inches below what they were at the end of September. The lakes are expected to continue their seasonal decline into February.

At the end of March 1989, the lakes are expected to be about 12 inches below what they were at the same time in 1988. The March mean would be below the long-term average for that month but 27 inches above the all-time low mean for March, which was set in 1964.

Council responds to ship escrow fund questions

There currently is approximately $90,000 in an escrow account involving the Star Of Charlevoix and the city.

The money was placed in the account by operators of the ship to cover dock renovations paid for by the city, but related to the operation of the dinner-cruise ship.

Those renovations cost approximately $87,000. Money from the escrow account will eventually be released to the city to cover that cost.

But when will it be released? And why isn't it being released now? Those were the $87,000 questions which were brought up at Monday evening's city council meeting.

Billie Smith, a local citizen who is a regular attendee of council meetings, said she came down to city hall and ask to see a copy of the contract dealing with the cruise ship agreement, but was told there is no contract. She said she couldn't imagine thousands of dollars being spent with no contract.

City manager Mike Wiesner explained that several months ago, when the agreement was formulated, there was a resolution by the city council. However, the resolution involved a local group of investors participating in the cruise ship operation and being part of the agreement. That local group of investors has never fully developed.

Harold Kruttsch, who was involved with the local group, said the group had to raise $225,000 for the project and was within $90,000 of that goal when a legal time limit forced them to return all the money they'd collected and basically start again from scratch. He said there is a committee which has been working on the matter.

A trust account belonging to city attorney Jeff VanTreese is serving as the escrow account for the dock renovation money. VanTreese said that although cruise ship operators haven't yet agreed to have the money released to the city, there's no question, but that the money will go to the city.

Smith asked if there is some kind of time limit as to when the money will be paid.

Wiesner said his understanding is that the cruise ship operators want the local investors in place and the contract in order before the escrow money is released.

Shirley Roloff said members of the council met with some of the local investors and discussed the matter and have given cruise ship officials and local investors until February to work out some type of an arrangement.

VanTreese said there is a provision in the agreement, that if there's a question, the matter can go to circuit court. However, he added that he doesn't anticipate that happening.

Obituaries

Elizabeth A. Adas

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Adas, 78, passed away Monday afternoon, October 31, 1988, at St. Joseph Hospital, West, Mt. Clemens following an extended illness. She was born Aug. 3, 1910 in Detroit, the daughter of Lawrence and Camille (Cotrell) Rivard.

On Nov. 12, 1940, she was married to Harold A. Adas in Dearborn, moving to Eastport in 1977 from Northville.

Mrs. Adas was a member of the Daughters of Isabella. Surviving, in addition to her husband Harold are daughter Camille of Mt. Clemens; two sons, Bud of Brighton and Michael of Highland Park, J.N.; four grandchildren; a sister Nelle Rivard of Dearborn and a brother Francis Rivard of Portage Lake.

Funeral mass was celebrated on Friday, Nov. 4, from St.

Patrick Catholic Church with Rev. Fr. Dan J. McKean as celebrant. Burial followed at Calvary Cemetery, Brighton.

The rosary was recited on Thursday, Nov. 3, from the Keehn Funeral home.

Memorial contributions are suggested to the American Cancer Society. Envelopes are available at the Keehn Funeral Home, Brighton.

Armand B. Antinossi

Armand B. Antinossi, 62, of Norwood, died Nov. 7, 1988, at his home.

Funeral will be 11 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 10, at St. Marys Catholic Church, Charlevoix. The Rev. James K. Gardiner will officiate and burial will be in St. Marys Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mr. Antinossi was born Nov.

27, 1925, in Detroit, the son of Armando and Annie (Weaver) Antinossi. He served in the U.S. Air Force during World War II and was a 1950 graduate of Central Michigan University.

On Dec. 31, 1949, he married the former Ann Lund in Rosebush. Mr. Antinossi retired in 1980 as administrative assistant to the city of Detroit and moved to Atwood.

Mr. Antinossi was a member of St. Marys Catholic Church in Charlevoix.

He is survived by his wife Ann; two sons, Nicolas A. of Ellsworth and Andre of Charlevoix; four daughters, Mrs. Christopher (Kristen) Sassak of Dearborn, Russell and Alexis Polena of Ellsworth, Mrs. Henry (Renee) Ziaja of Dearborn and Mrs. Cris (Dominique) Havens of Charlevoix; one foster daughter, Mrs. Robert (Bouy) Presnell of Detroit; 11 grandchildren; his mother Annie Antinossi of Dearborn; one brother, Edmond Antinossi of Dearborn.

The family suggests memorials to the Michigan Heart Association or to St. Marys Catholic Church, Charlevoix. Envelopes for those purposes are available at the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix, where friends may call 6-9 p.m. Wednesday.

Jens Sorensen

Jens Sorensen 86, of Norwood died Nov. 7, 1988, at Grandvue Medical Care Facility, East Jordan.

Arrangements are pending at the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix. A complete obituary will follow.

Hospice memorial

Charlevoix County Hospice will host their Third Annual Memorial Service at 4 p.m., Nov. 13 at the United Methodist Church in Boyne City.

The Memorial Service is for families, friends and volunteers associated with hospice patients who have died in the past year. At 5:30 p.m., following the Memorial Service, hospice volunteers may attend a board sponsored pot luck dinner.

BANDSHELL ... PAST, PRESENT AND FUTURE

Last week the old bandshell was torn down. City street department have volunteered their time after work to haul the rubble away. These three pictures show the old bandshell, the debris and a model of a new bandshell which bandshell proponents plan to construct next summer.

BEACONS

Prepared weekly by the members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.

United Methodist Church

The hills of our area which were once aglow with painted leaves and the golden rays of sunlight now appear gray and bare. It is as if we are living in an alien land.

As a person reads the Scriptures and then reflects upon the world around them, this experience of two different worlds is only heightened. "The blind receive sight, the lame walk, those who have leprosy are cured, the deaf hear, the dead are raised and the good news is preached to the poor (Matthew 11:5)." One does not need to watch much TV, read many periodicals or simply listen to various conversations before it becomes clear that we do not fully live in the kingdom of God, yet. We live in an alien land of injustice, hatred, violence and despair.

Once we know the love of Christ in our hearts we no longer look upon this world from the same perspective. The Christian becomes one who weeps with those who weep, suffers with those who suffer, hungers with those whose stomachs growl and is angered by all that contribute to these injustices upon God's people.

Education is the key to backing off the vise that squeezes the hope and creative will from people's lives. As we learn more about one another and the issues that impact our lives, we can move further beyond the walls of our own experience. We who have the freedom, the food and the power must become for the oppressed and the poor the hand of God extended in compassion, the hand that pounds upon the table demanding change and the hand of love embracing others regardless of race or socioeconomic status.

As we anticipate a national celebration of thankfulness this month, let us in response to all our blessings work to ensure those blessings for all of God's people. One's individual response to the love of Christ in one's life will provide a small taste of the kingdom of God now, during a time when the kingdom is still not yet.

Girls team 10th at state finals

by TIM HENNE

The Charlevoix girls' team started a tradition of their own this year. Defying the ratings, their 10th place finish followed a year marred by injury and sickness. However, at state finals they produced what Coach Pete Spieles called their best race all year.

Charlevoix's first woman all-stater, Julie Bush, finished sixth individually with a time of 21:13, an exceptional time considering the muddy conditions.

The top five finishers were either juniors or seniors, so Julie, a sophomore, needs only to continue her talented, tough, style of running for a high place the next two years.

"I'm really happy to have made it," Julie said, "and my team's finishing so high made it even more special to me."

Leigh Richardson, a senior, finished 14th, narrowly missing all state. This great race followed her first year of running in which her steady high places made her a strong addition to the team.

Inga Meisner, a German exchange student, placed 52nd. Tracee Smith also ran hard and showed a lot of spirit in her 77th place finish.

Charlevoix's fifth runner Michele Jacobs battled the whole race, her long legs outstriking 60 of the best runners Class C had to offer. Fighting injury all year long, Barb Haggard fought off pneumonia to compete Saturday. Haggard's 89th place ended her career on a high note.

Karina Stockholm, a Danish exchange student, finished seventh for the team and in her first year of running showed herself worthy of her place on varsity.

All together the girls beat goals and expectations and earned their parade through town.

Sandusky's Chris Long and Charlevoix's Scott Miller duelled for the Class C individual championship, but in the last mile Miller pulled away for the victory.

Girls basketball team loses twice

Charlevoix's girls' basketball team stayed close to East Jordan early last week, but got swamped by Sault Ste. Marie two nights later.

At East Jordan Nov. 1 Charlevoix never let the Red Devils pull away, but still ended up losing 55-46.

Although East Jordan led all the way, Charlevoix hung around, much of the time trailing by about four points. In the fourth quarter an East Jordan burst extended the lead to 10 points, but back-to-back three-point baskets by the Rayders' Billie Jean Habel cut the lead back to four.

For Charlevoix, Habel had 17 points and Stacy Gebott 10. Jill Burt led East Jordan with 17 points while Dia Jones contributed 11 and Kristy Barber 10.

Thursday, Nov. 3, Charlevoix travelled to Sault Ste. Marie and got a cold welcome as they were beaten 63-20. In the second half, the Rayders' offense was about on par with the Detroit Lions offense.

Gebott and Habel accounted for virtually all of what little Rayder offense there was. Each of them scored eight points while the rest of the team scored four points.

Last week's two losses dropped the Rayders overall record to 4-13.

...cross country

This season adds to Charlevoix's team record of the past several years. The boys' team has now won back-to-back state championships, and this year's state final point total of 67, is Charlevoix's best ever. Other victories include nine straight conference wins, 27 all-regional and 12 all-state runners, five out of seven regional victories, four state crowns, and the hope that next year will make five.

This year alone the seven varsity runners combined for over 4,000 miles in training and with coaches Pete Spieles and Ken Plude, the tradition will continue for years to come.

Pack 11 outing

Twenty-nine Charlevoix boys from Pack 11 of the Webelos level of the Boy Scouts participated in a Webelos' International Camp-out during the weekend of Oct. 28 - 30. The Charlevoix scouts were joined by a dozen scouts from Group 8 of Sault Ste. Marie, Canada.

Friday evening, district scout executive Brian Granger welcomed the scouts and presented a symbol of international scouting to Brian Woods, the leader to the Canadian scouts.

Saturday morning, the scouts and their leaders went to the Medusa Cement Plant where they put on hard hats and toured the facility.

In the early afternoon, the scouts participated in an archery demonstration by local archer Ron Gates. Along with demonstrating bows, Gates explained the differences between various types of bows.

Later in the day, Pete and John Gaskin were assisted by Charlene Gaskin in demonstrating long rifles to the scouts. The Gaskins' early Local Boy Scouts from Pack 11 and Canadian Scouts from Group 8 got together at the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club recently for a weekend outing.

Charlevoix's electric substation is a focal point in a $1.6 million upgrade of the city electric system.

City upgrades electric system

The city electric department is presently involved in a $1.6 million program to upgrade the city's electrical system. The five year program was initiated in 1985 and is ongoing on a step by step basis.

When the upgrading is completed, Charlevoix's electric system will offer better service and increased capacity.

Charlevoix's electric system is publicly owned. It is supported by its own revenues, paid by power users, rather than revenues from the city's general fund, paid in taxes.

The electric fund supports itself and normally maintains an emergency fund of $300,000 to $350,000 although right now the emergency fund is somewhat less since portions of it are being used to pay for the system upgrade.

Electrical engineer Roger Westenbrook did a general overall study of the city's electrical system in 1985 and authored a report offering specific recommendations for system improvements.

"An electric system is never finished," Westenbrook said in a recent interview concerning the report. "There has to be constant upgrading. The current

City attorney debate continues

A request to freeze payments made to City Attorney Jeffery VanTreese was turned down by city council during its work session Monday.

The request was made by Councilman Norm Probert who has in the past suggested the contract with the city attorney be terminated. VanTreese was indicted June 8 by a grand jury on two counts of conspiracy to possess cocaine.

Probert's request came on the heels of the adjournment of a preliminary examination scheduled for Thursday, Nov. 17. That hearing was rescheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 22. The adjournment was requested by VanTreese's downstate attorneys who said they did not receive transcripts of the Charlevoix County citizens grand jury proceedings.

During Monday's work session, Councilman Probert urged the city to deposit retainer fees and monthly costs for legal services into an escrow account. His suggestion drew support only from Councilman Butch Russell.

"Continue to pay him as an employee of the city," Probert said. "The money should be held in a trust account pending the outcome of his trial."

Councilman Earl Muma, Bill Haggard, Shirley Roloff and William Bellows opposed the action.

"If I were a lawyer, I wouldn't (work for you) for nothing," Muma said. "In that respect, I have to stand behind the man."

Since VanTreese's indictment, Probert has suggested the contract with the city attorney be terminated. He has also scrutinized monthly statements submitted to the city by VanTreese during the past few months. The city attorney is retained on a $200 monthly fee and charges $40 per hour. Although some monthly statements have reached over $1,000, councilman Muma reminded Probert the legal services rendered by VanTreese were done at the request of the city.

The discussion also generated a concern voiced by Charlevoix resident Billie Smith who questioned an escrow account maintained by the city attorney.

The account contains approximately $90,000 in city funds which was deposited in May as a "good faith" measure between the city and Star Line. During Monday's work session, concerns were addressed to any access VanTreese may have to

Council favors parking lot

Although it was only a discussion and formal action won't be decided until next Monday's meeting, city council favored removing a century-old home to make space for a public parking lot.

The debate to remove the home located at 108 Clinton has been an ongoing discussion since the city purchased the property months ago. The city's original intention was to demolish the home and develop a 32-space parking lot.

Several months ago, however, the Downtown Development Authority proposed the lot be split and a portion be used for public parking with the front half and the house converted into a business. Although some council members favored that alternative, council never formally approved of the DDA's recommendation.

The DDA proceeded as if action had been taken, securing a bid from Norman and Rosemary Lawson who indicated they were interested in renovating the home. In its place, they planned to operate a small retail business and offered to pay $45,625 for the building.

Thanksgiving $: Talk turkey

by PEG OHLE

When we received a news release from Consumers Power reporting on how economical it will be to use electric stoves and ovens and refrigerators in preparing Thanksgiving dinner, we decided we should also check on food costs for a dinner for 12 this year.

This is what we found at a local supermarket last week: Turkey was selling for $1.19 a pound, bringing the cost of a 12-pound bird up to $14.28, and prepared stuffing was $2.09. However, the price of turkeys is expected to come down before the holiday. Consumers estimates the cost of roasting a stuffed 12-pound turkey for four hours in an electric oven to be 54 cents.

Five pounds of Michigan potatoes (good for mashing) were selling for $1.29. Consumers estimates boiling them on an electric surface burner will cost four cents.

Two packages of frozen peas were priced at $1.26. While Consumers did not estimate this cooking cost, let's add two cents. Two cans of sweet potatoes in syrup were selling for $2.90. We estimate heating costs at four cents.

A large package of fruit Jello and a can of mixed fruit for salad added up to $2.14. Lettuce was 89 cents a head. Consumers says cooling a fruit salad in the refrigerator will add approximately 21 cents to the cost.

Two loaves of frozen bread dough for roll-making added up to $1.98. Baking them for 20 minutes will cost three cents, according to Consumers. A can of cranberry jelly was marked 83 cents. No cooking or refrigeration needed!

Canned pumpkin for two pies added up to $1.70 and ready-made pie crust added another $1.79 for this transitional Thanksgiving dessert. Baking two pies for an hour would cost 13 cents, Consumers reports.

Of course, we will use some milk, butter, and salad dressing, a little flour for gravy, and probably some tea or coffee. Let's add $3.00 for these extras.

The adding machine says all this comes to $35.16, less than $3 each for a Thanksgiving dinner for 12 adults and children. Of course, the cook's time doesn't count.

 Rebekahs meet at the American Legion hall, 8 p.m.

system is good, but it's old and needs to be updated."

The primary improvement will be restructuring the substation where electricity comes into the city system so it will put out a higher voltage. That higher voltage will go out along lines to business and residential customers and then be stepped down to the same voltage the customers currently receive.

Although that may sound like a simple enough proposal, it entails several steps. Several things had to be done to the distribution system before voltage could be increased from the substation.

First, the insulators on the wires carrying the increased voltage have to be improved so they can handle the change. The distribution transformers, which are the transformers which currently reduce the wire voltage from 4,160 volts will have to be changed so that they can drop the voltage from 12,470 volts.

City water and electrical superintendent Ed Whitley says several things have already been done in preparation for the voltage increase. One of the things the city has been doing is replacing transformers with dual transformers which can handle voltage at either level.

Whitley explains that renovating the system is complicated because it's not feasible to shut the whole thing down for a period of time to work on it. Electrical workers are only able to shut down small portions of the system for brief periods of time.

One of the benefits of the improvement program is that in the future, electric workers will have more flexibility to feed power in from another circuit and therefore maintain power while fixing a down circuit.

Not all of the work has progressed exactly according to the schedule. Westenbrook recommended at the project's inception.

As the project has progressed, various opportunities and possibilities came up where it made sense to modify the schedule.

One of the key things which developed was a new crossing of the channel which was installed by the telephone company by Hoffmann Park. The city arranged a deal with the phone company which allows the city to transmit power on one of the lines in the cable.

Presently the city has lines crossing to the north side near the Coast Guard station and the bridge. However, there are questions about the quality of the cable which crosses by the bridge and it is going to undergo testing in the future.

Part of the upgrade involves putting a new cable crossing at the Coast Guard station in con-

Solid waste plan - finally

by PEG OHLE

It took 19 meetings over a period of almost two years, but Charlevoix County now has a draft Solid Waste Management Plan.

The 14-person committee appointed by the County Board of Commissioners spent last Thursday evening making minor changes for the final wording of the plan and unanimously agreed to call it finished.

The next three months will be spent preparing copies of the plan for public review and comment and holding a public hearing. After the public's comments and suggestions have been considered, they may or may not be incorporated into the plan.

Then the plan goes to the County Planning Commission, the County Board, and the governments of all the cities and townships in the county for their approval. When 67 percent (13) of the local units of government have approved the plan, it will then be sent to the State Department of Natural Resources for final approval.

Counties are required by law to update their Solid Waste Management plan every five years, which is the process Charlevoix County has just completed.

The plan relies on the privately-owned Charlevoix County Landfill in Eveline Township as the major disposal site for Charlevoix County Waste. It also permits five nearby counties to use the landfill, if necessary, by prior agreement between the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners and the Board of Commissioners of the applicant county. In return, those counties must make their own waste disposal facilities available to Charlevoix County if and when that becomes necessary.

junction with a new water main. With that new cable, the Hoffmann Park cable and the testing of the bridge cable, the reliability of electric service to the city's north side should be much improved.

Although the upgrading program will continue for some time, a major milestone could come next summer. It is possible that at that time the city will be able to begin energizing lines at the higher voltage.

New and better quality cables are also being used in the upgrade. Whitley said that is already helping answer the problem of increased power demands in the downtown area.

I prefer no form

Many people received a card last week which requested a decision and a response. However, there's no need to decide in haste, you don't have to respond until 1992.

At last week's election, many voters were handed a card titled, "POLITICAL PARTY PREFERENCE FORM." The card deals with Michigan's 1992 presidential primary.

For the past several years, Michigan has not had presidential primary elections. Political party members chose which presidential candidate the state party would support at the national conventions through party caucuses which, in recent years, deteriorated into fiascos with a fair degree of frequency.

So the caucus system has been dropped like a dirty diaper. March 17, 1992, Michigan will have a presidential primary election.

So why this little form? Although all other Michigan primaries are "open," the presidential primary will be "closed."

In an "open" primary a voter is given a ballot which shows the candidates from all qualified parties. In the privacy of the voting booth, where no politicians or anybody else gets to know what party that voter is supporting, the voter decides which party primary he wants to vote in and picks from among the candidates of that party. Even in an "open" primary, a voter can't cross back and forth between parties.

In a "closed" primary, a voter is given a ballot which shows only the candidates from one party. The election worker knows which party ballot to give a particular voter because all voters must declare a party preference at least 30 days before the primary election.

That's where the little form comes in. If you don't fill out one of them, then you won't be allowed to vote in the presidential primary.

Once it became clear that Michigan was again going into the presidential primary business, the Michigan legislature quickly adopted laws which created the necessities like political party preference forms.

The same Michigan legislature which last year didn't figure out what the state's annual appropriation to education was going to be until more than a third of the school year was over, was able to get this preference form matter resolved about four years in advance of when it's actually needed.

The preference form will probably be a handy thing for politicians. When a voter fills out a party preference form and sends it to the city or township clerk as directed, the information on that form becomes public information. Political candidates, or anybody else for that matter, can go to the clerk's office, find out what party a voter prefers, look up the voter's phone number and call that voter up asking for a vote or a monetary contribution, or whatever.

If they had an "open" presidential primary, rather than a "closed" one, there would be no need for the preference form.

But according to a Michigan Department of State information sheet on Michigan's presidential primary and preference form requirement, "It was necessary to design the presidential primary as a 'closed' primary as the national Democratic Party does not recognize the results of 'open' presidential primaries."

Why won't the national Democratic Party recognize the results of open primaries? Fear of the crossover vote.

The national Democratic Party is afraid there might be a presidential primary election where a particular Republican candidate has his party's nomination sewn up going in. With the Republican nominee decided, Republican voters could cross over and vote for the weakest Democratic candidate in the Democratic primary.

Were that scenario to unfold, you could end up with Republicans playing a role in coming up with a Democratic presidential candidate who was somebody out of the leftfield bleachers who didn't stand any real chance of getting elected because his, or her, views were nowhere near those of mainstream voters.

The national Democratic party would be very upset if that happened, and rightfully so. As the 1972, '80, '84 and '88 elections lively and interesting today than they were then.

From aboard ship he writes, "We have found in going around the world that English is spoken almost everywhere so that as some wag has said, with a little English and a lot of shillings one encounters little difficulty anywhere on earth."

From India he writes, "There is endless debate about Birth Control. Another problem is the 'refugees' (from Pakistan) when religious fanatics drove 10 to 15 million people from their homes." He comments about the signs in the Taj Mahal Hotel in Bombay which say, "No South Africans Admitted". This is in retaliation for the attitude of South Africa toward the Indians in South Africa... Sounds familiar?

What's in a name — A presidential survey

President-elect Bush is the first president since Washington to have George as a first name.

The most common presidential first name is James, the given-name of five presidents: Madison, Monroe, Polk, Buchanan and Garfield. There are six if you add Jimmy Carter. Jimmy usually is considered a diminutive of James; but Carter's mother, Miz Lillian, a product of the Deep South, apparently preferred the more familiar Jimmy.

We also have had three Johns (John Adams, John Quincy Adams and John F. Kennedy) and three Williams (William Henry Harrison, William McKinley and William Howard Taft).

The only other presidents to share first names are Franklin Pierce and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

It is surprising that we have had only one Thomas, considering that Tom is such a solid old name. He was Tom Jefferson.

Some of our presidents have had rather uncommon first names which are not likely to crop up again: Martin Van Buren, Zachary Taylor, Abraham Lincoln, Ulysses Grant, Rutherford B. Hayes, Grover Cleveland, Woodrow Wilson and Lyndon Johnson.

But others have had popular first names and we may see some of them repeated: Andrew Johnson, Benjamin Harrison, Theodore Roosevelt, Warren G. Harding, Calvin Coolidge, Harry Truman, Dwight Eisenhower, Richard Nixon, Gerald Ford and Ronald Reagan.

Given Americans' proclivity for naming their children after presidents, we can expect to see more Georges in the birth announcements.

My step-grandfather was born in 1859 during the administration of James Buchanan. Grandpa went through life as James Buchanan Hettinger. If he had been born the next year he probably would have been called Abraham Lincoln Hettinger.

Fortunately, the practice was abandoned in my family before I was born. Otherwise I would be known as Calvin Coolidge Clock, or CCC for short.

EARLY SUNDAY morning I was putzing around in the kitchen preparing pickled beets and pickled carrot sticks for Thanksgiving dinner when my neighbor Tom Hanna came to the front door.

"How come you aren't out here taking pictures of the big buck wandering around your house?" he asked.

He said he and his wife Ann had watched the buck for several minutes before it disappeared between our house and the Charles Duerrs' house next door.

So I went into the backyard and discovered the buck — a magnificent 10-pointer — and his girlfriend — a beautiful little doe — frolicking in a yard across the alley. They were taking turns chasing each other, but stopped short when they saw me.

"Come on over and I'll give you each a pickled beet," I coaxed, knowing how fond deer are of beets. But instead they wrinkled their noses, flipped their tails and took off at a gallop toward Nicholls Street.

Of course, we have had wildlife in Charlevoix before, including a black bear which ambled down our alley a few years ago and a deer which paid an uninvited visit to La Croft Condominium.

But it still gives me chills to see big game in an area normally frequented by squirrels, chipmunks and rabbits.

I AM A LITTLE worried that George Bush made such a big deal about not raising taxes — "read my lips" — during his election campaign.

Economists tell us that the United States is riding for a fall unless something is done — and quickly — to reduce the national debt. I can't see that happening without an increase in taxes.

Don't bank on the Graham-Rudman-Hollings law to bail us out. All GRH does is eliminate deficit spending by 1993. It doesn't do one thing to reduce the trillions of dollars we already owe, or the terrible amount of interest we are paying on that debt.

A massive fundraising campaign which raised a total of approximately $700,000 to purchase 27 acres of natural land and almost half-a-mile of Lake Michigan shore line at Northpoint was recently completed. The area which has both a rocky shore line (top) and dunes (bottom) will be turned into a natural park.

N. Point reaches fund goal

The effort to raise nearly $700,000 to preserve North Point has been successful, the Little Traverse Conservancy reported today. "The North Point Finance Charlevoix area residents, business people, resorters and service groups has organized the most successful and best supported community effort I have ever seen," said Conservancy Executive Director Tom Bailey. "The entire Charlevoix community gave from their hearts and their checkbooks to preserve an outstanding natural area."

North Point comprises some 27 acres of property in Charlevoix Township. Consisting of delicate sand dunes, deep forest, and a half-mile of frontage on Lake Michigan, the property is home to three threatened species of plants and a unique sand dune ecosystem.

It was only a year ago that efforts began to raise the nearly $700,000 required to purchase the property. In that time, Charlevoix residents and businesses have donated $300,000 toward the project, and the State Natural Resources Trust Fund has awarded a grant of $400,000 to support the effort.

Bailey has difficulty finding words to describe the community response to the project. "I just cannot get over the response of this community," he said, "it has been tremendous, phenomenal, miraculous, generous, supportive — I just cannot find enough words."

Several events stand out in the history of the project. Before there was even a purchase agreement, Bailey noted that several key Charlevoix groups were lining up behind the effort. Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, the DUNE group created specifically to preserve North Point, WATCH, and others helped to lay the groundwork for the project.

"And once it got going, it was like a prairie fire," Bailey added. Medusa Cement Company pledged $50,000 to the project, setting the tone for the business and professional community. "I went to a Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce gathering just to distribute information on the project — not to ask for contribu-

High school suffers leaking pipes

Charlevoix High School is facing an unexpected expense with a ballpark of estimate of between $6,000 and $10,000 in coming months due to leaking pipes at the high school.

School business manager Vince Olach said that in the past two months hot water pipes in tunnels beneath the school have sprung 24 major leaks.

Olach said school finances are already tight and cutbacks have been made. He said replacing the pipes means additional cuts will have to be made somewhere in the budget.

"We're going to have to do some kind of juggling at the beginning of the second semester," he stated.

The pipe which has gone bad is 2 inch hotwater pipe installed at the school in 1960. School maintenance workers say that leaks haven't been just in normal places, such as pipe elbows, but have sprouted all over indicating the entire pipe has gone bad.

The school is already seeking bids on replacing the pipe. Olach said that since the pipes are part of the heating and hotwater system, it would be better if they were replaced during Christmas break rather than when classes are in session.

Olach said the school has $264,000 in fund equity, but can't use that money because a state law involving employee retirement restricts the use of the money. Charlevoix schools have an annual budget of approximately $5.5 million.

Olach said he doesn't foresee the school district asking for a millage increase to pay for the pipe replacement.

Couple offers recycle tips

by PEG OHLE

Charlotte and Wayne Sanderson of Eveline Township, who are without doubt the foremost "recyclers" of the area, took their message to the women of the Congregational Church last week.

They noted that "recycling was quite the vogue in older and leaner times—people recycled everything. Now, we must, if we value this planet, recycle in earnest."

They told of their 20 years' experience in separating household trash and preparing it for re-use. They have become so adept at the process that now their contribution to the local landfill amounts to about one plastic bag full a month. This compares with five pounds of trash per person per day dumped by the average family.

Their paper, aluminum and metal cans, glass, plastic, used motor oil, yard waste, and occasional pieces of heavy metal, batteries, old furniture, and other unwanted items are all destined for recycling centers.

Newspapers are stacked and tied with twine or put into large paper shopping bags, to be taken to one of several newspaper collection places in the area. Recycled newspapers are made into a variety of new items, including new newsprint, insulation, roofing material, and cereal boxes.

Cardboard boxes are flattened and stacked or stuffed into another box. Recycled cardboard can be turned into boxes, chipboard, and kraft paper used in grocery bags. The nearest receiving station for recycling cardboard is in Central Lake.

High grade paper such as computer paper, office paper, and stationery is stored in boxes and kept free of contamination. It is de-inked and made into new bond paper. Other household paper such as advertising mail and construction paper, is also put in boxes. This is recycled into tissue paper and packaging material. Such papers are also accepted at the Central Lake station.

Aluminum products such as cans, foil, TV dinner trays, pie plates, lawn chairs, and even screen doors, can be melted down and made into new aluminum products. There are several places in the area that will accept aluminum for recycling, including one in Charlevoix. The same is true for tin cans, which should be washed and squashed.

Glass bottles and jars are separated into clear, amber, and green by color and all metal caps and rings removed. This glass is crushed, melted, and made into new containers and other products. The nearest receiving station for recycling glass is in Central Lake.

Plastic bottles and containers are recycled into fiberfill for pillows, insulation, ski jackets, new plastic appliance handles, packaging, and plastic lumber, among other items. Unfortunately, collection of plastic in the area is "on hold" for the time-being because there is no recycling facility. However, one is planned for the Boyne Falls area in the near future.

Oil drained from cars, lawn mowers, and other equipment is stored in a clean sealed container such as a milk jug. It can be taken to one of several service stations in the area, from where it will be collected for re-refining and re-use.

All yard wastes such as grass clippings and leaves are composted. This is an operation whereby the material is placed in a pile, turned periodically and allowed to decompose slowly. The compost material becomes a rich soil conditioner. Compost piles need not be restricted to yard waste; such household wastes as vegetable and fruit peelings, coffee grounds, and tea leaves, egg shells, wood ashes, and even floor sweepings may be added to the pile with good results.

tions," Bailey recalls, "and I left with over $16,000 in checks and pledges. That is how supportive the business community has been."

Individuals were also most helpful. One man has been sending $100 each month, and pledged to continue until the project was completed. Several people sent contributions in lieu of Christmas gifts to family members last year. Several children sent their birthday gift money.

"And then there were the Charlevoix Fourth Graders," Bailey said. "I picked up the Charlevoix Courier one day and saw that these students had written dozens of letters to the editor urging people to support the North Point project and promising to sponsor a play as a benefit for the effort." The play raised nearly $4,000 for the project, and as Bailey puts it, was a high point of the fundraising effort.

"The people of this area deserve a tremendous amount of credit for pulling together to give the project nearly universal support," Bailey said.

The property will be turned over to Charlevoix Township, which will operate it as a public nature preserve. The Township Board, Bailey pointed out, was instrumental in making it possible to preserve North Point. Local legislators Ralph Ostling and Mitch Irwin also deserve credit for insuring that the $400,000 state grant cleared the state House and Senate.

"Everybody has been a key player in this effort," Bailey said. "Everybody can share in this great success, and everybody is a winner. It has been a privilege to be involved in such a successful effort."

The actual purchase of the property is expected to take place before the end of 1988. Formal dedication ceremonies are being planned for early spring or summer, and the construction of a nature trail on the property, funded by the Drenth Family and the Jeff Drenth Memorial Fund, is expected to begin in the spring.

THE MAYOR'S CORNER

On Tuesday, November the 8th, the biggest number of voters in Charlevoix's history went to the polls to elect their mayor.

679 persons voted for me ... and I fully appreciate their confidence in me. 679 is a lot of people ... I will in the future endeavor to repay that kind of support. I have enjoyed the last 22 months.

974 persons voted for Mr. Probert. I am sure he will do the best he can for our city. I congratulate him for the big majority he received. And I hope all of those 974 persons are my friends too.

547 persons stayed away from the polls. Very difficult to understand their reasons. Perhaps they lack confidence in our system of government. But their non-participation only contributes to the problem and not the solution.

As an ex-mayor I will continue to work on other community projects. Only an ex-mayor fully realizes how many things can be done to make Charlevoix a better place to live. Thanks to everyone.

DDA considers timetable

Although not enough members showed up for a quorum at a Downtown Development Authority (DDA) meeting last Thursday afternoon, an informal discussion was held by the DDA members who did make it for the meeting.

DDA member Jeff Porter recommended that the school board be given an anticipated date of when DDA projects will be fully funded and therefore the tax capture will end.

At a joint meeting in late October which involved the school, county, city council and DDA, school business manager Vince Olach said that although school administrators have no problem with the concept and philosophy of the DDA, they need to know when it will end so they can plan their budget accordingly.

At that meeting, city officials said there are so many variables that it is difficult to give an exact date, but they estimated in the mid 1990's.

At last Thursday's meeting, Porter spoke in favor of a somewhat more specific date and indicated that he feels projections can be made to come up with such a date.

When the DDA terminates, the school district will end up getting much of the tax revenue which currently funds DDA projects such as new sidewalks and parking lots.

residential trash is paper products, 47 percent; metal, seven percent; wood, six percent; food waste, six percent; yard waste, 10 percent; plastics, seven percent; glass, five percent; and other, 12 percent. With the recycling efforts noted above, it is obvious the Sandersons "value this planet".

The Sandersons have prepared a list of places where various materials may be taken for recycling. Call them at 582-7592 for their "Recycle Guide".

A movement to provide community compost sites, especially for leaves, is just beginning in the Charlevoix area. Karen Joy, president of the Women's Fellowship of the Congregational Church, has written the County Board of Commissioners, with copies to city officials, noting that Governor Blanchard is considering legislation to eliminate all yard waste from landfills and to ban leaf burning.

If, instead, leaves and other yard wastes are composted, the compost material could be available for public landscaping projects, nurserymen, and gardeners, Mrs. Joy suggests. There are also other advantages to such a compost project, she points out: "Composting and recycling will not only save us money in the long run, but will extend the life of our limited landfill and prevent toxic substances from entering into our lakes, our economic lifeblood."

... parking lot favored

Public reaction triggered the council to take a second look at the business proposal. Some residents opposed the lot split, saying council should follow through with its original intentions of developing the parking lot. Representatives of the DDA encouraged the city to salvage the home which was built approximately in 1864.

During Monday's work session, council discussed the lot split again. Councilman Bill Haggard was the only one in favor of saving the home from demolition. A formal vote, expected to be taken during that account.

According to City Treasurer Richard Brandt, the money was deposited into the escrow account when the city and Star Line entered into an agreement to complete dock improvements for the dinner cruise ship, the Star of Charlevoix. Release of the funds, which was expected to be done in June, must be approved by Star Line. The release of funds is contingent, in part, on an proposal which calls for 25-50 percent investment in the Star of Charlevoix by a local network.

Earlier this year, that local network — the Star of Charlevoix Committee — attempted to pool together approximately $225,000. Because the committee had only 10 days to raise the funds, its efforts fell short by $90,000, according to Harold Krutsch, a committee member and president of the Charlevoix Convention and Visitors Bureau.

Krutsch added the committee requested additional time to raise the investment funds. Richard Georgi, also a committee member, said the city unofficially agreed to a February extension. Georgi added without local investment the continuation of Star of Charlevoix operations might be jeopardized.

Treasurer Brandt, Krutsch and Georgi agreed any concern regarding the city attorney's maintenance of the escrow account is misdirected. Any transfer of funds would have to be approved by John McGoff, owner of Star Line.

"The bigger issue is keeping the Star in Charlevoix," Georgi said Tuesday.

VanTreese, who is not required to attend council work sessions, said Tuesday the funds must remain in the escrow account until he receives direction from both the city and Star Line. He added the funds are kept in an account at First State Bank. At present, VanTreese in the process of reviewing ways to transfer the escrow funds into an interest-bearing account such as certificates of deposit.

That transfer, however, cannot be completed without city and Star Line approval. VanTreese added the city originally deposited the money into his firm's escrow account because it was already established and a convenience to the city.

Seychelles (pronounced Seashells)... and I venture a bet that if the islands proved worth owning, we would find that England owned them. Sure enough... they are a Crown Colony of England... definitely a Fisherman's Paradise where big game fish abound; sailfish, dolphin, barracuda, bonito, and kingfish." He adds, "There is good scientific support for the theory that the 28 granite islands are the tops of mountains on the lost (submerged) continent of Atlantis and that the Garden of Eden was located here..."

From South Africa he writes casually about the former Premier, "Ever since General Smuts was my guest when he came to Cincinnati in 1921, I have cherished an ambition to visit South Africa." And continues with this vivid description, "However, I did have the rare privilege and honor of a visit with his widow... She received me very simply on the front step (porch) in a farm dress. She wore no stockings and was barefoot except for a light sandal on the bottom of her feet... she is a charming hostess, a very intelligent and well-informed woman and an excellent conversationalist."

He describes a conversation with Frank Shaw, Justice of the Supreme Court of the Province of Natal... "I spent an absorbing two hours with Judge Shaw exchanging information concerning the American and South African legal system... Judge Shaw was shocked to learn that insurance is voluntary in the United States and that many financially irresponsible drivers are permitted to drive an automobile on our highways without insurance. As you know, I have been urging for a quarter of a century the necessity of Compulsory Automobile Insurance in the United States without success except in Massachusetts and Saskatchewan, Canada."

From Rio de Janeiro he describes a Hotel Villa, "a separate building beside an artificial lake where swans and fish swim at one end and men and women at the other end. The room where we ate was decorated like my living room at Charlevoix, with a large ship's wheel hung from the ceiling by an anchor chain with ship's lanterns hanging from the spokes of the wheel."

In the letters, Judge Marx covers not only law, but industry, transportation, architecture, politics, customs, dress, recipes, religion, economy and government. Our Charlevoix Historical Society might well consider accepting this fine, and having copies made available to our high schools students. The material could be used for reference and special assignments.

Also, I wonder, if copies of these letters are stashed away in some corner of a Cincinnati archive? Should any of our readers have knowledge of their whereabouts, I would ap-

FAMILY

Golke -
McDonough

Eileen Golke and Kelly J. McDonough were married October 1 at Christ Lutheran Church in Boyne City.

The bride is the daughter of Lee and Elsie Golke of East Jordan, and the bridegroom is the son of Gretchen McDonough of Charlevoix.

The Rev. Kenneth Bernthal officiated at the double ring rites before approximately 250 guests.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a Victorian style wedding gown fashioned with a high neckline, satin crystal organza bodice with a sheer yoke, puffed long sleeves accented with lace, and a Basque waistline trimmed with tiny beads. The embroidered lace skirt featured ruffles and a cathedral-length train. The bride's headpiece was a picture hat of lace and she carried pink and white roses accented with baby's breath and ivory streamers.

Diane Munk attended the bride as maid of honor, and Lisa McDonough, Kathy Ellis, and Marylou McDonough, all sisters of the bridegroom, and Cheryl Golke, sister-in-law of the bride, were bridesmaids. They wore gowns of daphne rose accented with ruffles, short puffed sleeves, and square necklines. Each carried a long-stemmed rose with baby's breath and pink streamers.

Amanda Marie Ellis served as flower girl, wearing a satin organza pink dress with ruffles and short puffed sleeves. Shawnie McDonough was ringbearer.

Ronnie McDonough, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and Ernie Brodine, Woody Pierson, Clint Blanchard, and Larry Golke, brother of the bride, were groomsmen. Phil Golke, another brother of the bride, and Shawn McDonough, another brother of the bridegroom, were ushers.

Music for the ceremony was furnished by organist Phyllis Hosier, trumpeter Grant Dittmar, and vocalist Stephanie Golke. The latter two are cousins of the bride.

The bride's parents hosted a reception at the Elks Club in Boyne City, after which the new Mr. and Mrs. McDonough departed for a wedding trip to Texas.

The bride is employed in the Building Code Department of Charlevoix County and the bridegroom is a decorator with Doug Eldridge of Charlevoix.

Kellerman -
Schmidt

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kellerman of Bethesda, Maryland announce the engagement of their daughter, Sandra, to Second Lieutenant Steven Schmidt. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schmidt of Charlevoix.

The bride-elect and her fiancé are both graduates of the University of Michigan and are presently making their homes in Del Rio, Texas. She is employed by the Del Rio Counseling Services and he is serving in the Air Force at Laughlin Air Force Base.

The wedding will take place in early spring, after the future bridegroom graduates from pilot training.

CHURCH

Bob Camp

Robert Donald Camp Sr., 65, a summer resident of Charlevoix, died Nov. 8, 1988, at his Midland home.

Funeral was held at Nov. 11 at the Memorial Presbyterian Church in Midland. Dr. Kirk A. Hudson and Rev. Father Greg Schmitt officiated. Burial was in Midland Cemetery.

He was born Dec. 15, 1922, in Midland, the son of the late Hazel Bell Harper and G. Lee Camp. He graduated from Cranbrook School in Bloomfield Hills in 1941 having previously attended Culver Military Academy for four years.

During World War II he served in U.S. Army-Air Force. After military duty he was hired by Dow Chemical Co. He was graduated from Michigan State University with a bachelor of science in business administration in 1951 and returned to Dow Chemical.

In 1954 he founded Camps Cars Inc., an automobile dealership. He served as director and president until his retirement in 1981. He also founded Autohaus-Saginaw Inc., an automobile dealership and served as director and president until his retirement.

He served as director of the Midland National Bank; now CoAmerica Bank-Midland, from 1967 until 1987. He was a former director of Junior Achievement of Midland, former member of Midland Rotary Club, a lifetime member of the Midland Elks Lodge No. 1610 and also a member of the Northwood Institute Automotive Marketing program advisory board.

He was awarded an honorary doctor of laws from Northwood Institute earlier this year.

He was an avid sportsman and longtime member of the Benmark Club, where he served as director and treasurer for many years.

He is survived by his wife, the former Norma Louise Nehil; six children, Robert D. Camp Jr., Saginaw; Cynthia L. Camp, Crested Butte, Col.; David L. Camp and Elizabeth H. Kaweck both of Midland; William T. Camp of Birmingham; and Margaret A. Camp of Washington D.C.; his brother, Harper C. Camp of Midland; half-sister, Cynthia Camp Hayes; two grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials be made to the Midland Foundation or Northwood Institute.

Jens Sorensen

Jens Sorensen, 86, of Norwood, died Nov. 7, 1988, at Grandvue Medical Care Facility, East Jordan.

Funeral services were held Monday, Nov. 14 at the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix. The Rev. N. Stanley McDougal Jr. of the First Christian Church in Petoskey officiated and burial was in Norwood Township Cemetery.

Mr. Sorensen was born Oct. 9, 1902, in Horsens, Denmark. He moved to the United States in 1920 and was employed as a tool and die foreman at Link Belt in Chicago for 45 years, retiring in 1967.

He had summered at Norwood before moving there permanently in 1973.

In the summer of 1974, he married the former Eliza Neill in Chicago. He was a member of the First Christian Church in Petoskey.

Survivors include: his wife; two daughters, Betty Swarthout of Laingsburg, Mrs. Nancy Ciesielsky of Chicago; five grandchildren; four great-grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. Nina Cithens of Horsens, Denmark.

Mr. Sorensen was preceded in death by his first wife, the former Margaret Hull, in 1973 and a daughter Shirlee Johnson in 1978.

The family suggests memorials to the First Christian Church of Petoskey. Envelopes for that purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home.

OF BLESSINGS

by the Rev. Floyd R. Henderson
East Upright Church of God

I've often heard it said that, "Life is in the blood." If there is something wrong with the blood, a lack of flow or infection, then the physical man becomes sick.

If this is true, then prayer is the life of the spirit man. When our prayer life is lacking then our spirit man becomes sick.

No wonder Paul said, "Pray without ceasing." Jesus said, "Men ought always to pray" and the disciples came to Jesus and asked Him to teach them how to pray.

Prayerlessness has plagued our personal lives, cost us many of our children, and produced some powerless churches. It has often made us unable to respond to the challenges of the world because of our prayer starved lives.

We have been willing to do almost everything except pray. Yet, anything we do that is not conditioned by prayer is doomed to the fate of spiritual ineffectiveness.

Christian marriages must be strengthened by prayer. Children must be reared under this practice. Churches must operate through this power. And every ministry must rely upon prayer if it is to glorify God and bless the people.

Talking to men for God is a great thing. But talking to God for men is greater still. God has called each of us to be one of His praying people.

Our churches need praying pastors.

Our schools need praying teachers.

Our families need praying parents.

Our youth need praying examples.

Our nation needs praying leaders.

Oh! How we need to cry out with the disciples of Jesus, "Lord teach us to pray." Will you enlarge your prayer life? Will you increase the time you spend with God each day? Will you be both a participant and example of praying?

If your answer is yes, please covenant with God right now. Dear Father in Heaven, I desire to know you better. I want to spend more time with you. I want to be like Your Son Jesus and so I covenant with You now to increase the time I spend in Your presence every day.

SPORTS

Bball team triumphs

Mark that one down with a big W. Charlevoix's girls basketball team put a game in the win column last week as they soundly defeated Rogers City 47-34.

The Rayder girls took the lead at the beginning and held it to the end, leading at the quarter marks 12-6, 26-15 and 35-27.

The Tuesday night win, coupled with a Thursday night loss to St. Ignace, leaves the Rayders with a conference record of 2-11 and an overall record of 5-13.

Stacy Gebott, who continues to improve as she comes back from a serious knee injury earlier in the season, led the victorious Rayders in scoring with 17 points. Dana Haney threw down a dozen.

The junior varsity team fell to Rogers City by a score of 27-22 despite a nine-point effort by Heather Keller.

Rayders lose to St. Ignace

By TIM HENNE

Charlevoix's girls basketball team lost a close, hard-fought match against St. Ignace last Thursday. Following the game, they were praised by coach Stan Martin for never giving up.

The lead in the first half changed hands continuously as the Rayders, inspired by the hot shooting of Melissa Boss Stacey Gebott and Dana Haney, pulled into the lead.

But despite the high scoring, the action never really picked up until the third quarter when Charlevoix took the lead with two minutes left and, for a minute, appeared to be pulling away. However, the momentum changed hands as followed six unanswered points at the end of the quarter, St. Ignace led 39-33. An early fourth-quarter basket by Gebott started a Charlevoix surge which came to an end due to St. Ignace's solid outside shooting and Charlevoix missing some key rebounds.

Charlevoix was down by nine with 6:30 left in the game. Not letting this stop them, Charlevoix was ignited by a steal by Tricia Sutton and helped by the hot scoring hands of Boss and Gebott.

Charlevoix pulled within four and called a time-out with a minute and forty-five seconds left in the game.

Sadly, the four points proved an unbeatable barrier as, despite another Sutton steal and subsequent basket, the Charlevoix squad couldn't work any closer.

A final pair of St. Ignace free throws made the final score 52-46.

Charlevoix's junior varsity team was also defeated, losing by a score of 49-27. Even though the final score showed them beaten by 22 points, much of the game was a different story.

An inspired Rayder team exchanged slim leads with the 19-0, talented Saints and until early in the fourth quarter, it looked as if the Rayders might take the match.

Consumers donates lights to MacDonald House

Consumers Power Company is donating a year's supply of light bulbs to the Ronald McDonald House in response to a concern raised by an employee of the Big Rock Point nuclear plant. The Ronald McDonald House provides "a home away from home" for families of children receiving medical care at Children's Hospital of Michigan, a referral hospital located in downtown Detroit.

Charles F. "Gus" Sonnenberg, a senior plant technical analyst at Big Rock Point, alerted Consumers Power management after discovering that the house was in need of new bulbs and was unable to find a benefactor to supply them. He made the discovery during one of several family trips to Children's Hospital for surgery on his newborn grandson, Benjamin Saunders.

The child has undergone six operations at the hospital since his birth on March 31 of this year. The first surgery took place soon after Benjamin was born at Northern Michigan Hospitals in Petoskey. Since then, Sonnenberg's daughter and grandson have spent more than a month's time at the Detroit hospital while the many surgical procedures were being performed.

The Ronald McDonald House has provided the family with housing during their Detroit trips. "It's a marvelous service," said Sonnenberg. He noted that the house, located next to the hospital, provides home-style accommodations and a supportive environment that help families cope with the traumas of severe childhood illnesses.

In operation since 1979, the facility serves approximately a thousand families a year. It has 20 sleeping rooms and kitchen facilities where families may prepare their own meals. Its charge for an overnight stay is a nominal $7 — an amount which can be waived for needy families. The house receives the majority of its support from fundraisers and private donations.

The Big Rock Point employee said he was confident that Consumers Power Company, with its strong record of community

Gus Sonnenberg, a local man who works at the Big Rock Point nuclear plant, holds his grandson Benjamin Saunders. Sonnenberg and Ben played a role in Consumers Power donating $600 worth of light bulbs to a support, would make a contribution to help the facility. "If I didn't think they felt that way, I never would have asked them," he said. The request was quickly approved by company management and the bulbs — 350 of them valued at about $600 — were delivered recently.

New twist to Hayes Twp. case

by PEG OHLE

When the pages of the calendar are turned to 1989, Fox & Associates and Hayes Township may be ending their fifth year of trying to come to terms on development of Fox's property on Oyster Bay.

It all started on April 17, 1984, when Fox presented to Hayes Township plans for a Planned Unit Development on its 337 acres with 2,800 feet of shoreline on the former Camp Charlevoix property. The plans called for 32 buildings with 228 condominium units, 106 on the lakefront and the rest offshore along a proposed 128-hole golf course. The plans also included provisions for 66 boat slips.

The township objected to the large number of buildings, so on May 15, Fox presented revised plans. These plans called for 27 buildings with 168 condominium units. The number of boat slips remained the same, at 66.

These plans were also rejected by Hayes Township, citing Section 5.13 of its zoning ordinance, which permits only "one slip or dock space for each 100 feet of lake frontage, or lake access of more than one single family living unit for each 100 feet of lake frontage."

Hayes Township counter-proposed with a Planned Unit

Development of 126 units, 28 of which would have lake access (one per 100 feet of lake frontage) and 28 boat slips (again, one per 100 feet of lake frontage).

Fox said this proposal was not acceptable to the company because the economic feasibility of the Planned Unit Development Plan depended on condominium units having lake access.

No further action was taken for some time, then in January, 1985, Fox filed suit against Hayes Township. The suit contended that Section 5.13 of the township zoning ordinance "limits and deprives the Plaintiff of its riparian rights in and to the navigable waters of Lake Charlevoix", and further, it was not written under the provisions of the Township Zoning Act, so does not apply.

In October, 1985, the Circuit Court of Cheboygan County (to which the case was assigned) ruled the Hayes Township Zoning Ordinance to be valid.

This decision was followed by Fox's appeal to the Michigan Court of Appeals. In September, 1987, this Court held that the Michigan Township Zoning Enabling Act does not authorize townships to regulate or limit boat dockage construction or riparian access rights. It also struck down Section 5.13 of the Hayes Township Zoning Ordinance limiting waterfront access.

The Court of Appeals' decision was followed almost immediately by a leave to appeal to the Michigan Supreme Court. This Court agreed to hear the case but has not yet rendered its opinion.

Now, almost at the end of 1988, Fox and Hayes Township have appeared to be virtually ready to settle the lawsuit and reach an agreement on plans for a smaller Planned Unit Development. However, Sally Ginn, who owns property near the Fox property, and who has been an intervenor in the case since Circuit Court hearings, has apparently become a deterring factor.

At its last meeting, the Hayes Township planning commission approved Fox's plans for a 16-unit housing unit development and marina. As presented, this development would take up 52.9 acres of the 338 acres Fox owns, and another 283.7 acres would be set aside for a recreational area. Since much of the property is classified as "wetland" recreational use is the foremost permitted use for it.

City gets walk grant

Charlevoix has received a $17,500 grant from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources for the Pine River Trail underpass.

The project involves the design and construction of a U.S. 31 underpass along the south side of the Pine River channel. When completed, it will connect the downtown area to Lake Michigan.

According to City Manager Mike Weisner, the coastal management grant is a 50 percent matching award.

"It was recommended by the DDA," Weisner said. "What it will do is reduce the ultimate expenditures of the project."

The walkway will eliminate street traffic and create pedestrian access from Memorial Park to the lakefront which is one of the downtown development authority's goals, Weisner said. Anticipated completion of the project is expected to be September 1989.

Approval of the grant was announced by State Rep. Ralph Ostling, R-Roscommon, and State Sen. Mitch Irwin, D-Sault Ste. Marie.

This was the second state grant the city has received in recent weeks. Charlevoix also won a $75,000 grant to pave the road in the industrial park north of Mercer Boulevard. That grant was awarded by the Michigan Transportation Economic Development Fund.

Beatty joins school board

Local attorney Scott Beatty has been appointed to fill a vacancy on the Charlevoix School Board created by the resignation of Elaine Martin.

Beatty will serve out the remainder of Martin's term, which expires in June of next year.

Martin, who was vice president of the board, resigned due to a job transfer. An employee of First State Bank of Charlevoix, she recently was assigned to the bank's Boyne City branch which makes it difficult for her to attend school board meetings, particularly special meetings during the day. Beatty came to Northern Michigan 10 years ago as Charlevoix County's prosecuting attorney. Currently, he has a private law practice.

He has been active in the community and is a member of the Lions Club and serves on the board of the Charlevoix Schools Enrichment Foundation.

Beatty and his wife, Kathleen, have two children, Jesse, 12, and Alison, 10, who are enrolled in the Charlevoix school system.

... Hayes Twp. twist

However, final township approval of this plan rests on Fox's approval of a consent agreement between the company and the township in which Fox would dismiss all counts of the lawsuit except a $10,001 request for damages. (This would keep Fox's lawsuit before the Supreme Court so the legality of the Hayes Township Zoning Ordinance can be determined once and for all—which the township wants to accomplish because of the far-reaching ramifications of a decision one way or the other).

Another component of the proposed agreement is "anti-funneling" provisions which would limit use of the waterfront and marine to families, guests, and invitees of property owners.

But Mrs. Ginn is asking for additional stipulations: Restrictions on any type of activity within several hundred feet of her property, her release from all damage claims, and inclusion of certain Planned Unit Development language in the agreement. Hayes Township attorney William McTaggart has suggested to the Township Board that these additional stipulations be added to the agreement, and this has been done. Now, Richard Fay, a Fox vice-president, has stated his company will not sign the agreement with the Ginn provisions.

There the case rests, but it is still possible it could all be settled before 1989.

attest, the Democrats are perfectly capable of picking that type of candidate on their own without any help from the Republicans.

Not that the Republicans are innocent in this matter. To the best of my knowledge, they've gone along peacefully with the process leading to closed primaries and preference forms. If they can reap a few benefits and blame any drawbacks on the Democrats, I'm sure that's OK by them.

The real snag in the closed presidential primary and preference form system is that it doesn't stop the crossover vote anyhow. Up until 30 days prior to the presidential primary, a voter can change party preference. In other words, a voter can still cross over, he just has to plan it in advance.

The solution is to throw the presidential primary in with the others and have one open primary. Voters would still not be allowed to split their tickets, therefore if they crossed over to sabotage a presidential primary, they wouldn't be able to vote for candidates from their own party in all of the other races.

This would eliminate the need for the party preference form which is really nothing more than another infringement on our privacy by political bureaucrats.

VanTreese is bound over on drug charges

City attorney Jeffery VanTreese has been bound over to circuit court on cocaine charges following a district court preliminary examination Tuesday.

Three witnesses testified at the preliminary examination.

Two of the witnesses, Kurt Stoner and Mary Thuss, were former clients of VanTreese. They testified that during the time they faced drug charges and were clients of VanTreese, they gave him cocaine, either for cash or for credit toward legal fees.

The third witness was Charlevoix County prosecutor Kraag Lieberman. Lieberman would normally prosecute Charlevoix County drug cases, but earlier was allowed to withdraw from the VanTreese case. Cheboygan County prosecutor Joseph Kwiatkowski was appointed to prosecute the VanTreese case.

Following Stoner and Thuss' testimony, Lieberman told of two meetings between himself and VanTreese. Both took place in Lieberman's office, the first on May 3, 1988 and the second June 8.

Lieberman tape recorded both meetings, and said he didn't think VanTreese knew the meetings were being recorded.

Kwiatkowski asked to either have the tapes played in court or have transcripts of the tapes read.

VanTreese's attorney, Richard Kraus of East Lansing, objected and subsequently moved to suppress the tapes as evidence. Among other things, he contended that VanTreese had a reasonable expectation of privacy during the meetings.

Kwiatkowski disagreed.

At one point in the May 3 meeting, VanTreese asked Lieberman if he could talk to him off the record. Lieberman responded, "Sure. Shut the door (to Lieberman's office)."

Based on that statement, 90th District Court Judge Harvey Varnum ruled that the portion of the May 3 meeting occurring after that exchange would be inadmissible. However, all parts of the May 3 meeting prior to that and all the June 8 meeting tape and transcript were admissible.

Kwiatkowski asked for the June 8 meeting tape to be played in court or for the transcript to be read. Lieberman also indicated he was willing to have the transcript read.

Kraus suggested that rather than playing the tape or reading the transcript out loud, the transcript be given to the judge for him to review. That is what ended up being done.

Although the complete transcript wasn't read, Lieberman's testimony indicated much of what it contained.

He said VanTreese's name had been raised in grand jury hearings and at the May 3 meeting, VanTreese talked about police officers contacting his clients and former clients and asked if Lieberman had any control over that.

Lieberman added that VanTreese acknowledged receiving drugs from Thuss and asked if something could be done to stop the process leading toward an indictment or if the matter could be handled in a manner short of indictment.

According to Lieberman, at the June 8 meeting, VanTreese again acknowledged receiving drugs from Thuss, but said that was the extent of his involvement.

Stoner said he first retained VanTreese in 1987 for a matter unrelated to drug charges. In early September of 1987, Stoner's business and residence were searched for drugs and Stoner again retained VanTreese.

According to Stoner, VanTreese indicated to him that Thuss had exchanged cocaine for legal fees and that something could also be worked out on his legal bill.

Stoner said that on four occasions in September of 1987, he gave cocaine to VanTreese, three times for credit toward legal fees and once for $500 in cash. Three exchanges occurred in Charlevoix, the fourth in an elevator at a parking garage outside a Lansing restaurant.

Stoner was arrested in early October of 1987 and spent almost a month in jail. He said that while in jail, he drew a map showing where he had buried some cocaine and gave that to VanTreese.

Thuss said that she provided cocaine and occasionally marijuana to VanTreese beginning in 1986 while VanTreese was representing her on drug charges.

She said VanTreese she would either take the drugs to him at his office on Belvedere Avenue or he would come to her home on Huribut Street and she would run it out to his car.

She estimated there were approximately 15 transactions and said the most cocaine she gave VanTreese at any one time was an "eight ball" (3.5 grams).

At the examination's conclusion, Varnum ordered VanTreese bound over to circuit court where he will appear before judge Robert C. Livo, of Cheboygan who has been appointed to handle the case.

City to ask cruiseship for escrow account funds

Charlevoix City Council will give the Star Line Corp. 10 days to release about $87,000 held in an escrow account or it will begin court action to secure those funds.

Under the advisement of City Attorney Jeffery VanTreese, council agreed to request the money be released to the city. The decision was made in the absence of city manager Mike Welsner who was on vacation.

The money has been sitting in an escrow account for several months and was deposited as a good faith measure between Star Line and the city. The funds, remitted by Star Line, were to be released upon the satisfactory completion of dock improvements made by the city. Because the dock improvements were completed months ago, some Charlevoix residents including Billie Smith and Charles Papineau, approached council to determine if and when the city will receive those funds.

But a Star Line corporation, which has the power to release the funds, does not exist and may not exist unless a group of local investors raise 50 percent to match a commitment. The matching shares represent approximately $225,000.

When Star Line was approached in 1987 to return its cruise ship to Charlevoix, its owner John McGoff was hesitant to assume full ownership of the business venture. At that time, the chamber of commerce and

Ahead-lines

Christmas tree lighting in park

Even though it's more than a week away and it probably won't be an earth-shattering event, it's something which could develop into a nice community activity and may be worth making plans to attend.
An effort is being made to initiate a pleasant community tradition.
At 5:30 p.m. Dec. 1 the people of Charlevoix are invited to come to East Park and join in lighting up the community Christmas tree.
There will be free hot chocolate and doughnuts and members of the high school band will provide music for caroles. It is meant to be a simple and warm event, lasting approximately half an hour.

Following the lighting ceremony, those who want to are invited to a post-tree-lighting gathering at the Weathervane.
Organizers of the tree lighting ceremony are anxious to have the entire community involved, but particularly the community's children. From 3 p.m. to 5 p.m., prior to the lighting ceremony, children are invited to bring ornaments and place them on the tree. The city electric department is going to bring their bucket truck down to the park and will take children up to place ornaments on the higher parts of the tree.
This year Charlevoix has a new community Christmas tree. It is beautiful Colorado blue spruce which was donated by Dave Norton.
The old community tree really never established itself and flourished in the park so it was transplanted to Mount McSaub.
Organizers of the Christmas tree lighting ceremony hope the new tree and the ceremony take root and grow to become pleasant parts of Charlevoix's holiday season.

blem drinkers. For more information call 547-9184.

Council votes to demolish house at 108 Clinton

A 110-year-old home will be demolished and part of a lot at 108 Clinton Street will be developed for public parking.
That was the decision MADE by city council following a public hearing Monday. The vote ended months of opposing viewpoints brought forward by the downtown development authority, the Charlevoix Historical Society and residents who favored a sale of the home to commercial bidders Norm and Sharon Lawson. Although council agreed to demolish the building and move forward in developing the public lot, a 40-foot front section of the Clinton property has been reserved for possible sale in the future. During Monday's hearing, however, council rejected the Lawsons' purchase bid of $45,625. Originally, the Lawsons hoped to purchase a front section of the lot on which the home exists.

The Lawsons planned to renovate and develop a gift shop. When opposition developed in favor of leveling the home, the Lawsons also offered to move the home forward on the lot.
But council voted to demolish the home.
Casting a lone vote in opposition of the demolition was Councilman Bill Haggard. Haggard did draw some support from Councilman Earl Muma who asked council to follow the guidelines of the city's master plan.

That master plan calls for development of multi-level parking structures placed in strategic areas of the city. But Jeff Porter of the downtown development authority requested council also consider the DDA plan. That plan calls for internal parking lots dotted throughout the business district. Surrounded by blocks of historical, city-owned or commercial buildings, the plan was designed to conceal vast spaces of black-topped lots.

"I would say probably about

...Charlevoix wants cruise ship funds

the Charlevoix Convention and Tourist Bureau, indicated a 50 percent local matching investment could possibly be raised.

While local investors worked to match McGoff's investment, the city entered into an agreement with Star Line. Although a dock lease was proposed, council emphasized Monday that agreement was never executed. The original proposal called for the city to provide municipal dock space. In return, the city would have received 1 percent but not less than $5,000 from the dinner cruise operations.

In lieu of the lease, the city and Star Line later entered into the dock improvement agreement. Instead of the 1 percent annual return, Star Line agreed to pay the city $90,000 for dock improvements. That amount was deposited in May in the escrow account maintained by city attorney VanTreese, pending completion of the docks. Final cost of the improvements came out to be $87,000.

During Monday's council meeting, VanTreese said the investment commitment has no bearing on the city's $90,000 agreement.
The issues are separate ones, VanTreese said. He advised council to request release of the $87,000 from the law firm which represents Star Line.
Charlevoix resident and accountant Bob Hoffman explained the corporation does not exist because a network of local investors has not been successful in raising 50 percent of its share -- a commitment which was made to Star Line when it was requested to return the paddlewheel to Charlevoix in 1988.
"The Star Line was willing to invest up to 50 percent for the cost of the project," explained Hoffman. "(They) wanted the local people of Charlevoix to also put up 50 percent."

Hoffman said several attempts have been made to pool together approximately 35 investors to raise about $225,000. When initial attempts failed earlier this year, city council during a work session agreed to a time extension for the local efforts and to leave the money in the escrow account as a good faith measure. If the local share is met, a Star Line corporation will be formed.
If council members were surprised by the non-existent corporation, they did not reveal it during Monday's meeting. Councilman Earl Muma did ask for clarification of when the extension agreement was reached between the city and the local investor group.
Councilwoman Shirley Roloff said the extension was granted during an informal discussion at a council work session. The extension was not discussed during regular council meetings.
The extension, according to some council members, merely allows the local group to continue its efforts to secure matching funds. Without that match, Charlevoix may lose the Star Line tourist attraction. The summer cruise schedule was cancelled in 1987.
The investment group requested an extension until February 1989 to raise the funds. Although some residents thought the local efforts had died, Hoffman said an investment effort is still under way. Last week, Harold Kruttsch of the Charlevoix convention bureau verified those efforts were still under way.

Sounds I will remember

It's a small thing, but I think I will always remember the sounds I listened to late last Thursday night.

I was camped in a big tent in the middle of the Upper Peninsula wilderness with nine other hunters. That particular night, I was last hunter to hit the bunks. After settling into my sleeping bag and wrestling my pillow around to get it just the way I wanted, I fell still.

In the blackness of the tent, there is nothing to see. So I just listened.

Snoring. Lots of snoring. Not just a single brand of snoring, but a variety.

Some hunters snore constantly, every time they inhale it's another long snore. Other snorers can't be counted on. Without warning, they take breaths off.

"Snnoore."
"Snnoore."
"..."

What happened? Did he die in his sleep?
"Snnoore."
He lives.

Other snorers double clutch. They initiate a snore fully intending to do a complete job and carry it through to its rightful conclusion. But in mid-snore, they find they have to pause to catch their breath and then must start anew.

As I rested in bed last Thursday night, in the midst of this symphony of snores, there came an instant between snores when I detected a different sound.

Outside the tent, somewhere far off in the woods, I could hear a faint and distant sound of coyotes barking and yipping. They weren't howling, like in some old western movie, they were barking and yipping like they were excited, maybe chasing a deer or something.

I put my ear close to the side of the tent and felt a coolness on my cheek. I listened... listened... listened as closely as I could.

In a tent in the middle of a big woods in the Upper Peninsula I held my breath and kept still, listening, listening for all I was worth.

It may seem a small thing, but at the time it was enough for me and it was everything I was doing. For a brief moment, I had but one concern in life and that was nothing too burdensome. In the darkness, I alone strained to sort out the coyote's yip from the hunter's snore.

This tent in the woods was what nine other hunters and I called home for the past week. It might look a little primitive from the outside, but it has a fuel oil heater, gas stove and a portable generator for lights and kept us warm and comfortable during both rain and snow showers.

CLOCKWISE

BOB CLOCK

Educational dread

I have a confession to make. Like Calvin of the comic strip Calvin & Hobbes, I, too, used to enjoy wonderful fantasies about the destruction of my grammar school.

A few weeks ago, Calvin's artist, Bill Watterson, had his young renegade fantasizing about bombing his elementary school into oblivion.

Calvin, as you may have guessed, doesn't care much for school, since it keeps him from swashbuckling around the universe with Hobbes, his stuffed tiger.

However, a Detroit pastor thinks the Detroit Free Press should not have run the elementary school strip because it might give bad ideas to Detroit's young people — kids who certainly don't need any help from adults when it comes to manufacturing trouble.

Yet that particular comic strip was harmless, since it only underscored the feelings about school that already are rampant among little boys.

When I was a kid I had a recurring fantasy that my elementary school in Detroit would burn to the ground overnight.

Many mornings I woke up convinced that the school — Marr Elementary at the corner of Roosevelt and Grand River — had burned, leaving only a few sections of yellow brick wall rising out of the smoking rubble. The picture was so vivid that I can see it today.

"But what if it hasn't burned?" I would worry to myself as I laced on my high-top boots. "What if — when I get down to Grand River — the school is still standing and I'll have to spend another whole day inside with teachers and books? What will I do then?"

To delay finding out, I would dawdle over breakfast, dress as slowly as possible and then head off for school at a leisurely pace.

I wanted to put off as long as possible the sobering knowledge that the school was still standing.

If I continued straight down our street — Larchmont — to Grand River, I could have learned the truth in two or three minutes. Instead, I would take a circuitous route through an alley next to a Detroit Edison Co. substation. Once behind the building I would do a balancing act on a guard rail around several huge grey transformers humming like captured dinosaurs behind a chain link fence.

There were lots of signs warning me not to do walk on the guard rail or get close to the transformers. But rules and regulations were part of the world I disliked. Besides, who's afraid of dinosaurs?

Finally, curiosity would get the better of me and I would step out onto Grand River only to discover my school was still standing — as eternal as the pyramids.

Time after time the grim sight of that detested schoolhouse destroyed my day even before it began.

Did I really hate school that much?

Probably so, because not being in school was so much better than being there.

My chagrin at having to attend school grew so bad that I actually looked forward to the deaths of family members — like great uncles and aunts — because I would usually be yanked out of school to attend — Tra-la! Tra-la! — their funerals.

Give me a good old funeral feast to a spelling bee any day of the week.

Teachers were a big part of the trouble. I had one old babe in the sixth grade who used to jump on a good friend of mine who had trouble differentiating between the words "pen" and "pin." If he had a chance to misuse either one he would, sending the teacher into a frenzy.

I always felt so sorry for him I wanted to crawl under my desk.

She didn't like me either because I spent a good deal of time day-dreaming about being outside. My mother was called to school so many times that year that she bought a lunch ticket.

French philosopher Jean-Jacques Rousseau thought education was wasted on little boys, maintaining that they would learn more and be better adjusted socially if they were turned loose to grow up in the streets.

Having been a little boy myself, I think Jean-Jacques was onto something.

So would Calvin, if he ever gets his time machine back to the 20th century.

Volunteer labor important to bandshell

Dear Editor,
Recently the Superintendent of Streets was asked to have three or four of his men to volunteer their time working on the Band Shell project. Well... it turned out most of the city employees wanted to help... fifteen of them, from all the various city departments... ambulance, fire, electrical, sewer and water plants... also the street department.

It was really an exciting example of doing something good for the community.

After their regular shifts and on Saturdays they were there in the rain and muck. They are the first persons to donate their labor toward the building of the Clarence Odmark Band Pavilion. Others — carpenters, cement workers, electricians, plumbers and painters — will when needed, will also want to share their time to complete the project.

The labor of these fifteen men did not cost a dime. Translated into cash, their contributions in kind could be valued at $2,000 plus. They included: Scott Blanchard, Bill Brodin, Wayne

Also excavating contractors Hugh Lambert, Jodi Gibbons and Ken Mousseau, with their trucks and themselves joined hands with the city employees, a big assist.

The whole city applauds this kind of cooperation, and particular myself appreciates this effort to reduce the final cost of the new Band Shell.

Exchange student from Denmark

by PEG OHLE

Karina Stokholm talked to several young people who had been exchange students in the United States before she decided to leave her native Denmark and spend a year studying here.

Majoring in languages, last year Karina studied German, English, Danish, and French, along with math and science and music. She decided that coming to the United States would improve her English speaking ability and also be a good educational experience in general.

She is glad she is at Charlevoix High School. "I am having a good time. I really like it," Karina says of her "adoptive home", her school work, and her friends.

Karina is living with Richard and Lee Ann Burdette in Clippervue, south of Charlevoix.

Another exchange student, Inga Meissner from Hamburg, Germany, lives nearby, so she has a companion for traveling back and forth to school, and for other activities.

Karina and Inga ride a bus to school, which means early rising. Karina gets up at 5:20 to be ready for the school bus at 6:50. "At home, I got up at 7:15," she says wistfully.

When asked what she does in her spare time, Karina indicated she doesn't have much spare time. School, after school activities, dinner, school work, then to bed to get up early the next morning is her usual routine, she said.

At school, she is studying English, sociology, performing arts, French, and music. She also plays the cornet in the school band and was a member of the girls' cross country team. This winter, Karina will participate in the ski program and next spring she will go out for either track or softball. "But probably softball", she says.

Karina's school clothes at Charlevoix High are about the same as she would wear at home. We saw her in an oversize white top and faded blue jeans. "I have regular blue jeans, too," she told us.

Karina's home is in Karlslunde, Denmark, a suburb about 18 miles south of Copenhagen. Her father teaches technology subjects, including computer operations, and her mother is secretary in a hospital. Karina's brother was celebrating his 18th birthday the day after we talked with her. "Yes, I'm going to call him to wish him a happy birthday," she answered our question, "but it costs so much."

As in American suburban towns, most of the people in Karlslunde work in Copenhagen, in offices, shops, or industry, Karina explained.

Karina admits to being a little homesick earlier in the year but says she is now too busy to think about it. However, she will miss her family at Christmas and last week was trying to decide what gifts to send them: "Something that doesn't weigh too much because it will be expensive to ship them."

Danish people receive their gifts on Christmas Eve and participate in a ceremony of dancing around the Christmas tree. Instead of turkey, duck is usually served for Christmas dinner.

When Karina returns home at the end of the school year, she will begin planning for her three years at the gymnasium (secondary school), where she will prepare for the university. Since she has not yet decided on a career, she does not know what university that will be ("and of course — it depends on your grades.")

But whatever Karina decides to do, she will have a year of happy American living to remember.

This bell carries some of both Charlevoix's downtown and rural history. The bell originally was part of an old swing bridge downtown (see accompanying photo) and rang to warn people when the bridge was about to open.

Historic bell finds home

The Charlevoix Historical Society Museum is now the proud owner of the cast iron bell used on the second steel swing bridge that spanned the Pine River Channel.

This bridge was built in 1901 and served for many years, with the cast iron bell ringing out warnings that the bridge was about to open.

When the bridge was later replaced, the bell was no longer necessary because a horn was part of the new bridge structure. The bell later became the property of Jess Gregory, who operated a dairy farm and creamery near Charlevoix and used the bell to call his hired help to meals.

One of the hired men was Albert (Mick) Cunningham, who later bought the farm and operated it for 47 years, until his death in 1975.

When Cunningham's wife, Helen, sold the farm, she kept the bell and stored it for 13 years, knowing it was part of Charlevoix history.

Now, Helen Cunningham and her daughters Kay (Mrs. Charles) Themm, Janice (Mrs. Dan) Farmer, and Sharon (Mrs. Niel) Woodbury have donated the bell to the museum in loving memory of their husband and father, Albert (Mick) Cunningham.

New organization starts hearts

Three Charlevoix women, Nomi Mol, Marilyn Gibbons and Patty Sitzema are leading an "Operation Heart Start" campaign.

Seeing a community need for a defibrillator to be used with cardio pulmonary resuscitation (CPR) in the event of an emergency such as a heart attack, the women are waging a campaign to raise $20,000 to purchase a defibrillator to be used in the Charlevoix area, plus the purchase of special equipment and supplies.

The women point out that defibrillators are in use by ambulance crews out of Petoskey, Harbor Springs and East Jordan plus all ambulances using the Munson Hospital in Traverse City. The women say using a combination of CPR and a defibrillator can increase the chances of a person surviving a heart attack.

A computerized defibrillator automatically gives instructions to a trained person about steps to take to restore the functions of the heart in the event of an attack. It also makes a tape describing the procedures actually used by the operator. This recorded tape is later analyzed by doctors in an emergency room. The defibrillator device has electrodes that are attached to a patient's chest which will shock the heart back to its regular rhythm.

If a defibrillator is used properly within eight minutes when a person suffers a heart attack, there is a 30-40 percent chance the patient will survive. These emergency steps could prevent severe brain damage.

Persons over 40 years old mostly men, are subject to heart seizures, the committee members say.

All contributions are welcome and pledges will also be honored. All donations are tax deductible, said the women.

Checks or pledges may be mailed to: Nomi Mol, First State Bank of Charlevoix, 111 State St., Charlevoix, 49720.

For more information call 547-5190.

Hospital eyes $7,000 donation

A check for $7,000 was presented to the Charlevoix Area Hospital by Guild President Virginia Rountree to be applied to the purchase of eye surgery equipment.

This donation brings the total raised by the Guild this year to $8,844. The funds represent proceeds from The Showcase Gift Shop at the hospital, annual gift and baked goods sales, and patient TV rental fees. Richard L. Krueger, hospital administrator, said, "We thank all the members of the Guild who worked so hard throughout the year to raise this fine contribution. Each one should be proud of the part they played in making a new service such as eye surgery possible."

The hospital spent over $32,000 to equip the operating room for eye surgery. The addition of two ophthalmologists to the hospital staff made this new service possible.

The Guild volunteers are men and women who together contributed over 6,000 hours of service each year in patient care areas, hospital staff support, and fund-raising. A portion of their funds go toward scholarships for medical careers.

Tip of Mitt to study area groundwater

The Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council has received a $225,615 grant from the W. K. Kellogg Foundation to be used in developing and implementing a comprehensive ground water protection and educational program in Charlevoix, Emmet, and Cheboygan Counties.

The program is designed to improve and protect groundwater quality and human health through heightened public awareness of the resource and protection strategies. It is part of the Groundwater Education in Michigan (GEM) program being carried out through Michigan State University's Institute of Water Research.

"Groundwater contamination has increased dramatically in the last few decades," said Gail Gruenwald, executive director of the Watershed Council.

"Because the vast majority of northern Michigan residents rely on groundwater for their drinking water source, careful management is necessary to avoid serious water supply and public health problems. Cleanup of groundwater contamination is both difficult and expensive; prevention is the key.

"In recent years, municipal water systems in Charlevoix and Petoskey have been found to be contaminated with trichloroethylene (TCE), an industrial solvent. Groundwater contamination has also been found in the sites of old landfills in Littlefield Township, Boyne City, and elsewhere. Unsafe levels of nitrate have been detected in area drinking wells."

The Watershed Council's Groundwater Protection and Education Program will identify existing groundwater problems and inform affected individuals of the possible hazard and recommend alternatives. It will also help prevent future contamination by identifying hazardous situations and activities and by implementing protection programs. Comprehensive public education activities will also educate both adults and children about the importance of protecting groundwater supplies.

Community activities will be coordinated with the local health departments, Cooperative Extension Service, Department of Natural Resources Water Management Division, and the Farm Bureau. The Watershed Council will contract with Science and Environmental Education-North to implement the educational program.

Weathervane Restaurant has been rejuvenated

Charlevoix's famed Weathervane restaurant is flourishing and re-emerging with a distinctive style after its first summer under the owner-management of Stafford Smith.

Long famous for both its cuisine and location, the restaurant on the Pine River Channel was purchased by Smith in early summer. Smith, who also owns the Bay View Inn, north of Petoskey, The Pier in Harbor Springs, and One Water Street in Boyne City, said at the time, that he intended to develop a distinctive menu at the Weathervane, building on its past reputation.

"People are driving here from all over Northern Michigan," marveled Joan Hoffman, dining room hostess, who is part of the new staff at the restaurant. "They say they are coming because they heard Stafford Smith took over."

"The summer was great and the fall has been very busy," agreed Dudley Marvin, president of Stafford's Hospitality. "We're from 50 to 100 percent ahead of last year at this time."

Marvin emphasized that the Weathervane's menu "is evolving. We are looking for community response. We hope the may just drop in for lunch or dinner. We will, however, require reservations for our special Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners," Barrett added. "These are going to be traditional holiday feasts."

The Weathervane's famous planked whitefish remains a menu centerpiece. In the process of creating a distinctive Weathervane style, Chef Bob Lyons and his assistant Lori Flower, have added several new fish dishes, using both fresh Great Lakes and Atlantic coast fish, including a "Marine Sampler" of lobster, perch and scallops. Stafford's already famous "Great Lakes Chowder" is now on the menu.

Complicated dishes such as Veal Lafayette and Chicken Weathervane will develop an informal atmosphere, with a menu broad enough to attract different tastes and pocket books."

Explaining that for the first time in many years the Weathervane will be open daily for lunch and dinner, new manager Chris Barrett noted that in keeping with the casual atmosphere, reservations are not necessary. "We want people to know they

Tosca are complemented by lighter offerings including sandwiches.

"I suggest a combination of appetizers with one of our salads, like the baked brie salad or spinach salad, to people looking for a lighter dinner," Barrett said.

Adding to the atmosphere, the Weathervane's lounge offers a lighter menu and occasional buffets of hors d'oeuvres. A fall special is the "wild game buffet" featuring duck, venison, pheasant, country pate and buffalo sausage.

The new Weathervane staff, headed by Barrett, who moved to Charlevoix from One Water Street, includes Gary Marvin (no relation to Dudley Marvin) of Petoskey, as assistant manager. Marvin is a recent graduate of Central Michigan University's Hospitality Services Department.

Thanksgiving

... A time to reaffirm our faith in freedom and our determination to preserve and cherish it. A Holiday to enjoy the warm tradition of our heritage ... a day to count the blessings of abundance and opportunity that our great land holds for us. Also to express our thanks for the loyalty and confidence you have placed in us as a friend and patron. Truly ... we have much to be thankful for, mostly the chance to serve you.

May your Thanksgiving be joyful and festive.

Charlevoix Twp. considers northside hunting ban

CHARLEVOIX TWP. — Following concerns expressed by some residents in Charlevoix Township, a public hearing will be held to determine if hunting or firearms should be banned in parts of the township.

Township Clerk Carol Martin said the hearing has been scheduled 7 p.m. Monday, Dec. 12. She stressed the restriction was requested only for north Charlevoix Township.

"It's the most heavily populated area and it's getting more and more populated," Martin said.

The request to ban hunting has come on the heels of several complaints from township residents.

According to Martin, no trespassing signs have been torn down in areas of the township where some sportsmen have hunted on private property without permission from owners.

Of major concern is the possibility of stray bullets in a populated area. The suburb-like township borders the city of Charlevoix. Although the Charlevoix Children's House is situated in the Charlevoix city limits, the pre-school lies close to the township boundary. From the school's yard, deer often can be seen roaming in nearby woods located in Charlevoix Township, according to Diane Dryer, president of the nursery school board.

"We are quite concerned about stray bullets," Dryer said. "For several years, it's been our policy not to let the youngsters go outdoors during hunting season. We had even thought about weaving orange plastic paper in the fence."

With some bullets able to travel up to one-half mile, Dryer said the hunting season brings an end to outdoor playtime for more than 30 youngsters. The school's policy has been set as a precautionary measure.

The request for hunting bans did not evolve from the pre-school. According to Township Supervisor Oscar Stroud, the growing fire arms concern has developed, in part, from the growth experienced in the township.

Part of the problem, according to Stroud, is the rapid growth experienced within Charlevoix Township.

"It's more like a suburb ... we've had a lot of growth," Stroud said. "If this ban goes into effect, it won't go in until next year. By then, we'll have seven to nine more homes and a lot more development."

Stroud added much of the development is occurring in wooded areas that once were popular and isolated spots favored by hunters. Stroud and township clerk Martin said the residents' concerns are directed to hunters who may be unaware of ever-increasing residential development.

The request to ban hunting or restrict firearms is not a new issue for the township board. According to Stroud, the issue surfaced several years ago.

Although a committee was appointed by the township, no formal action was taken to ban hunting or restrict firearms. Stroud said the issue pitted sportsmen against residents. Although hunting bans were considered, Stroud said the issue grew more complex.

"Some wanted to restrict bow and arrow hunting, others wanted shotguns, others wanted rifles," Stroud said.

Eventually, Stroud said the issued tapered off and no action was taken. The township continued to operate under its present ordinance. But because of community growth, that ordinance may have to be changed. The decision will be determined during the public hearing.

The present township ordinance falls closely under the guidelines of the Michigan Recreational Trespass Act, according to Jim McMillan, area forester with the Gaylord Department of Natural Resources.

Persons hunting in Charlevoix Township — as in most townships — cannot hunt or shoot a gun within 450 feet of any occupied dwelling or associated building such as a garage, barn or shed. Hunting on private property can only be done if an owner's permission is obtained.

"Even if you shoot a deer but it runs off onto private land, you can't run after a wounded deer unless you've gotten permission," McMillan said.

McMillan added Charlevoix Township may have to enact a new ordinance if it intends to ban hunting within portions of the township. Restriction signs would have to be posted in areas to designate the northern boundaries, McMillan said. Any changes also would have to address a present township ordinance which allows hunting on private property by an owner, occupant or guest.

If Charlevoix Township does institute the hunting ban, it will be the first township to do so in Charlevoix County, according to McMillan. But the ban is not an unusual one, McMillan said. Townships in Emmet, Otsego and other northern counties have implemented similar ordinances.

Supervisor Stroud said the township is prepared to look at all issues of the proposed ban. He was hesitant to label possible township action as a "hunting ban" or "firearms restriction."

The present ordinance, Stroud said, allows trespassing hunters to be arrested.

"But by the time you call to report it, the police can't get there fast enough to catch them," Stroud said.

He added incidents of stray bullets have left their mark on several buildings during recent years. Most of the buildings were sheds or other storage structures.

"I don't know if you'd want to call it a hunting ban or restricting fire arms," Stroud said. "We are not trying to take guns away but it is a control of fire arms."

Stroud anticipates the issue will be discussed throughout the winter months before any action is taken by the township.

VFW Auxiliary meets

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1153 held its business meeting at the post home recently with President Dottie Gilding presiding. Guest of honor was 13th District President Elizabeth Bachman of Gaylord.

Bachman conducted the yearly inspection of floor work, business, and chairman's notebooks.

Reports were given by chairmen showing that members had donated 69 hours of community service at the hospital and Rainbow Shoppe and 110 hours for rehabilitation of service connected families.

The Veterans' Day Dinner was attended by 30 people. Yellow ribbons were tied on the trees outside the post home in remembrance of the POW and MIA veterans. All members are urged to fly the American flags.

Arlene Staley, Cancer Chairman, reported that there is a new supply of the National Auxiliary cancer pins. This year the pins represent the Michigan apple blossom. The pins sell for $12 each and monies collected are used for cancer aid and research.

The Charter was draped in memory of Auxiliary member Minnie Root. It was voted to send a contribution to the VFW Children's Home in Eaton Rapids in honor of Minnie Root. Beverly Plum reported that 39 members had paid their dues for 1989.

Members voted to donate $100 to the Traverse City Hospital for Christmas gifts for the veterans.

The local post and auxiliary will hold its Christmas party on Sunday, December 18, at 1 p.m. All auxiliary and post members, families and friends are invited. Members are asked to bring a dish to pass, their own table service, and gifts for Santa to distribute to their children.

The next business meeting of the auxiliary will be held December 1 at 7:30 p.m.

Historical Society Christmas party

Scharenbroch-Gibbons

Kay Lynn Scharenbroch and Christopher M. Gibbons exchanged marriage vows on Saturday afternoon, October 8, at St. Mary's Church in Charlevoix.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Scharenbroch of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. C. Marilyn Gibbons, also of Charlevoix, and the late Michael A. Gibbons. The bridegroom's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Neff of Charlevoix.

The single ring ceremony in which the bride was given in marriage by her parents, was witnessed by approximately 250 guests. For the occasion, the church pews were marked with white bows and the altar was adorned with arrangements of white spider chrysanthemums, alstramaria, and baby's breath.

The bride wore a traditional white bridal gown fashioned of layers of Chantilly lace, and a matching veil. She carried a bouquet of pink and white roses and baby's breath wrapped with lace and ribbons.

Jayne Scharenbroch served as maid of honor, and Diane, Gail, and Annette Scharenbroch and Judy Scharenbroch Goodeman were bridesmaids. They wore dusty rose satin gowns and carried pink and white roses and baby's breath wrapped with lace and ribbons.

Mike Pischner attended the groom as best man and Kyle Smith served as groomsman. Andre Antinossi and Kurt Puff-paff were ushers.

The bride's parents hosted a reception at the Edgewater Inn in Charlevoix.

The groom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at Nanny's of Charlevoix.

The bride is a 1985 graduate of Ellsworth Community High School and is employed at Charlevoix Area Hospital. The groom is a 1985 graduate of Charlevoix High School and is employed by San Marino Construction.

The newlyweds took a short trip to the Upper Peninsula and plan a trip to Florida at a later date. They are presently residing in Charlevoix.

Jennifer Scharenbroch served as flower girl, wearing a rose-colored dress covered with white lace. It was made by Betty Goodeman.

Music for the ceremony was provided by Evelyn Wojcik, Jeanie Lignell, and Barry and Mary Lee Pischner. The latter two sang "Ave Maria", "The Wedding Song", and "Panis Angelicus".

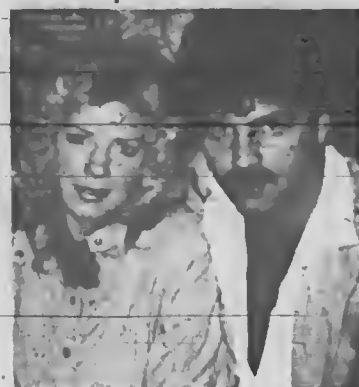

The parents of the bride and bridegroom hosted a reception at the American Legion Hall following the wedding. The bridegroom's mother hosted the rehearsal dinner at Terry's Place. (Photography by Jerry Michrina).

Coen-Erndt

Roger H. and Betty Lou Coen of Charlevoix announce the engagement of their daughter, Sue Ellen Coen to Mark Alan Erndt. He is the son of John H. and Dolores J. Erndt of Linwood.

The bride-elect is a 1983 graduate of Charlevoix High School and is currently employed at LexaLite International Corp.

Her fiancé is a 1978 graduate of Bay City All Saints High School and also is employed at LexaLite. Mark and Sue plan to open a kennel in the area in the near future.

Coen-Erndt

A July 8 wedding is planned at St. Francis Xavier Church in Petoskey.

Chou-Rybicki

Mr. and Mrs. H.C. Chou of Dallas, Texas, and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald W. Rybicki of Charlevoix, announce the marriage of their children, Caroline C. Chou and John H. Rybicki, both of Dallas, Texas.

The couple were married Oct. 11 in Dallas and then honeymooned on San Padre Island. They are now in the process of moving to New Orleans, La., where the groom will continue working as a physicist for Mobil Oil Corp. and the bride will continue working as a pharmacist. They plan to visit the groom's parents in Charlevoix over the Thanksgiving holiday.

Liedtke-Rybicki

Carla Marie Liedtke and Ronald Mark Rybicki were married Aug. 6 at St. Peter's Lutheran Church in St. Louis, Mo. The Rev. Norman Schneider performed the double ring ceremony before 125 guests from Michigan, Wisconsin and Texas.

Parents of the bride and groom are Mr. and Mrs. Karl Liedtke of St. Louis, Mo. and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald W. Rybicki of Charlevoix.

Given in marriage by her mother and father, the bride wore a gown which she designed and made. She carried a silk bouquet of various wild flowers she designed and made in shades of burgundy, dusty pink and white.

Gerrald Rabushka played traditional organ music plus several pieces he composed especially for the wedding. A duet was sung by Beatrice Bafford and Christopher Dain, accompanied on the piano by Gerrald Rabushka.

Katrina Galiti, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and bridesmaid was Linda Haus. They wore dusty rose and light pink gowns. Each carried a bouquet of silk wild flowers of pink, dusty rose and white.

Terry Adamson attended the groom as best man and John Rybicki attended his brother as groomsman. Ushers were Mark Schwallenberg and Andrew Byers.

A reception followed the ceremony in the church parlor.

On Aug. 5, the parents of the groom hosted the rehearsal dinner at Romans in St. Louis.

The bride and groom honey-mooned in Northern Michigan and are now at home in St. Louis where the groom is attending Concordia Lutheran Seminary and working as a computer programmer. The bride works for the Missouri Department of Social Welfare.

New books available at library

The Charlevoix Public Library has recently added many new books to help students do reports for school including a series on how to study, write term papers and do book reports.

Biographies, historical and current personality profiles for reports on Black history were purchased.

Payton, Mister Rogers, Jacques Cousteau and many others.

For high school students the new titles to "Opposing Viewpoints" series include AIDS, China, The Health Crisis, and Religion in America. Another new set of six titles dealing with international issues covers such topics as the Irish civil war, the rise of Solidarity, Israeli-Arab issues and the Vietnam War.

For arm-chair travelers and geography students, a new series on countries such as Nicaragua, Columbia, Jordan, Ethiopia, and South Africa cover geography, history and current political and economic standings of each country.

Many new fiction books, adventure stories, romances and family life have been purchased. Included in these are the latest writings of favorite authors such as Betsy Byars, Ann M. Martin, Donald Sobol, Ellen Conford, Beverly Cleary, Mary Stolz, Irene Hunt, and the newest releases in the American Girls series.

Walker-Olstrom

Ned and Mary Jo Walker of Charlevoix announce the engagement of their daughter Kim Walker to Mitchell A. Olstrom. He is the son of Neil and Lynda Olstrom of East Jordan.

The bride-elect is employed by Wickes Mechanical Components Division in East Jordan.

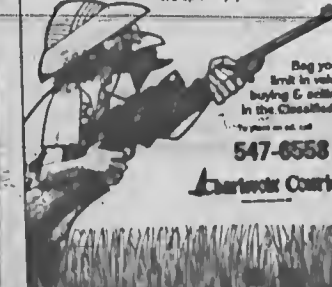

Her fiancé is employed by Harbor Industries in Charlevoix.

An April 22 wedding is planned at the East Jordan United Methodist Church.

Guest speaker at Assembly of God

Motivational speaker and gospel recording artist Sam Farina will be ministering in word and song at Charlevoix Assembly of God Sunday through Wednesday, Nov. 27-30, according to Rev. Lowell Anderson, Pastor.

Farina is specially noted for his unique ability to challenge young people to life-changing decisions in a day when conflicts plague them from every side.

Farina has hosted a daily radio and TV program called Daybreak and has appeared on many television programs. He speaks in high schools, churches, youth camps, conventions and civic club meetings across the nation and Canada.

Farina will be at the Assembly of God, Highway M-66 on Sunday at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. and Monday through Wednesday at 7 p.m. The public is welcome.

Sam Farina

Elton Lawler

Elton Lawler, 87, died Nov. 14, 1988 at his Charlevoix home.

Funeral mass was held Tuesday, Nov. 15, at St. Marys Church, Charlevoix. The Rev. James K. Gardiner officiated and burial was in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery, Southfield.

Mr. Lawler was born Nov. 28, 1900, in Amherstburg, Ontario, Canada, the son of Thomas W. and Helene (Malone) Lawler.

He moved to Detroit in 1915 and married the former Maud E. Unler on Nov. 26, 1920, in Amherstburg, Ontario.

Mr. Lawler worked for Fisher Body as a purchasing agent for 41 years, retiring in 1961.

In 1972, Mr. and Mrs. Lawler moved to Charlevoix from Royal Oak. Mrs. Lawler preceded him in death on May 7, 1986.

Mr. Lawler was a member of St. Marys Church, Charlevoix.

He is survived by: one son, Thomas W. Lawler of Royal Oak; one daughter, Mrs. Virginia Driggett of Harbor Springs; one granddaughter, Elizabeth Kille of Arlington Heights, Ill.; two great-grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to St. Marys Church, Charlevoix.

William D. Garten

William D. Garten, 58, died Nov. 12, 1988, at his Charlevoix home.

Funeral services were held Tuesday, Nov. 15, at the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix. The Rev. James D. Green of the Bible Baptist Church of Charlevoix officiated and interment was in Norwood Cemetery.

Mr. Garten was born Sept. 15, 1930, in South Bend, Ind., the son of Howard and Beatrice (Mac-Donald) Garten. He served in the U.S. Naval Reserves during the Korean Conflict and he married the former Kathryn L. Ort on Oct. 18, 1954, in Elkhart, Ind.

They made their home in Charlevoix since 1962, moving there from Granger, Ind.

Mr. Garten is a former member of the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club.

He founded and owned Great Lake Shipwreck Co. from 1968-1978. He then worked for Inwood Creek Gardens as a gardener. He is survived by his wife; one son, Gregory D. Garten; two daughters, Mrs. Holly Patenge and Debbie S. Garten, all of Charlevoix; two aunts, Mrs. Louise Ogborn and Dorothy Welmer, both of South Bend.

The family suggests memorials to the Michigan Chapter of the National Foundation of Ileitis and Colitis, 17000 West Eight Mile Rd., Southfield, Mich. 48075.

George Toth Sr.

George Toth Sr., 72, died Nov. 20, 1988, at Little Traverse Division, Northern Michigan Hospitals.

Mr. Toth was born May 22, 1916, in Detroit, the son of Stephan and Susanna (Balku) Toth. He married the former Rose M. Illescu on May 21, 1939, in Cleveland, Ohio. The couple resided in Cleveland for 40 years and moved to Charlevoix in 1976. Mrs. Toth preceded him in death on Aug. 8, 1976.

Mr. Toth was a U.S. Army veteran, serving in World War II.

He was a member of Teamsters Local No. 436 in Cleveland, Ohio.

He is survived by: one son, George Toth Jr. of Charlevoix; two daughters, Mrs. Patricia Lutz of Ironton and Mrs. Donna Conley of Elyria, Ohio; 11 grandchildren; one great-grandchild; one brother, Steve Toth of St. Petersburg, Fla., and one sister, Elsie Tatro of Phoenix, Ariz.

The family suggests memorials to the American Cancer Society.

Children at St. Mary's school in Charlevoix along with people from many churches throughout the area lit the first candle of the advent season this past week. Shown lighting the candle is kindergarten student William Wright with help from Father Jim Gardener. Gardener said that for Christianity, the advent season is a time of joyful anticipation leading to a celebration of the birth of Christ.

BLIGHT ELIMINATION ORDINANCE FOR HAYES TOWNSHIP, CHARLEVOIX COUNTY, MICHIGAN

An ordinance to prevent, reduce or eliminate blight, blighting factors or causes of blight within Hayes Township, Charlevoix County, Michigan; to provide for the enforcement thereof; to provide penalties for the violation thereof; and to repeal ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict therewith.

THE TOWNSHIP OF HAYES, CHARLEVOIX COUNTY ORDAINS:

SECTION I: TITLE

This ordinance shall be known and cited as the Hayes Township Blight Elimination Ordinance.

SECTION II: PURPOSE

Consistent with the letter and spirit of the Constitution of the State of Michigan, it is the purpose of this Ordinance to prevent, reduce or eliminate present or future blight, being commonly known as junk.

It is recognized that discarded and/or inoperable material, equipment or vehicles do have value. It is not the intent of this ordinance to take this value from the property owner(s), but to ensure the proper storage of material so as to not create blight. It is recognized that blight, as defined in this Ordinance, detracts from the public health, safety and welfare. Furthermore, blight detracts from the aesthetic value of property which lowers property values and is not consistent with preserving the public welfare.

SECTION III: DEFINITIONS

(A) JUNK CARS:

(1) A junk car is any automobile kept or stored upon any premises for a period of 15 days or more, which is unlicensed and which cannot be operated under its own power, when kept or stored together with two or more additional automobiles upon the same premises which also cannot be operated under their own power, unless all such automobiles are stored within a secured storage building.

(2) A junk car includes one or more automobiles which are otherwise hazardous to the public health, safety and welfare. An automobile is otherwise hazardous when:

(a) stored so that gasoline or oil may leak and enter the ground water; and/or
(b) it has broken windows or sharp, exposed metal which may cause injury; and/or
(c) stored in an unsafe manner, that is, so that the automobile could roll or fall to cause injury, i.e., it is propped or rolled up on its side, flimsily blocked up, or has an unlocked trunk.

An automobile is not hazardous to the public health, safety and welfare when:

(d) stored in a safe manner, i.e., with a latched trunk; upright; glass intact or window openings blocked; adequately blocked up; or securely covered so as to limit access to it; or

(e) stored within a secured storage building.

(B) JUNK: Junk includes dismantled or wrecked automobiles or parts thereof; old or scrap copper; brass; rope; batteries; iron; steel; other old scrap ferrous or nonferrous material; and unused stoves or other appliances. Junk is hazardous to the public health, safety and welfare when:

(1) stored so that sharp edges are exposed or so that material could fall and injure a person or damage property; and/or,

(2) stored in a disorderly manner; and/or,

(3) stored so that a person could be trapped inside and suffocated and/or injured "Junk" is not hazardous when:

(4) stored in a safe, orderly manner so as not to cause injury or damage to a person or property; or

(5) stored within a secured storage building or securely covered or securely fenced.

(C) TRASH, RUBBISH and REFUSE:

Trash, rubbish, and refuse consists of a disorderly accumulation of household items such as kitchen garbage, paper, clothing, furniture, kitchen utensils, radios, televisions, lawnmowers, lamps, carpets, sinks, toilets, bathtubs, showers, rags, batteries, rubber debris, waste, and other similar household items and waste, all of which are declared to be hazardous to the public health when accumulated.

SECTION IV: CAUSES OF BLIGHT OR BLIGHTING FACTORS

It is hereby determined that the following uses and activities are causes of blight or blighting factors which, if allowed to exist will tend to result in undesirable or unsafe neighborhoods. On and after the effective date of this Ordinance, no property owner shall maintain or permit to be maintained any of the following causes of blight or blighting factors upon any property in Hayes Township:

(A) JUNK CARS, as defined in section III (A) hereof; or

(B) JUNK, as defined in section III (B) hereof; or

(C) An accumulation of JUNK, TRASH, RUBBISH OR REFUSE of any kind without a landfill permit, except domestic refuse stored for a period not to exceed fifteen (15) days in such a manner as not to create a nuisance.

SECTION V: ENFORCEMENT AND PENALTIES

(A) This Ordinance shall be enforced by such persons who shall be so designated by the Township Board.

(B) The property owner upon whose property any causes of blight are found to exist shall be notified by personal service or certified mail, return receipt requested, delivery restricted to the property owner. Correction of the violation is to be made within thirty (30) days of service. Additional time up to six (6) months may be granted by the enforcement officer where bonafide efforts to remove or eliminate such causes of blight or blighting factors are in progress.

(C) Violation of this Ordinance shall be a misdemeanor which shall be punishable upon conviction thereof by a fine not exceeding One Hundred (100) Dollars, plus actual costs of the prosecution, or by imprisonment in the county jail for a period not exceeding 90 days, or both, such fines, costs and imprisonment being at the discretion of the court. Each and every day that such violation continues shall be deemed a separate offense.

SECTION VI: REPEALER All ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed only to the extent necessary to give this Ordinance full force and effect.

SECTION VII: SEVERABILITY

Should any section, subsection, clause or phrase of this ordinance be declared by the courts to be invalid, the same shall not affect the validity of the ordinance as a whole, or any part thereof, other than the part so invalidated.

SECTION VIII: EFFECTIVE DATE

The provisions of this ordinance are hereby ordered to take effect 30 days after publication in the manner prescribed by law.

SECTION IX: ADOPTION

This ordinance is hereby declared to have been adopted by the Township Board of Hayes Township at a meeting thereof duly called and held on the 7th day of November, 1988, and ordered to be given publication in the manner prescribed by law.

This ordinance shall become effective 180 days from the date of publication:

Ronald I. Graybiel,
Hayes Township Clerk

Girls b-ball loses in semi-final

Despite rallying late in the game, Charlevoix's girls basketball team lost to Harbor Springs 45-39 in the Class C District semifinal game Saturday night.

Charlevoix trailed the tournament host Rams 12-8 after the first quarter. However, the Rayder offense went stagnant in the second quarter as they scored only five points while Harbor Springs was scoring 14.

Charlevoix trailed by 13 entering the final quarter, but led by Dana Haney, Melissa Boss and Stacey Gebott, at one point drew within six points before the Rams put the game away.

Boss led the Rayders in scoring with a dozen points while Haney had 10, all in the second half.

Harbor Springs advanced to play East Jordan for the district championship.

Bob Geer took this 18-point buck on opening morning in the Upper Peninsula. The antlers had a spread of approximately 20 inches and the deer had a field-dressed weight in excess of 200 pounds.

Sunday, Dec. 4, six Charlevoix High School band students will join top students from other Michigan high school bands to form the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association District II Honors Band. The

Local students in honors band

by Tim Henne

On Sunday, Dec. 4, six Charlevoix High School Band members will represent their school in the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association District II Honors Band.

The Honors Band is composed of talented high school musicians from across the state who qualified by competing in preliminary tryouts which took place earlier at Charlevoix High School.

Honors Band students will rehearse together at Traverse City High School on Nov. 20; then they will spend the weekend of Dec. 3 and 4 in Cheboygan.

Much of the weekend will be spent in intense rehearsal under the direction of guest conductor Ken Bloomquist, who is the Director of the Michigan State University Orchestra.

Following the rehearsal, the Honors Band will give a concert at 2:30 p.m., Dec. 4 at the Cheboygan Opera House.

Charlevoix students in the Honors Band are Mike Stargardt on saxophone, Kirsten Joy and Heather Dietrich on flute, Tim Henne and Bill Crook on trombone, and Marcle Wynkoop on cornet. Charlevoix's high school band is under the direction of Terry Isenberger.

AMENDMENT TO THE HAYES TOWNSHIP CHARLEVOIX COUNTY, MICHIGAN ZONING ORDINANCE Ordinance #88-2 NOTICE OF ADOPTION

IT IS ORDAINED that the Hayes Township, Charlevoix County, Michigan Zoning Ordinance, adopted July 2, 1979, as amended thereafter, shall be further amended as follows:

SECTION 6.06 - PERMIT REQUIRED FOR "PLANNED UNIT DEVELOPMENT"

A. Purpose
1. As used in these following sections the term "Planned Unit Development" includes such terms as cluster zoning, planned development, planned residential development, and other terminology denoting Zoning Requirements designed to accomplish the objectives of the Zoning Ordinance through a land development project review process based on the application of site plan criteria to achieve integration of the proposed land development project with the characteristics of the project area. The term "Planned Unit Development" shall be abbreviated as: P.U.D.

2. The objectives of requirements established in this ordinance for P.U.D. shall be to permit flexibility in the regulation of land development, encourage useful open space and protect the natural environment.

3. The review and approval of P.U.D.'s shall be by the Township Planning Commission acting as the Township Zoning Board.

4. A P.U.D. may be permitted in any zone district upon any area of not less than ten (10) acres of contiguous land provided that those portions of the P.U.D. which are contiguous to other lands not part of the P.U.D. shall be developed and arranged in a manner compatible with the zoning of such other contiguous lands.

5. The applicants for a P.U.D. shall be the owners of the land, and any person, firm or corporation with any interest therein at the time of the application shall endorse their consent thereto, however, only the owners or their successors or assigns shall have any obligation in connection with the condition of development. The owners or duly authorized agents, shall be participants in the review process.

B. Acceptable "Planned Unit Development" Projects

1. The Planning Commission may, after appropriate public hearings, approve a P.U.D. project and may permit modification of setback requirements, provided that the approved project shall be consistent with, and promote the intent and purpose of the zoning ordinance as a whole.

2. All permitted P.U.D. projects shall insure that the land use or activity authorized shall be compatible with adjacent use of land, the natural environment, and the capabilities of public services and facilities effected by the land use.

3. All permitted P.U.D. projects shall meet standards insuring that the land use or activity is consistent with the public health, safety and welfare of Township residents. A permitted P.U.D. use shall also comply with all conditions imposed by the Township Planning Commission acting as the Zoning Board, other applicable ordinances of the Township, County, State and Federal Statutes.

4. All land in all approved P.U.D. projects shall be held in common ownership.

C. Conditions for Approval of "Planned Unit Development" Projects

1. The Township Planning Commission acting as the Zoning Board, may impose such conditions for approval of a P.U.D. project as are reasonable to protect the natural environment, conserve natural resources and to insure compatibility with adjacent uses of land.

2. A P.U.D. will be designed to protect natural resources and the health safety and welfare of those who will use the land use or activity under consideration, residents and landowners immediately adjacent to the proposed land use or activity, and the community as a whole.

3. Conditions for approval shall meet all of the following requirements:

a. Wet or dry hydrants shall be required, in number and location, as recommended by the Township Fire Committee.

b. All utilities shall be underground.

c. Lighting of homes, streets, signs and other P.U.D. facilities shall meet lighting requirements of the Zoning Ordinance and, in addition, shall be shielded and directed to prevent sky illumination.

d. Water and sewage facilities shall be on-site. As a result the number of units shall be limited to the recommendations of relevant county state and federal agencies as to on-site water and sewage capabilities.

e. Outdoor parking spaces shall be limited to two spaces per dwelling unit, not to exceed 200 square feet per space.

f. Building height shall be 30 feet maximum, as measured from average grade to ridge of roof.

g. Waterfront setback requirements may be extended to 200 feet to protect the natural environment and/or if any unusual circumstances of land forms exist. In such circumstances the greenbelt requirement may also be extended.

h. Buildings that blend into the natural contours of the land are encouraged along with natural color and design schemes.

i. Residential and all P.U.D. developments shall not exceed the lot area/density requirements as allowed by the Zoning Ordinance in that district except as follows: All land that is left in a totally natural state (no buildings, roads, sewers, golf courses, tennis courts, etc.) shall be counted as eligible for one additional "bonus" residential unit per lot area/density requirement as allowed by the Zoning Ordinance in that district.

j. e 100 acre P.U.D. in A-1 can have 10 initial residential units plus one "bonus" residential unit for every 10 acres of land left in a totally natural state. The maximum density allowed under the bonus plan for this situation would be 19 units on 10 acres, leaving 90 acres in a natural state.

k. e 30 acre P.U.D. in R-1 can have 15 initial residential units plus one "bonus" residential unit for every two acres of land left in a totally natural state. The maximum density allowed under the bonus plan for this situation would be 25 units on 10 acres, leaving 20 acres in a natural state.

The "bonus" acreage will be measured from the setback requirements of the zoning district in which the P.U.D. is located.

The purpose of this section is to encourage more open, totally natural areas by allowing the developer more residential units per zoning district than normally allowed.

SECTION 6.07 - RECORD OF APPROVAL OR DISAPPROVAL - ALTERATIONS

1. The Planning Commission shall maintain a record of the actions taken on P.U.D. applications and of all conditions imposed with respect to the approval of a land use activity. Such conditions shall remain unchanged except upon mutual consent of the Planning Commission and the landowner. The Planning Commission shall maintain a record of conditions which are changed.

2. Extensions of time for completion of the project or minor alterations within a P.U.D. project which do not effect adjoining landowners nor materially alter the impact of the project upon the Township or the area in which the project is located may be made with mutual consent of the landowner and Township Planning Commission at an open meeting of the Planning Commission without special notice. Major alterations within a P.U.D. project or alterations which affect adjoining landowners or materially alter the impact of the project upon the Township shall not be granted by the Planning Commission, except after public hearing and notice required for an original P.U.D. project application.

3. If construction has not begun within twelve months from the approval of the P.U.D., said approval shall automatically lapse. The Township Planning Commission may extend the time of beginning construction for period(s) of six months upon the mutual consent of the Planning Commission and the landowner.

SECTION 6.08 - PROCEDURE

A. Procedure - Each P.U.D. applicant shall hold a preliminary site plan conference with the Hayes Township Planning Commission. The preliminary conference shall be informal and its purpose is not to ratify a site plan, but rather to reach an understanding between the applicant and Township Planning Commission as to P.U.D. requirements.

B. The Procedure for handling P.U.D. applications, hearings, notice of hearings and approval or disapproval shall be handled in the same manner as set forth in this ordinance in section 6.02 for "Special Use" permits. All applications for a P.U.D. project shall be accompanied by a "site plan" including documents, drawings, structures, topography, soil tests and such additional supporting materials as the Planning Commission shall deem necessary or pertinent to aid in its determination.

C. In addition to such conditions as the planning Commission shall impose upon the issuance of a P.U.D. permit, the Planning Commission may require certain improvements, including those features and actions associated with a project which are considered necessary by the Planning Commission to protect natural resources, or the health, safety or welfare of the residents of the Township and future users or inhabitants of the proposed project or project area, including roadways, wet hydrants, lighting, sidewalks, screening and drainage. The Planning Commission may require cash deposits or certified checks to be deposited by the developer to insure completion and compliance. The performance guarantee shall be in an amount not to exceed four thousand dollars ($4,000.00) per acre nor less than one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) per acre in the P.U.D. The Planning Commission may establish procedures whereby a rebate of any cash deposits in reasonable proportion to the ratio of work completed on the required improvements will be made as work progresses.

D. The approved P.U.D. agreement shall become part of the Deed restrictions of the land incorporated in the P.U.D.

E. The provisions of preceding Section 6.01 (2) (e) through (d) applicable to "Special Use" permits, are hereby incorporated for P.U.D. projects and said provisions shall be applicable to permits issued for P.U.D. projects.

Adopted at a Regular meeting of the Hayes Township Board, Monday, November 7, 1988.

Ronald I. Graybiel,
Hayes Township Clerk

... 108 Clinton decision

320 days out of the year, there will be no cars in this parking lot," Porter said. "...to tear this house down and destroy part of the tax base in this area ... represents $30,000 over 10 years."

Porter also reminded council the lot split was favored not only by the DDA but also by the city's planning commission, the Chamber of Commerce and City Planner Gerry Harsch. Porter said when the lot split was reviewed by the planning commission, it was opposed by only one member of the seven-member committee. Porter added the lot split was favored unanimously by the 10-member DDA.

Councilman Muma, who serves on the city's Tax Review Board, supported the DDA request. He motioned council maintain the property, develop a parking lot, and sell the front 40 feet based upon figures of the Tax Review Board. Muma said the bare front 40 feet could be sold for $39,600. The city originally paid $70,000 to purchase the property and home. It will cost the city approximately $24,000 to develop an 18-space parking lot.

Muma's motion failed but, one proposed by Councilman Butch Russell moved council towards making a final decision for the months-long debate. Russell proposed the house be demolished, a gravel lot be developed and the remaining front 40 feet be maintained by the city.

"Leave the front 40 feet as a green area until time decides by council that it should be used for parking or sold," Russell said.

The action, Russell said, will allow the city to still achieve what it set out to do—to create a public parking lot while maintaining some control of city development.

Window decorating contest

The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a Christmas window decorating contest. The contest will be judged between 5 and 7 p.m. Dec. 1.

Judges will choose first and second place winners in the following categories: professional, restaurant, lodging, gift stores, hard goods, soft goods, auto dealerships, financial institutions, food stores and industrial. There will also be an overall winner. The chamber hopes that all businesses will participate in window decorating to add Christmas spirit and sparkle to Charlevoix's holiday season.

Businesses wishing to participate in the contest should register by calling the Chamber office at 547-2101 by Nov. 30.

Vets' info available

Charlevoix County Veterans Affairs Counselor Ronald Geer announces that the Veterans Administration now has a toll-free telephone number (1-800-422-8079) for veterans and their dependents to get government insurance information.

Insurance policy holders and their beneficiaries can make address or insurance policy changes, or obtain dividend and other information by calling the number between 8:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m.

The calls are answered by insurance specialists who have ready access to policy information. If they cannot give an immediate answer, they will return the call or answer by mail.

Charlevoix Yesterday

The Charlevoix Historical Society recently received the bell from Charlevoix's second steel swing bridge which was built in 1901.

Rep. Ralph Ostling

103rd District - Vice Chair of House Appropriations

A MESSAGE TO THE VOTERS OF THE 103rd DISTRICT:

To those of you who gave me your vote of confidence and supported my re-election to again serve as your State Representative, I am very grateful.

During the past sixteen years, I feel many accomplishments have been made to benefit the people residing in the northern counties which encompass the 103rd District. Too numerous to outline, there were many important projects and programs approved for funding by the State. Hundreds of constituents were helped with personal problems by my office. While I am proud of this record, I continually strive to improve it and to do more on behalf of the citizens of northern Michigan.

While I have never made any campaign promises I'm not sure can be carried out, I do promise to serve the next two years to the best of my ability.

Again, thank you for your support.

Sincerely,

RALPH OSTLING

Council decides not to add commissions, for now

Although city council members discussed the possibility of forming two new standing commissions, they concluded that at least for now the city has enough standing commissions.

Mayor Ralph McRae, who will be leaving office at the end of the year, favored establishing an airport commission and a waterfront commission.

Regarding the airport, he said he's not happy with the city's current input and contact with the airport operation. He said the city has a major investment in the airport and shouldn't just let it "sit out there and deteriorate."

City manager Mike Wiesner objected to McRae's characterization of the airport as something that is sitting and deteriorating. He said the airport runs quite well and there are plans in place for improvements. He said that at this time the city is waiting for action from the Michigan Aeronautics Commission which is necessary for some of the proposed improvements.

Councilman Butch Russell said he feels it's important for the council to monitor what goes on at the airport, but doesn't think the city needs another commission. Russell and other council members suggested the council receive and review a report on airport activities every six months or so.

In January, there will be two new council members and a new mayor. Former councilman Bob Timms, who was in the audience Monday evening, suggested the council wait until January and let the new council decide if they want to form new commissions.

The possibility of forming a waterfront commission received more support than forming an airport commission, but also was subject to skepticism.

Council member Shirley Roloff said water use is important in Charlevoix and boating and other forms of water sports are growing in the area.

Wiesner agreed that the city needs to look at the city's water resource, but suggested an ad hoc commission to develop a master plan rather than a standing commission which would in many instances overlap several other standing commissions.

VanTreese requests and receives leave of absence

At a special meeting Monday evening, the city council granted city attorney Jeff VanTreese a leave of absence.

VanTreese has been bound over to Charlevoix County Circuit Court on a grand jury indictment containing two counts charging VanTreese with conspiracy to possess cocaine.

At the beginning of the special meeting, city manager Mike Wiesner read the council a letter written by VanTreese. In the letter, VanTreese requested the leave of absence and suggested his law partner Robert Hoffman serve as city attorney.

Despite the objections of mayor Ralph McRae and council members Norm Probert and Butch Russell, the council accepted the letter's request. Council members Shirley Roloff, Earl Muma, Bill Haggard and Bill Bellows voted in favor of granting the leave of absence.

Roloff said the council will now have to address the issue of finding a new city attorney although she feels Hoffman will be suitable in transition. She indicated that her understanding is that granting VanTreese a leave of absence does not assure VanTreese that he may return as city attorney at some time in the future. She said the city may fill the position with someone new.

McRae said he wasn't satisfied with the term "leave of absence" and wanted VanTreese's employment terminated.

He drew comparisons to VanTreese's no longer being city attorney to someone dying.

"I consider him dead," McRae said at one point.

On at least two previous occasions, motions which would have led to VanTreese's dismissal prior to court action failed. Probert, Russell and McRae have supported efforts to dismiss VanTreese.

Haggard, Roloff, Muma and Bellows favored letting the legal system run its course.

Early in the discussion Monday evening it became evident the vote would follow the same lines. Haggard, in a motion supported by Bellows, moved to grant the leave of absence. McRae saying he knew how the vote was going to turn out delayed calling for a vote for several minutes.

At one point, Haggard asked, "Are we going to have a roll call or are we going to sit here all night?"

Last Friday afternoon, the weather was warm and sunny and golfers such as Scott DeArk (left), of Petoskey were out on the Charlevoix Municipal Golf Course. Three days later, the weather was cold and white snow had replaced golfers on the greens.

Ahead-lines

Council setting '89 goals

Prior to the city council's routine, if not regularly-scheduled, committee of the whole meeting this past Monday evening, they held a special committee of the whole meeting to discuss council goals for the coming year.

The goals meeting began shortly after 5 p.m. and lasted approximately an hour. Although the council was only about half-way through discussing last year's goals at that time, they adjourned so they could have dinner prior to beginning the first of two subsequent meetings later that evening on matters unrelated to goal setting.

A second goal-setting meeting has been scheduled for 5 p.m. Dec. 12.

For citizens of the community, the fact that the meeting is going to take place in two phases offers an opportunity. Between now and Dec. 12, citizens may wish to approach their council representative and voice feelings on what council goals should include for the coming year.

Although citizens may approach their council representative at any time of the year, this particular time, while council is in the process of developing goals, may be especially opportune.

During the Nov. 23 goals meeting, city manager Mike Wiesner reviewed progress on goals the council set for this year. Current council members as well as the incoming Mayor and two new council members who will be coming on board in January were given an opportunity to say what actions the city should take toward continued progress on these goals in 1989.

Among the goals discussed at the Nov. 23 meeting were:

separating storm and sanitary sewers; implementing the Ferry Avenue Tax Increment Financing Authority plans; the city's tree maintenance program; infrastructure improvements; electric system improvements; and Hoffmann Park.

Included in the things to be discussed Dec. 12 are: developing cemetery rules; cemetery financing and cost study; streamlining the city's site plan approval process; a downtown parking ordinance; lake shore zoning revisions; jobs; personnel policy; and airport easements.

Wiesner described the goals meeting as one of the most important meetings of the year for the council. It can also be one of the most important meetings of the year for citizen input to guide council members in their deliberations.

Sheriff commissions new mobile unit

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Auxiliary has donated a mobile emergency command post to the sheriff's department.

The command post formerly was a U.S. military surplus field ambulance, but following purchase by the auxiliary has been converted into a mobile command post which will serve in the following situations: sheriff coordinated search and rescue operations; emergency service command post; Big Rock mobile command post; mass gathering paddy wagon; on loan to area fire departments for major fires; on loan to area law enforcement departments for mafor emergencies; crime scene unit for major crimes investigated by the sheriff; command post for local disasters such as drownings, downed aircraft etc.

Auxiliary members who helped coordinated the purchase and modification of the vehicle include: Richard Baker, Auxiliary commander; Sgt. W.D. Schneider, Auxiliary liaison officer; Richard Gallant; Earl Muma, Lou Webb, Robert Curtis and Don Williams.

Several local businesses and citizens also donated equipment, money and services to the command post project.

The repaving of Dixon Avenue was one of the final steps in a project which began earlier this autumn. The primary purpose of the project was separating sanitary and storm sewers beneath the street.

City considers composting program

Charlevoix is supporting an East Jordan grant proposal requesting state financing for a chipping machine that could help both communities and Boyne City launch composting programs.

At a Monday night council work session, DNR representative Art Caden spoke to the council about Clean Michigan Fund grant money and other grant money which will be available next year due to the passage of proposal C by voters in November.

Caden said that in dealing with Michigan's solid waste problem, the state is working to eliminate dumps and move toward composting and recycling.

He said Charlevoix currently has a city dump for compostable materials south of Charlevoix off of U.S. 31.

Caden said the dump is unlicensed and that several years ago he spoke to former city manager Robert Hunt about closing the dump. Caden said Hunt was not receptive to the idea.

What Caden and the DNR now want the city to do is to stop using the area as a dump and instead use it for composting.

In order to do that, the city would have to chop up some of the trees and branches into finer chips and pile the debris in windrows and occasionally use machinery to roll the windrows so the composting matter would be aerated.

Caden said East Jordan's city dump has been closed and East Jordan is applying for a grant for a leaf collection and chipping machine to facilitate composting. He said that Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan stand a better chance of getting grant money for machinery if they agree to share machinery and go in together on the grant application.

East Jordan superintendent of public works Mike Dionne said the equipment East Jordan has applied for has an estimated cost of $32,500. He said the communities would have to work out some type of arrangement to share in the use and maintenance of the equipment.

Council members said they supported the concept of the three communities working together on the solid waste program and said that at the regularly scheduled council meeting next Monday evening they would be willing to pass a resolution supporting East Jordan's grant request.

It's a cold world in there

We live in a land of plenty. Yet only a few of us have infinite appetites, therefore we have freezers to store some of the plenty until later.

This past weekend I acquired an old freezer from my grandmother's house. She said she no longer used it and it was just taking up space in the basement.

It was no small endeavor, but my father and my two brothers and I engaged the frost-breathing monster in hand-to-hand combat and evicted it from grandma's basement and relocated it to a closed-in porch area at my home.

With the addition of the freezer, I now have three cold storage devices around the house.

One of them isn't really used as a cold storage device any more. It's an old-fashioned ice box which I bought at an auction and use for a file cabinet. It serves well in that capacity. It has a multitude, maybe even a multitude and a-half, of shelves and holds stacks and stacks of papers.

My wife once inquired as to just what all of those papers are for and I was forced to confess, "I'm not exactly sure what they all are and what they're all for, but I'm sure they're all important so I keep them around."

Provided I keep them concealed in the old ice box, she doesn't complain too much about them.

The second cold storage device is the old freezer-refrigerator in the kitchen. Many years ago, when this particular appliance was new, it was probably a refrigerator-freezer, but in the past several months the freezer part of its nature has become dominant over the refrigerator part.

Freud once addressed this specific psychological disorder among refrigerators in a paper entitled, "Lettuce Consider The Freezing Of Vegetables." The paper sparked a completely new field of study known as "Appliance Psychology."

If all goes well, the recently acquired freezer should be a very useful item. I hunt quite a bit and fish on occasion. The freezer will give me a place to store game, should I be fortunate enough to get anything.

My wife hunts too; not in the woods, but in stores and in the coupon sections of magazines and the Sunday paper. She's a bargain hunter.

And she seems to take her hunting every bit as seriously as I do mine. I was in a grocery store with her one day and mentioned that we were out of ice cream and needed to buy another half-gallon.

"Good," she said, smiling from ear to ear. "I've got a coupon for it." And she hauled that coupon out of her little coupon pouch and did a little jig like a pro football player who'd just scored the game winning touchdown.

Letters to the Editor:

108 Clinton concerns

Dear Editor:

I am writing to express my deep concern about the proposed plans for the Clinton Street house. I believe, as do many other members of the community, that this is a historically significant building which should be sold with the understanding that it shall be faithfully restored to its original architecture. It is important for a community to protect and preserve its heritage and you can make a great step forward in this direction by setting the good example for the rest of the community to follow.

I believe that the best use of the property would be to set aside the southerly half for parking and the northerly half for commercial activity. To remove the house and turn the whole of the property into a parking lot would be a great mistake. An asphalt jungle in the downtown will do great harm to the beauty and charm of our lovely little city. It is possible to create attractive and useful parking in and around the existing buildings in the central business district without destroying the buildings themselves. The presence of the buildings soften the harsh and stark appearance of the parking lots.

So, in conclusion, I urge the council most strongly to accept the offer to purchase and restore the property, so that this important structure may continue to grace our city. And, turn the remainder of the property into parking. It is an excellent compromise and it makes good sense for the City. Please save our heritage and charm as well as providing for parking.

Al Ranger, PE

Ladies first

I predict that Barbara Bush will become one of the nation's most memorable First Ladies.

Sure, I've heard all the jokes about how nice President-elect George Bush is to his "mother," taking her with him everywhere he goes.

And I admit Barbara does appear to have more miles on her than her youngish looking husband.

But her honesty in not daubing her snowy crown with chestnut elixirs is part of her appeal.

Last summer I saw a busty blonde parading down Bridge Street wearing a sweat shirt emblazoned with the legend, "I'm a grandma — but I don't look it."

Such a sweat shirt would never do for Barbara Bush, who is a grandmother 10 times over and looks it.

She certainly is cut from a different bolt than reed-thin Nancy Reagan, who always looks as gaunt and hungry as a boat person.

Barbara Bush appears to be a gal who could down a T-bone steak, a platter of home fries, a loaf of french bread and a tankard of beer — and then ask to look at the dessert menu. She's a woman after my own heart.

She certainly seems to be a very warm and friendly person who will be like a breath of fresh air in the stuffy old White House. And as such she is likely to be an invaluable asset to her husband, particularly when he has to entertain nervous foreign dignitaries or fellow Americans awed by a White House invitation.

OVER THE YEARS, a number of First Ladies have left their mark on the presidency — for better or worse.

Pretty Dolley Madison certainly was an ornament to the administration of husband Jim in the early 1800s.

Querulous Mary Todd Lincoln was a millstone around the neck of long-suffering Abe.

Eleanor Roosevelt conducted her own administration side-by-side with that of her husband, FDR, although their agendas ran along parallel lines.

Eleanor was an inveterate traveler even during World War II when travel overseas wasn't exactly safe, placing an unwarranted burden on security personnel.

I remember one magazine commenting that Eleanor considered it her business to "straighten the window curtains of the world."

BESS TRUMAN was a hombody of the first water. I think she was relieved when renovation of the White House during husband Harry's administration forced her to live in Blair House for several years. The temporary quarters across Pennsylvania Avenue were more like the comfortable old manse in Independence, Mo., where she grew up. I always had the distinct impression she never enjoyed life in the nation's fish bowl.

Mamie Eisenhower, hiding behind her bangs, never seemed to do much, probably because an inner-ear condition made her unsteady on her feet.

Polished Jacqueline Kennedy brought culture to the White House, but not a great deal of warmth.

Ladybird Johnson followed her own star with her national beautification projects. She seemed an unlikely helpmeet to rough-and-tumble old LBJ.

Pat Nixon — a beautiful woman with a peaches-and-cream complexion. I saw her in 1960 in Dearborn traveling in a motorcade with husband Dick. I thought at the time that he didn't deserve such a beautiful wife — and I was right. She deserved something better.

Betty Ford. I made several runs with Betty at Boyne Mountain one afternoon while Jerry was still in Congress and found her as warm and comfortable as an old shoe. Like Bess Truman, she couldn't stand Washington and could hardly wait to move home to Michigan.

Rosalyn Carter was a country girl who married right. She probably had more influence on Jimmy Carter's administration than anyone will ever know. They were — and are — very close.

And then there's Nancy Reagan, so fiercely protective of her husband that she probably accompanies him to the barber shop. Too much togetherness, for my money.

It is going to be fun to watch First Lady Barbara Bush in action after the Reagans vacate the First Premises.

Low-income house plan rejected

Based upon a review by the city planning commission, Charlevoix City Council won't entertain a proposal by a Grand Rapids firm to develop a 32-unit low-income apartment.

The proposal was submitted by Brooks-Dietze Development, a firm which planned to develop the complex using funds available through the Farmers Home Administration rural rental program. If approved, the apartments would have been constructed near Southside Apartments. Developers planned to provide rental units to low-income families and senior citizens living on fixed incomes. The Grand Rapids firm developed similar apartments in Boyne City approximately one year ago.

Brooks-Dietze sought the city's approval in response to a FHA pre-application requirement. The city, however, decided during Monday's session not to approve the project following a report by City Planner Gary Harsch.

The site for the apartment complex, Harsch said, is zoned residential and would require a change to multiple housing. More importantly, Harsch said the proposed development site falls in a medium density area which limits construction to seven units per acre.

Brooks-Dietze proposed to construct 14 units per acre.

Center offers scholarships

The Women's Resource Center has two programs designed to help men and women gain employment skills, a college education and a job.

Through a tuition reimbursement program offered in co-operation with North Central Michigan College (NCMC), qualifying persons may receive financial assistance to pay for classes and books at NCMC.

The program is designed to make a college education available to single parents, homemakers and men and women seeking jobs traditionally held by members of the opposite sex. Money is currently available for winter term classes at NCMC which begin January 23.

The Displaced Homemaker Program, made possible by a grant from the Michigan Department of Labor, provides career counseling and job placement services for homemakers who have not been employed outside the home for awhile or have experienced difficulty in finding employment. Through this program, homemakers receive free career counseling to help them identify career interests and abilities and job seeking and placement skills, like writing a resume. Additionally, this program helps match employers with potential employees.

For more information, please call Women's Resource Center at 347-0067.

Thompson-Peterson

Curtis and Louise Thompson of Charlevoix have announced the engagement of their daughter Kelly Lynn Thompson to Dr. Mark Peterson of Grand Rapids. Peterson is the son of Richard and Donna Peterson of Grand Rapids.

The wedding will take place Jan. 7, 1989 in Grand Rapids. Thompson is a 1983 graduate of Charlevoix High School and a 1986 graduate of Ferris State University. She is employed as a dental hygienist in Grand Rapids.

Peterson is a graduate of Union High School in Grand Rapids and a graduate of the University of Detroit-Dental School.

Kindergarten screening

There will be a Developmental Screening Clinic for all children who will be entering kindergarten in the fall of 1990. This clinic is sponsored by the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District.

The purpose of this clinic is to provide parents information regarding normal child development, an opportunity to interact with parents of other three year old children, and to have your child informally screened to identify any potential learning difficulties which may arise during the school years.

This is a free service with appointments made on a first come, first served basis.

The clinics are scheduled as follows: Charlevoix School District, December 14, 1988 and January 11, 1989 at Charlevoix-Emmet I.S.D., Mercer Blvd., Charlevoix.

If you are interested in attending the above clinic, or reside in a district other than the one listed above, please contact Pat Gauthier, 547-9947, at the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District for an appointment or for further information.

Annual Santa Luncheon

The local Xi Epsilon Gamma chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will host their 10th Annual Santa Luncheon from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Dec. 3 at the Charlevoix Elementary School.

Pizza Hut pizza will be served along with fruit and Christmas treats. Children or adults may also have their picture taken with Santa Claus at the luncheon.

The total cost per person is $1.50. Tickets are available at the door or at the Chamber of Commerce.

Pizza Hut has donated the pizzas and other Charlevoix merchants have contributed other food and supplies.

Senior citizen tea

Area senior citizens will be able to partake of a touch of Olde England at the English Tea to be held Wednesday, November 30, from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Charlevoix County Senior Center in East Jordan.

There will be entertainment by the Singing, Swinging Senior Saints of Charlevoix and the Merry Musicals of East Jordan.

Refreshments will consist of scones, clotted cream, and shortbread.

The event is being hosted by local senior citizens who recently returned from a trip to England, Scotland and Wales.

Charlevoix residents who need a ride to East Jordan for the tea should contact the Charlevoix Senior Center at 547-5361.

CHURCH

Episcopal welcomes new minister

Christ Episcopal Church, Charlevoix has called the Reverend Robert G. Wilson of Interlochen to serve the parish as Interim Rector. He will serve the parish until a full-time Rector is called and is present. This call was made at a special meeting of the Parish Vestry on Sunday, Nov. 6, according to Dorothy Miller, Senior Warden.

Miller stated that Father Wilson is no stranger to Christ Church. He and his wife Patricia served the parish in an interim capacity in the mid-1970's. She pointed out that this assignment is consistent with his routine duties as a Diocesan missionary priest in the Diocese of Western Michigan. As Interim Rector he will be available in the community for regular Sunday worship services, for special meetings during the week, and for pastoral counseling by appointment. In emergency situations Father Wilson can be reached through the Parish Office (547-6322) or at his home (276-6139).

Wilson currently serves Episcopalians in Western Michigan as Chairman of the Diocesan Department of Evangelism and Mission, and is on the Diocesan Search Committee charged with securing a Bishop for the Diocese. He is a member of the Executive Board of the Scenic Trails Council-Boy Scouts of America, and is a Life Member of the Disabled American Veterans. His parish assignment just prior to the call to Christ Church, Charlevoix, was as Associate Priest with the Grace Episcopal Church, Traverse City, and St. Christophers, Northport. He will continue to provide limited services to these two parishes.

John T. Foster

John T. Foster, a Charlevoix native living in Los Altos, Calif., died of a heart attack Nov. 16 while taking a walk outside his house. He was 72.

Mr. Foster, a retired principal in the Ravenswood City School District, had been recovering from a quadruple bypass operation done at Stanford University Hospital last January.

He is survived by two daughters, Margaret Dubbins of Pacific Palisades and Martha Foster of Mountain View; three sons, John Foster Jr., of Pasadena, Joseph Foster of Mountain View and William Foster of Los Altos; and 13 grandchildren. He is the son of the late Joseph Foster.

Howard Miller

Howard Ray Miller, 69, died Nov. 18, in De Land, Fla.

Mr. Miller, a graduate of Charlevoix High School, lived in Keystone, Ind. He moved to De Land, Fla. three years ago, after his retirement from International Harvester Corp. of Fort Wayne.

Survivors are his wife Marti; a son Raymond of Fort Wayne; three daughters Donna Kapp of Fort Wayne, Barbara Grogg of Converse, Ohio, and Gail Keen of Gaylord, Mich.; a sister Velma Smith of Charlevoix; 13 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Mesquite to Caribbean

The U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Mesquite will be leaving Charlevoix for the winter to patrol the Caribbean Sea as part of the United States drug interdiction program.

According to the ship's current orders, she will depart from Charlevoix Dec. 5 and return sometime in mid-April after the ice leaves the Great Lakes.

The Mesquite returned to Charlevoix Nov. 19 following fall buoy tending. Normally, the ship returns to Charlevoix around Nov. 1 and takes a short Thanksgiving break and then pulls buoys until just before Christmas.

With this year's assignment, she will leave Charlevoix Dec. 5 making her way to the Atlantic Ocean via Lake Huron, Lake Erie, Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence River. While on Lake Ontario, the Mesquite will service nine buoys in American waters and two Canadian buoys.

Solid waste meeting will take place in T.C.

On Thursday, Dec. 1, at 3 p.m., the Northwest Michigan Council of Governments (NWMCOG), the governor's office and the DNR are sponsoring a public meeting on the State Solid Waste Implementation Strategy in Traverse City. This will be one of three meetings held statewide (Marquette, Traverse City, Lansing) on the plan. The Traverse City meeting will be held in the Mackinaw Rooms at the Grand Traverse Resort.

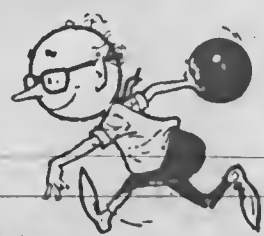

The main speakers will be David Dempsey, Environmental Advisor to Governor James Blanchard, and Fred Clinton, Chief, DNR Resource Recovery Section. Another speaker, possibly one of the members of the Natural Resource Commission, will also be in attendance. Copies of the latest version of the State Solid Waste Implementation Strategy Time will be sent to county planners or county contact persons as soon as this latest revision is released. Copies will also be available at the door and time will be noted for comments on the

With the proposed changes in solid waste management at the state level and the concerns generated at the local level increasing, this meeting offers an important opportunity to be aware of such changes and to offer constructive input before plans are finalized.

Charlevoix graduates lead CMU to MAC title

The Central Michigan University cross country team, with a strong Charlevoix connection, recently completed an excellent season. CMU won the Mid American Conference Championship and placed fourth in the NCAA District Championship which qualified them to NCAA National Meet where they placed among the top 20 college cross country teams in the nation.

CMU is coached by Walt Drenth, a 1977 graduate of Charlevoix High School. Drenth was named Mid American Conference coach of the year.

The Chippewa's top runner is Bill Taylor, a 1984 Charlevoix graduate. Taylor was one of the Midwest's most dominating runners this fall. He finished first in the Jeff Drenth Memorial, Michigan Collegiate Championships, Notre Dame Invitational, Central Collegiate Conference Championships, Mid-American Conference Championships and NCAA District Championship. At the Central Collegiate meet, Taylor was named the conference's athlete of the year.

Drenth and Taylor led CMU to the school's first Mid-American Conference cross country title. CMU's title winning score of 51 points was the lowest (i.e. the best) point total since the conference went to a nine-team championship.

Also contributing to the CMU team were Charlevoix alumni Matt Peterson and Doug Bergmann. Peterson finished 46th in the NCAA District Championship. Bergmann, in only his second year with the CMU team, is expected to be among the team leaders in coming years.

CHS alumni play for Tech

Charlevoix graduates Jim Gibbs and Brian Wilmot contributed to Michigan Tech's first winning football season since 1976. Tech went 6-4 this season.

Gibbs, a sophomore wide receiver, was injured for part of the season, but played in six games and finished as the Huskies second leading receiver and kick off returner. Gibbs caught 12 passes for a total of 137 yards and returned seven kicks for a total of 77 yards.

Gibbs is the son of Harold and Jan Gibbs.

Wilmot, a sophomore linebacker, played in just one game, but had a solo tackle and an assist. He is the son of Charles and Marilyn Wilmot.

Several brave sailors from the Charlevoix Yacht Club braved the fierce seas of Round Lake harbor Sunday afternoon for the annual Cranberry Cup. Winner of the J-22 race was Dave Irish. Other top finishers were: Gary Gleason, 2nd; Bill Kenniffeck, 3rd; Chuck Koucky, 4th; and Tom Barnes, 5th.

CHS will "HOST" East Jordan

The Charlevoix and East Jordan High School basketball teams will play at Charlevoix this Friday evening, rather than at East Jordan as previously scheduled. The nonconference game will be the season opener for both the Rayders and the Red Devils.

Energy grants available

The Michigan Energy Conservation Program and the Charlevoix Soil and Water Conservation District announce the start of the Direct Grant Program to Farmers and Foresters. According to Gordon Wenk, MECP Program Coordinator, direct grants of up to $1,000 will be offered to farmers and forest producers who, under the MECP program, have completed energy efficiency improvements. The funds will be distributed by the Soil and Water Conservation Districts.

Applications for these monies will be accepted until January 30, 1989. Applicants will be notified of approval or denial by March 30, 1989, and will have up to six months to complete their energy conserving practices with the assistance of an MECP technician.

"The purpose of the direct grant program is to provide financial incentives to individuals," said Wenk, "allowing them to make energy efficiency improvements in their enterprises." Grants will be available for improvements such as planter upgrading, irrigation equipment improvements, sprayer calibration and improvements, logging equipment efficiency, and livestock facility efficiency improvements. The money will go toward material and/or equipment purchases only.

The Michigan Energy Conservation Program is designed to help farmers and forest product producers become more energy efficient. MECP was funded through a $16.5 million dollar appropriation from monies received as a result of two federal court cases involving overcharging by Exxon and Stripper Well for oil products in the 1970s. The program began in October 1987 and will run through September 30, 1990.

Conservation district board member Tim Matchett states, "this is an excellent opportunity to receive financial and technical assistance on energy saving capital investments. Producers were overcharged in the 1970's and this is a chance to get reimbursed."

The District Grant Program is an integral part of the Michigan Energy Conservation Program and helps provide direct reimbursement to farmers and forest product producers who will be initiating energy conservation management practices into their businesses.

For further information, please contact: Roger Korthase the MECP Technician for the Charlevoix Soil and Water Conservation District at 582-6193 or 582-7341.

Pool proposal refined

Moving more methodically than in the past, proponents of a community swimming pool are continuing to move forward.

Nov. 1 a swimming pool steering committee visited the Harbor Springs swimming pool which is located at Harbor Springs High School. Subsequent to that visit, Harbor Springs Community School Director Robert Doan visited Charlevoix Nov. 22 and spoke to a joint meeting of the community service clubs.

Doan spoke of the importance of integrating the community with the school. He said that in Harbor Springs, senior citizens and others use the school not only in the evening, but also during school hours as time and space permit.

Nov. 7, two representatives of WBDC, a downstate company which has constructed other community schools, visited Charlevoix and reviewed possible pool sites. They recommended the pool be located at the elementary school.

Sites considered other than the elementary school were the high school, Ferry Beach area and the old Inn Garage (the big white building by the city tennis courts on the north side).

The sites were rated on a 1 to 10 point system which considered various categories such as parking, impact on neighborhood, ease of acquisition, security and renewal of millage.

Charlevoix's pool steering committee earlier this month and toured the facility. visited the Harbor Springs community pool

The elementary school site graded out at 8.3, the high school 7.8, Ferry Beach 7.2 and Inn Garage 7.1.

The pool steering has also talked to the school board and as a result of that discussion the board has agreed to include questions regarding the pool in a survey of community attitudes which is planned for January.

Charlevoix was represented in two parades this past week. On Thanksgiving Day, the Charlevoix float appeared before a live crowd of approximately 900,000 people in the Michigan Thanksgiving Day Parade in Detroit. Saturday, the float was in the Reed City parade. The float was pulled by the Keep Charlevoix Beautiful truck driven by Dale Boss. Marilyn Boss designed the Christmas characters on the float and portrayed Mrs. Santa Claus.

Charlevoix float in Thanksgiving parade

A Charlevoix float appeared before approximately 900,000 people in the Michigan Thanksgiving Day Parade in Detroit last Thursday.

It was the second year a Charlevoix float has appeared in the parade. Jimmy Wineman coordinated Charlevoix's parade entry.

Dale Boss took the float down and towed it with the Keep Charlevoix Beautiful truck. Each year, floats in the parade must be different from the year before. This year, the Charlevoix float featured Christmas characters crafted by Marilyn Boss.

Parade registration time was at 6:45 a.m. on Woodward Avenue. Following registration, Dale and Marilyn, along with Bruce MacArthur spent approximately 2 hours and 15 minutes arranging the display on the float.

The parade was televised and Charlevoix's float appeared on TV at about 10:20 a.m.

The theme of the float was Santa's workshop and along with the visual display, Christmas music was played through the truck's sound system.

Boss said that as the float traveled along the parade route, many Charlevoix summer residents at the parade waved and hollered greetings.

SCRAPBOOK

It was a big day for kindergarten and first and second grade students of the Charlevoix Elementary School back in the spring of 1917 when they presented the operetta "Peter Rabbit". The production was directed by Eleanor Finucan and Rocena Wilson, with costumes representing the rabbit family, Mr. McGregor the farmer, and assorted peas, lettuce, carrots and beans. Franklin and Anna Olstead of LaCrescenta, Calif., who sent us the picture, have identified the participants with the help of Billie Meyer Smith. Charlevoix senior citizens now have a place to call home for their activities. Charlevoix Township has donated the old township hall at the corner of West Carpenter Street and Norwood Road to the senior citizens. The model depicts some of the planned building renovations.

Local seniors get their own place

Charlevoix area Senior Citizens will have a new home for their activities as the result of a "gift" from Charlevoix Township.

Last Tuesday, in a chilly but warm-hearted ceremony at the old Charlevoix Township Hall, Oscar Stroud, Township Supervisor, transferred the keys and deed to the hall to the County Commission on Aging, who will help remodel and furnish the 70-year-old building.

A home of their own with plenty of space has been a goal of Charlevoix area Senior Citizens, who have been using rented quarters in the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall for their hot lunch program and educational and craft projects. They have been adding to a building fund through a series of dinners, tag days, flea markets, craft sales, and other events. It is hoped that the Commission on Aging will be able to secure a grant from the State Office of Services to the Aging to bring the building up to standard.

Charlevoix area Senior Citizens and the Commission on Aging spent considerable time searching for a building to call "home". When it became known that the old Charlevoix Township Hall on Carpenter Street and Norwood Road would be available, they said they wanted it. The Township Board immediately approved the idea of giving the building to the Senior Citizens group, but a vote by Township residents was first required. That vote was held in August, and the voters overwhelmingly approved the gift.

At a luncheon following transfer of the deed last week, members of the Senior Citizens Center presented Charlevoix Township with a plaque thanking them for the hall, and another plaque to Oscar Stroud for spearheading efforts in transferring the hall.

The Charlevoix Senior Citizens Center has become an active, cooperative organization, not only in its efforts to secure a new home, but in its social activities revolving around the five-day-a-week meal program. Since most of the participants come from the south side of Charlevoix, they believe the activities will increase when they move into their new Center. It will be near enough to Pine River Place, the Senior Citizens residential apartment building, so those who want to, will be able to walk to the Center.

Stroud noted this hall was the second Township Hall serving Charlevoix Township. The first one was located in the northern part of the Township across the railroad tracks, near Martin Road. Its use was discontinued when the Boyne City Road was relocated and Martin Road no longer crossed the tracks.

Stroud said he remembers his father helping with laying the floor of the "new" Township Hall. It is made of fir and is still in fine condition. The building served as headquarters for Charlevoix Township until 1984, when the new Township Hall on Waller Road was completed and named "Stroud Hall" to honor the Township's long-time supervisor.

School board considers fundraising and advertising

Are students being exploited when they're asked to sell things to raise funds for school activities?

What values are students taught by fundraising activities? Is there an incongruity when they are taught in class to eat healthy and then sent out to sell junk food after class? Are students taught a poor work ethic when they are encouraged to go out and sell useless things to make a buck?

Is there a better way for students to raise money for their activities?

Should students be subjected to advertising or soliciting while they're in school?

These are among the questions being considered by the policy committee of the Charlevoix School Board as they attempt to draft a policy or policies governing advertising in school and fundraising events for school activities.

Both issues were discussed at length during Monday evening's board meeting. Doris Pearl of the board's policy committee listed some of the questions the committee is considering and said they would welcome input from the community.

Regarding the issue of advertising in school a specific matter discussed was a new communication board which was recently installed near the high school gym.

Installation of the board was funded by advertising. Seventeen local businesses each paid $190 to $200 (a total of approximately $3230) to advertise on the board for a year. The money was paid to a company which specializes in school fundraising events.

This year Charlevoix's school hasn't received any revenue from the board. There are two more spaces which the school could sell for revenue.

In subsequent years, if the board remains in place, the school would either get a percentage of the advertising revenue or could buy the board and get all of the revenue.

The electronic board can be used to convey messages to students as well as for

Beware of school finance reform

Efforts by the state legislature toward school finance reform deserve Northern Michigan's attention now, not later.

What Governor James Blanchard and his Lansing cohorts are pushing is a proposal which at best would erode local control of Charlevoix's school system and at worst could both erode local control and leave Charlevoix tax payers paying the same or increased property taxes, plus higher sales taxes and not have any of the additional taxes go to Charlevoix schools.

Northern Michigan people should not for a minute throw up their hands in frustration and say, "All this talk about school finance is just too complex. I'll never understand it." In reality, the important parts of school finance reform as it concerns Charlevoix and Northern Michigan are pretty simple.

The current proposals state legislators are considering basically breaks down into two things: a cap on school property tax millage; and a one cent per dollar increase in the sales tax.

Now what does that mean to Charlevoix?

Well, first the property tax cap. In the name of property tax "relief" the state legislature is proposing to cap school property taxes at 28 mills. There's also talk of two mills of "wiggle room" which means that in 1991 the cap might go up to 30 mills.

The catch to this for a Charlevoix school district taxpayer is that right now the school millage rate is 27.109 which is below either the 28 or 30 mill level.

The bottom line is that in essence the state proposal would mean that it's OK for your school property tax bill to increase by about one to three mills. This in the name of property tax "relief."

Meanwhile, on the other side of the sword, there's the one cent sales tax increase. That's the price for the gift of the aforementioned property tax relief.

If that passes, Charlevoix taxpayers get to pay five cents per dollar in sales tax rather than four cents. That five cents goes to Lansing. Most of it will fund schools, but not Charlevoix's.

Charlevoix's school, like most in Northern Michigan, is "out-of-formula." To a Charlevoix taxpayer, that means that even though an increased sales tax will mean you're sending more money to Lansing for schools, Lansing probably won't be sending any more money back to your kid's school.

School finance reform is something you'll hear and read a lot about in coming weeks and months. And Northern Michigan taxpayers will have a lot at stake in the debate.

...school fundraising policy

advertising. High school principal Dave Smith said that last spring he approved trying the board for a year after being approached with the idea by Gary Stutzman, who at that time was working for the fundraising company. Stutzman is a Charlevoix native and formerly the Charlevoix school band director.

Smith said his reasons for trying the board were that: although there is an announcement board near the office, many people never get to that end of the building and the electronic board would reach those people; eventually the student council could take over the board and use it to raise funds; it would provide something new and interesting at the high school.

Stutzman said the advertising. He said he targeted community businesses which he was fairly sure would be supportive.

He said the $190 price tag compared favorably to other advertising media in the area and that the businesses which advertised on the board were getting a good deal.

"I felt good going out and sharing it with people," he said. "From an advertising standpoint, the people I talked to felt good about it."

The electronic board arrived at the school in the first week of September, but was installed only recently.

Stutzman said that to give the advertisers a fair deal and the whole year that they paid for, the board should be left up at least until next December.

Pearl questioned whether the advertising money which went to the fundraising company for the board was advertising revenue which otherwise might have stayed in the community.

"What bothers me about some of these fundraisers is the money leaving the community," she said.

Stutzman said that he talked to some of the advertisers who indicated that the board advertising was in addition to rather than in place of other advertising they normally do.

Birdie Whitley of the Sports Boosters said many of the boosters were quite upset with the board. She said some boosters attempting to sell advertising in the sports program ran into business people who said they had already given $200 for the electronic board.

Whitley said the boosters also saw a problem with money leaving the community. She said the $3,000 which went to the fundraising company might have instead gone toward something such as a new floor in the weight room.

At the end of a year, the school board will have to decide what to do with the communication board. They can either give it back to the fundraising company, work out a deal with the fundraising company for a portion of the advertising revenue or buy the board.

Board member Larry Levengood said considerations other than dollars will play a role in that decision. He said it is possible the communications board will fall outside the guidelines of the school advertising and fundraising policy.

Humane Society hosts open house

The Charlevoix County Humane Society is inviting the public to an open house from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Dec. 11 at the Humane Society office off of Grant Street behind the sheriff's department.

The open house is an annual event designed to increase awareness of Humane Society activities and also generate support for the program. People may come and see the animals available for adoption or may bring contributions of puppy, dog and cat food, kitty litter or pans which serve as litter boxes.

The Charlevoix County Humane Society is a nonprofit organization. Although it is separate from the county animal control department, the two organizations operate out of the same building.

The Humane Society attempts to find homes for unwanted animals and also encourages spaying or neutering animals to reduce the number of unwanted animals in the county.

During a recent one-year period, 878 animals spent time at the animal control center. Of those, 109 were redeemed (which means claimed by their owners), 226 were placed in new homes and the rest, 533, either died or had to be destroyed.

A case of sensory overload

It's sensory overload. That's what it is, sensory overload. Too many sights, smells and sounds all coming at a guy at the same time.

Fred Krepler didn't allow his wife Edith to drag him into large city shopping malls often. Over the years, he'd discovered that he started feeling uneasy after being in one for about 45 minutes.

Fred was a quiet and simple man and shopping malls were just too many for him.

Too many things competing for his eyes. Electric signs, glitzy mirrors, shiny display windows, people dressed in strange fashions...a swirling wild world visually crying out, "Hey you! Yeah you! Fred, take a look at this."

It made Fred feel like he was under attack. Give his 'druthers, he liked to look at one thing at a time without being distracted, without getting the feeling that he was doing 999 other things an injustice by ignoring them.

The swarming sights were rivaled by the warring smells. Fred's nostrils were a battlefield. Smells from an Italian restaurant were engaged against smells from a chocolate shop. Some scents from the perfume section of a department store threatened to join and make the fracas even uglier.

Poor Fred. He felt he should run away somewhere to hide, taking his besieged nose with him.

Shopping mall sounds also came in quantity. Christmas music played on the speaker system. Fred heard enough of a few of the songs so he almost recognized them. Children were lined up to have their pictures taken with Santa Claus. Most of the children had brought their parents with them. The parents held a place in line while the children frolicked around, squealing and playing.

For Fred, it was a challenge just to carry on a simple conversation in an environment where so much was going on. Just trying to arrange a time and place to meet back up with his wife Edith and her sister had been a challenge.

"Six o'clock. Right in front of Santa Claus." He distinctly remembered telling Edith that about an eternity and a-half ago.

Now it was 6:25. Santa was trying to act like he really cared about what the 30,000th kid who'd sat on his knee wanted for Christmas. He knew what he wanted for Christmas. He wanted to get his wife out of this shopping mall in time to get home for Christmas.

"She's with her sister and that's not good," Fred thought to himself as he pondered his prospects. "When those two get together and go shopping, they lose all sense of time and reality.

The group dynamics those two is not good on a shopping excursion."

Fred looked at his watch again. It said 6:35.

"Time means nothing to them when they're shopping. In fact, there's probably another dimension in time that Edith and her sister enter when they get into serious shopping. It's called 'The Shoplight Zone.' It's a mysterious department store where time stands still and all the merchandise is bargain priced."

At about 6:45 Edith and her sister finally appeared on the horizon. Fred was surprised to see they weren't each carrying an armload of packages.

"What'd you find?" Fred asked.

"Oh nothing really," Edith answered. "Just a few small things."

To Fred, that was amazing. How could you help but find all kinds of things in a place like this? Stuff just threw itself at you in this place.

For Fred that was the problem. There were just too many things at once. Maybe that was the problem for Edith too, Fred speculated. She just hadn't come to grips with it as well as he had.

Nobel stupidity

It's a pity they don't offer a Nobel Prize for Stupidity.

Secretary of State George Shultz would be a shoo-in for the award the next time the Nobel Committee meets.

Shultz, as you all know, decided last week that Yasser Arafat, leader of the Palestinian Liberation Organization (PLO), should not be issued a visa to enter the United States where Arafat had asked to make a major address before the United Nations in New York City.

Shultz denied the visa on grounds that Arafat is a terrorist, harbors terrorists, encourages terrorists and is probably the world's foremost exponent of terrorism.

So what else is new? It is no secret that Arafat and other powerful figures in the Middle East, including former Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin, have resorted to terrorism from time to time to achieve their goals.

The point is that after 2,000 years of animosity between the Arabs and Jews in the Middle East, Arafat is finally willing to recognize Israel's right to exist in order to establish a Palestinian homeland in the neighborhood. What he is offering is a solution to the festering problem of what to do with Palestinian refugees displaced two generations ago by the creation of Israel.

So what does the United States do in light of a proposal that just might bring some degree of harmony, if not outright peace, to the Middle East?

We slam the door in Arafat's face by denying him entry to our country.

Holy Moses!

Morally, if not legally, Shultz is on shaky ground. Other members of the United Nations certainly expected some degree of American forbearance under such circumstances when they decided to establish the permanent U.N. headquarters in New York City.

Early delegates to the U.N. must have thought the United States, among all the nations of the world, would be big enough to accommodate diverse opinions and lifestyles.

Technically, the U.N. compound is not a part of the United States, although delegates and visitors must cross U.S. soil to reach it.

In light of Shultz's intransigence, which was supported by President Reagan, members of the United Nations General Assembly will have to cross the Atlantic Ocean — to Geneva, Switzerland — if they want to hear Arafat speak this week.

In the meantime, the United States has been rapped by the U.N. for its policy toward Arafat, with only the American and Israeli delegations voting against censure. Great Britain, in a fine display of fence-straddling, abstained, although Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher earlier told Reagan he should lighten up on Arafat.

Furthermore, former President Jimmy Carter, who did so much to mend fences in the Middle East in the 1970s, fears Shultz is making a martyr of Arafat by denying him access to the U.N. pulpit.

So why did the United States act so foolishly?

I have no idea, but I do know that Israel has been dictating U.S. foreign policy relative to Middle Eastern issues ever since the 1940s. And I am afraid that President-elect George Bush, as Reagan's anointed son and heir, will continue on the same disastrous course.

Somewhere in the bowels of American government the idea persists that new solutions to old problems are basically suspect and are not even worthy of discussion.

Complicating the problem is a paranoia on the part of our national leaders that makes them look for ulterior motives in the most sincere actions by other nations and peoples.

Perhaps it would be easier for Shultz to accept Arafat into the family of nations if he shaved a couple times a week and looked a little less scruffy.

But scruffiness is scarcely a valid reason for denying the recognized leader of the world's Palestinians a voice in the United Nations.

The cynicism that pervades Washington is destroying our effectiveness as an advocate of world peace, if that indeed is one of our goals.

Sometimes you wonder...

Letters to the Editor:

Dear Editor,
Subject: Our threatened open waterfront vistas.

While our city councils swither on how to defend our Charlevoix open water frontages — on Monday 5 December 88 it will no doubt have meekly (and helplessly??) had to allow another portion of this precious but shrinking open shoreline to disappear by way of a new building to display and sell power boats.

The owners of Irish Boat Works have chosen to exercise their legal rights to erect a 60 by 60 foot building on the parking lot of their marina located on Ferry Avenue just south of Foster Boat Works Condominiums and bordering the north end of the Ferry Avenue waterfront recreational parkland. This 60 by 60 foot building is "phase one" (or the camel's head inside the tent) and is to be followed by two other 60 by 60 foot ("phases two and three") building-add-ons. — This building in total will be 180 feet long with a pitched roof peaking at a height of 32 feet above ground level or some 43 feet above existing lake level (578 foot elev). It will run parallel to the present Ferry Avenue.

This indoor facility for transient "boatlookers" effectively steals a sizable portion of the view of Lake Charlevoix from those of us who live to the west — and are year around taxpayers!

Of more importance than this visual wipeout of some of our highly valued "moving picture postcard" view of lake activities is the effect on potential uses (and valuations!) of the undeveloped open land just across Ferry Avenue from the proposed sales facility. Very likely this land will attract only users.

Probably commercial who won't care much if they can't see the lake out front. Since the Ferry Avenue "corridor" already has two vacant buildings (result of two failed businesses) even commercial prospects are somewhat dim at present.

Apparently under existing city zoning codes there are no guidelines or other criteria to control the rights of Irish (or any other waterfront owner) from erecting structures up to 35 feet in height on their shorelines even though these structures may have adverse effects on values or limit usages of not only nearby properties — but perhaps of a whole neighborhood.

Irish, I suggest, would be as well (or better) served were this power boat display building to be located at their present Stover Road facility on a space west of their present sailboat display building along the north wall of their large indoor boat storage building.

One (serious I guess) drawback to this site option is with city zoning requirements for parking spaces for their marina clients and boat shoppers. It seems that city councils, whereas they are mostly at sea on waterfront limitations — they are down right fanatical when they are counting parking spaces. Irish can't cover parking spaces but can steal view corridors!

I hope I am not the only one who would divert some of this fanatical parking space counting towards preserving open shoreline vistas for all to enjoy.

VIPs lending a helping hand to young people

by PEG OHLE

Need a companion to go fishing? To go to a basketball game? To play miniature golf? To go swimming? To share a pizza?

Several Charlevoix County residents are finding that companionship—and doing a good deed at the same time.

They are serving as Volunteers in Probation (VIPs), adult volunteers who are helping kids who have been made wards of the court.

After a training period which covers such areas as substance abuse identification, court orientation, and empathetic listening, VIPs are matched with a boy or girl with whom they share some meaningful time.

The time may be spent in activities such as those mentioned above, or it may be quiet time, visiting, helping with homework, or perhaps baking cookies.

"Visiting and talking together should not be minimized," says Bill Shumaker, VIP coordinator. "This communication meets the needs of young people who need direction in their lives."

The VIP program was started in Charlevoix a few years ago and has continued to grow under the direction of Shumaker. Twenty Charlevoix County men and women have volunteered to spend some of their time playing and working and communicating with a boy or girl to whom they have been or will be "matched". The VIPs are:

Carol Campbell, Vi Dinwiddie, John and Susan Dixon, Don and Lorraine Kelly, Bill Staffel, Barb Steele, Richard John, and Camille Green, all of Charlevoix; Ken and Sue Brill, Gil Fox, Charles and Rose Hyrman, and Lucille Cowles, all of East Jordan; and Jeanne Kirk, Molly Foster, and Lois Kaley, of Ellsworth. Ken Casemier and Steve Schwartz of Emmet County are also participating in the program.

While most of the VIPs are mature adults, a couple of them are college students gaining field experience. Shumaker believes that some mature high school seniors might also be helpful in the program.

"What we need most are more male volunteers, and we also need both more men and women in East Jordan and Boyne City," Shumaker says.

Several area restaurants and amusement places have been generous in furnishing free or cut-price coupons for meals or play by VIPs and their young companions, according to Shumaker. Among them are

The Pizza Hut, McDonald's, Burger King, Village Inn Pizza, the Mooring in East Jordan, and Adventure Golf and Paul Bryan Lanes.

Shumaker is available for talks with civic organizations and others to tell about the VIP program. His phone number is 547-7215.

College financial aid meeting for students and parents

As with all costs, the cost of attending college continues to rise. Estimates of a year of education at a public four year college range from $5,900 to $8,500. Private schools cost substantially more, ranging from $8,500 to $15,000 per year. Obviously, the majority of families are unable to afford this kind of expenditure without some sort of planning and assistance.

The answers to how a family might go about dealing with this kind of situation will be available at a workshop on Financial Aid for college that will be held Monday, Dec. 19, at 7 p.m. in the Charlevoix high school study hall.

Mrs. Toni Felter and Charlie Bentley, counselors at Charlevoix high school, will discuss federal, state and local programs for aid. Topics such as the Pell Grant, the Michigan Competitive Scholarship Program, the Michigan Tuition Grant Program, the Parent Loan Program, the Perkins Loan, the Paul Douglas Teacher Scholarship Program, the Robert C. Byrd Honor Scholarship, the Stafford Loan, and College Work Study will be presented.

The process for applying for financial aid will also be covered as well as the various forms that can be used to enter the process.

A program on the Apple microcomputer will be available to assist families in gaining an estimate of the expected family contribution. The base for financial aid is the tax year previous to college application. Therefore, parents are encouraged to bring an estimate of the 1988 tax information, or a copy of the 1987 tax statement for a less accurate estimate.

FAMILY

Malec-Spiegl

St. Francis Xavier Church altar was decorated with lighted candelabra and large white, potted chrysanthemums for the Sept. 24 wedding of Monica Anne Malec and Kenneth John Speigl. The Rev. Hugolinus Klener, OFM, performed the double ring service before 400 wedding guests. Church pews were decorated with red silk roses, baby's breath and red satin bows for the afternoon nuptials.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Malec of Petoskey and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Speigl of Charlevoix.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of lace over satin with a V-neckline trimmed with satin appliques and accented with sequins and pearls. The fitted bodice featured a V-waistline and the skirt ended in a chapel-length train with a bow in back. The bride's veil of illusion was attached to a headband of sequins, satin roses and sprays of pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses, white button mums accented with white pearls, ivy, baby's breath and white satin picot ribbon.

Playing a program of traditional wedding music was the organist Marilyn Ross. Vocalists were Tracy and Dawn Ulrich.

Patti Sipe attended the bride as matron of honor and bridesmaids were Keren McMillan, sister of the bride, Karen Speigl, sister of the groom, Jill Rose, Besty Lightfoot and Kathy Diermiller. They wore tea-length dresses of red lace over satin and wore red satin bows in their hair. The matron of honor carried red and white long stemmed roses with baby's breath and the bridesmaids each carried a single long stemmed white rose with baby's breath.

Christine Jones and Erika Kammermann were flower girls and wore white, tea-length dresses with red satin bows. Each carried a basket of red and white silk flowers with baby's breath.

Monica and Ken Speigl

Scott Sipe was best man and groomsmen were Bob McMillan, Dan Malec, brother of the bride, Jim Crinnion, Tony Oberg and Scott Clancy. Ushers were Troy Goodrich and Steve Bellmer.

A reception, given by the parents of the bride and assisted by the parents of the groom, was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall. Masters and mistresses of ceremony were the bride's godparents, Leo and Carol Guznick, and the groom's godparents, Kathy Jones and Mike Moore. The wedding cake was served by aunts of the groom Donna Wozon and Kathy Jones.

The rehearsal dinner was held at the home of the groom's parents on Sept. 23.

Following a wedding trip to Myrtle Beach, S.C., the couple are residing in Petoskey. The bride is a 1987 graduate of Central Michigan University and holds a bachelor of science degree. She is currently a certified exercise specialist in cardiac rehabilitation at Northern Michigan Hospitals. The groom is a 1986 graduate of Central Michigan University and holds a bachelor of science degree. He is currently a youth diversional worker for Emmet County Probate Court.

Fotchman-Culbertson

Former Charlevoix residents Deborah L. Fochtman and Craig E. Culbertson have announced their plans to marry next spring.

The intended bride is the daughter of William Fochtman of Charlevoix and Mrs. Ina Fochtman of Haslett. She graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1979, and from Michigan State University in 1981. She is currently employed by Grant-Jacoby, Inc. in Chicago as an Account Executive in advertising.

Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Picha of Livonia and Charlevoix and the late Edgar A. Culbertson. He is also the grandson of Mrs. John G. Cross, Sr. He graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1976 and attended Ferris State University. He is employed at the Chicago Board of Trade as a risk manager for LIT American-Goldberg Division.

Wieland-Leake

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wieland of Charlevoix announce the engagement of their daughter Tamara Marie to Robert James Leake.

The intended bride is a graduate of Charlevoix High School and Spring Arbor College and is a physician recruiter with CompHealth in Salt Lake City, Utah.

Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Leake of Dayton, Ohio and is an Air Force air traffic controller stationed at Hill Air Force Base, Utah. A December 23 wedding in Charlevoix is planned.

FIRST OF AMERICA

Charlevoix resident Dolores E. Krueger, 68, died Dec. 3, 1988, at the Little Traverse Division, Northern Michigan Hospitals in Petoskey.

Funeral mass was held Monday at St. Marys Catholic Church. The Rev. James K. Gardiner officiated and burial took place in St. Marys Cemetery.

Mrs. Krueger was born June 5, 1920 in Sandusky, Ohio, the daughter of Edward and Helen (Andrea) Higgins.

On Jan. 22, 1949, she married Walter David Krueger in San-

Delores E. Krueger

duky, Ohio. The couple moved to Manitowoc, Wis. in 1960 and then to Charlevoix in 1967. Mr. Krueger died Feb. 26, 1983.

Mrs. Krueger was a member of St. Marys Catholic Church and St. Marys Altar Society, Charlevoix.

Survivors include: three daughters, Mrs. Paul (Sharon) Parrish of Charlevoix, Mrs. Dale (Debbie) Boss of Charlevoix, and Mrs. David (Linda) Nolan of Chagrin Falls, Ohio; five grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. Thomas (Jeanette)

Landoll of Sandusky, Ohio; four brothers, Kenneth Higgins, Merlin Higgins and Joseph Higgins, all of Sandusky, Ohio and Harold Higgins of Monroeville, Ohio.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the Oncology Department at the Little Traverse Division, Northern Michigan Hospitals.

Food Pantry gathering Christmas goods

The Charlevoix Community Food Pantry is collecting items for their annual Christmas project. The project provides more than 160 households with Christmas dinners and gifts for children and the elderly.

The food pantry Christmas project is supported by a wide variety of individuals and organizations in the community.

Some examples are: an 81-year-old lady who, despite a heart condition, knit 100 pairs of mittens for this year's project; the Boy Scouts of Troop 11 who collected more than 300 cans of food; a man who before leaving for Florida donated scarves and caps which he made on his knitting machine as he watched football games; the Rainbow

Shope, which is providing all of the birds for Christmas dinners; St. Mary's Church members are gathering toys and have also supplied 75 sacks of groceries; several other churches, along with Welcome Wagon, the Rainbow Shoppe, American Legion Auxiliary and Glen's Market have all given checks.

The Community Food Pantry Advisory Board has said that cutbacks in federal grants have made giving all the more needed this year. The board is asking for volunteers to help with shopping, wrapping, packing and delivering parcels. Also needed are: knitters; canned goods; and money to purchase perishable items and gifts.

People wishing to contribute either time, talents, funds or goods to the Community Food Pantry Christmas Project may write to Community Food Pantry, Christmas Project, C.O. Congregational Church, 101 State Street, Charlevoix MI 49720 or call 547-5518 or 547-0515.

To avoid duplications of effort or omissions, the Community Food Pantry would also like to hear from other groups sponsoring similar projects in the community.

St. Mary's dinner

The annual Christmas dinner for members of the St. Mary's Altar Society will take place at 6:30 p.m., Wednesday, Dec. 14 at the Argonne Supper Club.

Members planning to attend should call 547-5518 or 547-6809 by Dec. 10 to make reservations.

Rayders sneak by E.J.

By TIM HENNE
Charlevoix's boys basketball team outscored East Jordan 69-67 Saturday in a fast-paced and exciting season and home opener.

Charlevoix's attack was spearheaded by Webb Friedly and Bob Jess, who combined for 32 points and 12 rebounds. Each had 16 points.

Jess also had five assists and forced four key turnovers. Friedly stung the opposition by capitalizing on fouls and going 10 for 12 from the free-throw line.

Two other Rayders also scored in double figures. James Corwin and Mike Himebauch scored 13 and 12 respectively.

Although the action was swift and continuous, East Jordan had slowly built up a six point lead with three minutes left in the game when a blocked shot by Jess turned the momentum Charlevoix's way. The resulting basket narrowed East Jordan's lead to four.

A worried-looking East Jordan team brought the ball cautiously up the court with close to two minutes left in the game. However, they weren't quite cautious enough as their next two possessions resulted in steals by Charlevoix's Corwin twins, Jason and James.

With the score suddenly tied, East Jordan again failed to capitalize. To wild cheering, the bulk of which came from the Charlevoix student section, Charlevoix took the lead.

Another East Jordan turnover had Charlevoix sitting pretty, but the shot that would have iced the game bounced off the backboard and into a melee below.

Fortunately for Charlevoix, when things untangled, Friedly had laid claim to the rebound. The rebound combined with East Jordan not fouling in the last 20 seconds allowed the Rayders to come away with the two-point win.

Rayder coach Jim Kanine said of his victorious team, "I was really worried when we were down by six with three minutes left, but we hung in there and I was proud of the character we showed."

This Friday evening Charlevoix will travel to Gaylord.

Webb Friedly (43) collects a rebound in Charlevoix's season opener against East Jordan this past Saturday evening. Friedly had 16 points as Charlevoix won 69-67.

New athletic league is forming

Charlevoix is one of a large number of Northern Michigan schools which is probably going to end up in a new athletic conference encompassing more than 30 schools.

At Monday evening's school board meeting, Dale Burge of the high school athletic department, told board members of the direction the school is moving and the form the proposed new conference is taking.

Charlevoix has been in the Michigan Huron Shores Conference for several years. That conference recently disbanded and reformed as the Michigan Huron Shores League. The difference between the conference and the league was basically that Onaway and Boyne City were not in the league.

Now the league is beginning to crumble. Rogers City and Grayling have indicated that they intend to leave the Michigan Huron Shores League.

Burge said some of the problems with present leagues is that many include schools with a wide discrepancy in enrollment numbers. Some small schools are in leagues where they must play much larger schools.

The state's system for determining which school's qualify for the football playoffs has one of the main proponents leading to league breakups. In order to qualify for the playoffs, a team has to play strong opponents. A class B school in a league with several class C schools can't do that.

Currently administrators from at least 36 school districts north of M-55 are discussing forming a new league which would be broken down into several tiers or brackets. Teams could change from one bracket to another from year to year in order to continue competing with other schools at their level.

"Fair and equitable competition for the kids" is the primary objective of the new league, Burge said.

"Right now there is a great deal of interest," he noted. He said the next step is to determine exactly which schools want to make a commitment to the new league and to begin working out logistics.

Working out logistics will take time. Charlevoix expects to stay in the Michigan Huron Shores League for at least this year and next year. The new league would form in the 1990-91 school year.

Some of the logistical considerations are scheduling, fair competition and travel.

Burge mentioned that there are 14 or 15 class C schools such as Charlevoix north of M-55 and west of I-75. Those schools may end up forming two brackets of the new league.

Council postpones action on Irish bldg. plan

The city council postponed action Monday evening on an Irish Boat Shop site plan for building a 60 foot by 60 foot boat sales building at the Irish property north of Ferry Avenue beach.

Earlier, the city planning commission unanimously recommended approval of the plan despite objections from some people affiliated with the Marina Bluff condominiums. The condominiums are on a bluff overlooking the site. Owners of the condominiums objected to the new sales building because it will partially block their view of Lake Charlevoix.

According to the site plan presented to the planning commission, the new sales building will be 32 feet high at its peak and meets all city zoning requirements.

The planning commission recommendation was made at the commission's Nov. 30 meeting. Following planning commission action, site plans go before the city council for approval or denial.

Road Commission to fill vacancy

Three candidates for an upcoming vacancy on the Charlevoix County Road Commission were interviewed by members of the County Board last week.

Incumbent Delbert Ingalls, Wayne Saunders, and Dennis Jason, all of the East Jordan area, gave their thoughts about Road Commission operations.

This appointment, the term for which expires January 1, is traditionally filled by a person from the East Jordan area. The other two Road Commission spots are filled by persons from the Charlevoix and Boyne City areas.

Road Commission members serve six-year terms.

Grange hosts Christmas program

The Barnard Grange will host their annual old fashioned Christmas program beginning at 4 p.m., Sunday, Dec. 11 at the Grange building on Barnard Road.

Grange members will offer readings, songs, skits, etc. at the program. Santa Claus will make an appearance, kind of like a pre-Christmas Eve scouting run, and will have treats for children at the program. Adults will be served cookies and coffee.

Two local Grange members recently received awards from the National Grange Convention in Redding California.

Marge Warner, traveled to the convention to perform a skit. She placed third in the national talent competition. In October, Warner won the talent competition at the State Grange Convention in Charlevoix.

KCB lights contest

Keep Charlevoix Beautiful (KCB) is sponsoring a Residential Christmas Lighting Display contest for people in the Charlevoix area.

All residents in the city and within an approximate 4-mile radius of the city limits may participate.

KCB officials say they hope people will use imagination and lots of lights in decorating their homes to give people another reason to enjoy the spirit and beauty of the season in Charlevoix.

Contest judging will occur between 5:30 and 6:30 p.m., Friday, Dec. 16. Recognition will be given to two homes in each of the following three areas: within the city limits north of the bridge; within the city limits southeast of U.S. 31; and outside the city limits.

People wishing to have their decorations judged are asked to call the Chamber of Commerce (547-2101) by Dec. 15 and talk to Jackie Kruttsch.

Best decorated businesses

Charlevoix Electrical Service has been selected as the overall winner of the 1988 Business Christmas Decoration contest sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

This year's contest was judged by Karen Kelly, Gayle Gennett and Nancy Porter.

Following Charlevoix Electrical Service in the overall category were: Pointes North Inn, first runner up; Weather-vane Terrace, second runner up; Charlevoix County State Bank, third runner up.

Other categories and their winners were: restaurants; tie between Stafford's Weather-vane Restaurant and Little Caesar's Pizza; lodging, Pointes North Inn; gift stores; Wildwood Innovations; hard goods, Staley's Hardware; soft goods, Mettlers; auto dealership, Charlevoix Chrysler, Plymouth, Dodge; financial institutions, Charlevoix County State Bank; food stores, 7-Eleven; industrial, Charlevoix Electrical Service.

Baird graduates from computer course

Kelly C. Baird, a medical secretary in the office of James A. Gels, MD, located at 724 Park Avenue, has recently graduated from the Introductory Computer Course on the "Physician Practice System" offered by Michigan HealthSource of Petoskey.

"The course is aimed at developing computer skills for the staffs of physician offices here in northern Michigan," said Jim Perricone, director of Michigan HealthSource.

Republicans name new party officers

John Haggard, Charlevoix business man, was elected chairman of the Charlevoix County Republican party last week.

Also elected to two-year terms were T. Carol Stephan of Charlevoix, vice-chairman; Jane Brannon of Hayes Township, secretary; and Oral Sutliff of Boyne City, treasurer.

Haggard presently serves as treasurer of the 11th Congressional District Republican Convention, made up of 27 counties in northern lower Michigan and the Upper Peninsula.

Charlevoix County Republicans are looking forward to a Lincoln Day dinner in March featuring a nationally known speaker from Washington. Plans for this event will be formalized at the next party meeting, on December 15.

Correction

In the story accompanying last week's Scrapbook picture, we stated the operetta "Peter Rabbit" was presented by elementary school students in 1917. Some of those students who still live in town say this is impossible because they weren't born until about 1920. The right date must be 1927.

In the previous week's story about the presentation of the bell from the old bridge to the Charlevoix Historical Society by Mrs. Helen Cunningham and her daughters, we left out the name of daughter Beverly (Mrs. John) Sladek.

Berlage seeks zoning variances

Don Berlage, developer of the Park Place condominiums on Park Avenue, brought two variance requests before the city planning commission Monday evening.

The commission recommended denial of one request and recommended a compromise solution on the other.

The Park Place project has been the subject of controversy in the past included a mediated court settlement which included the city, but for a time was kept secret. Monday evening's variance requests drew objections from some audience members and people who were party to the mediated agreement.

Berlage asked for two variances.

One request was for a six foot eight inch variance off the northeast corner of the building so he could build a balcony off an upper story tower. Planning commission members turned that down. (The planning commission does not make final approval or denial. They make recommendations which go before the zoning board of appeals and city council.)

The other request concerned a parking area in front of the Park Place. Berlage presently has 15 paved parking spaces. According to the zoning regulations which were in effect when his site plan was adopted, he needs 22.

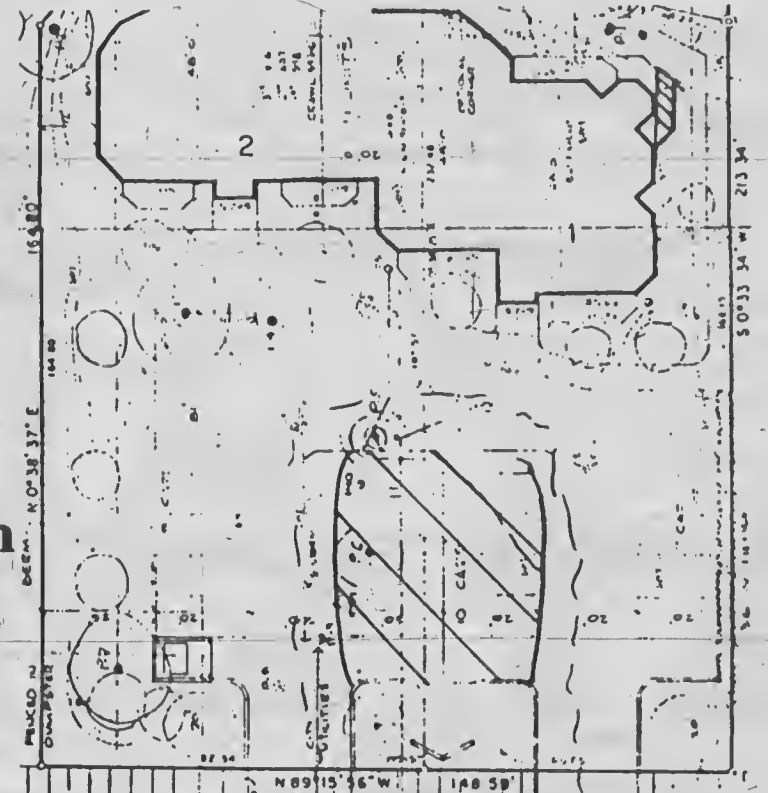

There currently is a grassy area in front of the complex. According to the mediated settlement, that area is for 10 additional parking spaces.

Berlage asked for a variance to leave the center area of the parking area as grass rather than pavement.

He said with the development of Hoffmann Park to the east of the Park Place, the area has a park-like atmosphere. He maintained that keeping the center of the parking lot grass would enhance that atmosphere.

Berlage contended that he had

Objections are raised again

When the Park Place condominium controversy flared up again at Monday evening's planning commission meeting, it was like a familiar play which has been seen several times.

The characters were all the same and they were all going through pretty much the same lines.

Last spring, the Park Place was the focus of a mediated court settlement. Some of the players in that settlement were Park Place developer Don Berlage, city councilman Norm Probert, Park Avenue resident Dave Miles and WATCH president Jerry Puhl.

Two variance requests by Berlage brought the cast together again Monday evening. Ultimately, the way things ended Monday was with the planning commission recommending denial of a sideyard variance for a balcony, but recommending approval of a parking variance, stipulating the parking area

Hayes - Fox zoning case going to Supreme Court

by PEG OHLE

Does Hayes Township have the right to limit the number of docks a riparian property owner may install? May Hayes Township tell a riparian property owner to whom he may grant use of his water front? Does any township in Michigan have authority to regulate use of lake frontage in this manner?

These questions will probably be answered early next year when the case of Fox and Associates, Inc. vs. Hayes Township is heard by the Michigan Supreme Court.

The decision is expected to be of landmark proportions and will end four years of court action in the matter.

Fox and Associates owns 337 acres of land with 2,800 feet of frontage on Oyster Bay in Hayes Township. In April, 1984, Fox made its first attempt to secure a zoning permit from Hayes Township to build a condominium, boat slip, and golf course development on the property. The permit request was denied because of the density of the development, and a month later another request for a scaled-down development was also denied.

Hayes Township counter-proposed a still smaller development consisting of 128 living units, 23 of which would have lake access, and 28 boat slips. A development of this size would conform to the township's zoning ordinance, which permits "one slip or dock space for each 100 feet of lake frontage, and lake access of not more than one single-family living unit for each 100 feet of lake frontage."

Fox responded that a develop-

Why Santa rides on a fire truck

As is Charlevoix tradition for pre-Christmas visits by Santa Claus, Santa will arrive on a fire truck, rather than in a reindeer drawn sleigh.

Santa Claus will visit Charlevoix at 1 p.m. this Saturday afternoon. He will meet with the community's children at East Park and distribute boxes of candy.

The fire truck tradition began many years ago in a year when Santa's reindeer had a run of bad luck two weeks before Christmas.

First Blitzen sprained an ankle while he and Donner were playing reindeer games. Then Rudolph caught a terrible cold and instead of glowing, his nose was just running. And Prancer, poor Prancer. While taking a break from prancing, he didn't pay attention to where he was sitting down and plunked right down on top of a snowblower. What a sad tale of woe that was for Prancer.

Santa took the three injured reindeer to the North Pole vet. The vet taped Blitzen's ankle, wrote a prescription for Rudolph and stitched up Prancer. He said that with rest, the reindeer would be up and around in time for Christmas Eve, but there was no way they'd be well in time to make the annual pre-Christmas trip to Charlevoix.

When folks in Charlevoix got word of this, they were all broken up, especially the children. No pre-Christmas visit by Santa meant he might not know what they wanted for Christmas. He might bring everybody the wrong stuff.

The firemen were concerned too. They had hundreds of little boxes of candy and no Santa Claus to distribute them.

At an emergency fire department meeting, one of the firemen noted, "We can't eat all this candy ourselves. It'll rot our teeth and spoil our appetites for supper."

The other firemen agreed. Ultimately, they concluded there was only one thing to do. They must take a fire truck to the North Pole and fetch old Santa back to Charlevoix.

Having the firemen haul in Santa proved to be an idea so popular that not even the city council argued about it.

So a fire department tanker truck was dispatched to the North Pole. The trip was slow going up, but fast coming back. If you look at a map or a globe, it's apparent that while the trip from Charlevoix to the North Pole is all uphill, the trip back is all downhill.

Coming back from the North Pole, the firemen used a portable pump to spray water from the truck out in front of them. The water formed ice and the truck slid downhill lickety-split, all the way from the North Pole to Charlevoix.

... Hayes - Fox case goes before state's high court

ment of this size on the property was not economically feasible, and in January, 1985, filed suit against Hayes Township. The suit contended that the above-noted provisions of the township zoning ordinance "limit and deprive the Plaintiff of riparian rights in and to the navigable waters of Lake Charlevoix," and, further, it (the ordinance) was not written under the provisions of the Township Zoning Act, and therefore does not apply.

The case was transferred from Charlevoix Circuit Court to Cheboygan Circuit Court, where, in October, 1985, the ordinance was declared valid. An appeal to the Michigan Court of Appeals followed, and in September, 1987, this court held that the Michigan Township Zoning Enabling Act does not authorize townships to regulate or limit boat dockage construction or riparian access rights. It also struck down the ordinance provisions limiting waterfront access.

Still undaunted, Hayes

Township asked the Michigan Supreme court to hear the case so that it would be known once and for all whether or not these provisions of the Hayes Township zoning ordinance are legally enforceable.

In the meantime, Fox and Hayes Township have been working toward an out-of-court settlement which includes Fox's offer to drop the suit in exchange for township approval of an even smaller scaled-back development plan which meets township zoning ordinance provisions. However, Fox is asking for the minimum Supreme Court damages of $10,001. This means that if he wins the case the most he could receive is $10,001, and if he loses, he could receive nothing.

The Christmas tree monster

It's over. This annual trauma is past.

Although there were a few minor flesh wounds, my wife and I got the Christmas tree up and decorated last week with no death toll.

Every year my wife looks forward to putting up the Christmas tree with a level of anticipation which parallels my dread of the task.

It starts about the first week of December.

"So what are we going to do about a Christmas tree this year?" she asks, smiling like a kid talking about the prospect of a circus coming to town.

"Well, I guess we'll probably have to have one again," I concede grudgingly. "But just a small one, not another of those monster ones."

Yeah right. My wife will consent to having just a small Christmas tree some year. That same year, there'll be a 7-11 store on the moon and on warm summer evenings I'll be able to walk up there and get a Slurpee.

My wife, or as I sometimes affectionately call her "the accumulator," is kind of a collector of Christmas tree ornaments. For her, decorating just one small tree would be completely unfulfilling.

I've always suspected that for her, the perfect Christmas would be having a whole forest full of Christmas trees inside the house just for her to decorate.

In a recurring nightmare which I have at this time of year, I see myself dragging a huge Christmas tree into the house. My wife is kneeling in the closet in the front entryway. She is digging out another, yes another, box filled with Christmas tree ornaments.

As I haul the tree through the front door, she looks up at me and asks, "What kind do you have there?"

"Blue Spruce," I answer. "Good," she says. "Just put it in the kitchen with the other Blue Spruces. I'm dedicating the kitchen to Blue Spruce and filling the living room with Scotch Pines."

Fortunately that's just a nightmare and reality isn't quite so bad. In the real world, my wife buys one, and only one, huge, monster Christmas tree.

Once the tree is home, I cut off the end, engage the tree in hand-to-needle combat, squeeze it through the doorway and then stand it up...straight...perfectly straight in the decoration corner.

A decorating frenzy ensues and a couple of hours, several strings of lights, a few thousand ornaments and a bale or two of tinsel later the tree is decorated and Christmas season has officially started at our house.

Appreciates Odmak tribute

Editor:

I was delighted to learn of the Clarence Odmak Pavilion which is being planned for Charlevoix. I know "Odie" very well because of my earlier days as a teacher of instrumental music in the Ann Arbor Public Schools as well as Managing Secretary of the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association. How well I remember the early 1950's when Odie and I were working together to improve the status and quality of instrumental music in the state of Michigan.

Most of the state meetings centered around Ann Arbor, Kalamazoo and East Lansing. You could always depend on Odie being there and making the round-trip drive from Charlevoix, regardless of the weather.

But more important, Odie was one of those various successful band conductors in the state who took great pride in his community and in the young people with whom he worked. They always received the highest ratings at the district and state music competitions. He was a person who developed pride, commitment and discipline. It was obvious that his students and parents loved him.

This is a great tribute to Odie, and I commend you for developing this pavilion in a community which is expanding very rapidly. It will provide a space for cultural activities for many months during the year.

With warm personal regards for much success in your endeavors.

Marvin Witthoef, son of Lucy and Ivan Witthoef, had a similar experience as Cheryl Georgi. He's attending Warren Wilson College in North Carolina on a full scholarship. There are only 425 students on a work-study program, who come from all over the United States to this lovely, scenic campus.

The first night in the chapel where the group gathered for choir practice, each student introduced himself. When Marvin said, "I'm from Charlevoix," a student spoke up and said, "We know Margie Dinwiddle in Charlevoix!"

No wonder Marvin likes the place. It's small, friendly and has a fine curriculum in drama, music and the arts, which Marvin hopes will lead to a teaching certificate.

Charlevoix people do get around, or else the world is shrinking and getting smaller and smaller.

Waves washing inland

Editor,
SUBJECT: "No wake" rules for shoreland?

QUESTION: Can a boat really "make waves" when it's just sitting on dry land?

ANSWER: A fog splitting yes, and with multiple earth shaking echoes!

QUESTION: That sounds ridiculous but I guess you're going to tell me how anyway?

ANSWER: Since you asked, if and when we can't stop the owners of Irish Boat Shops from erecting a large view stealing building to display and sell land bound power boats on the parking lot of their Lake Charlevoix marina. The marina lies between Charlevoix's Ferry Avenue beach park and recreational area and Foster Boat Works residential condominiums. This boat shopper's paradise would have a roof peak some 43 feet above the lake's present 578 feet elevation. It is proposed to start out as a 60 foot long building with plans to extend it to a full 180 feet, running parallel to the present Ferry Avenue.

QUESTION: Got the picture, but the waves?

ANSWER: The first wave hits on the undeveloped land just to the west across Ferry Avenue. This 32 foot high by 180 foot building would block out most of the direct lake view, which is a major value consideration when attracting residential users of land that close to Lake Charlevoix and to recreational marinas and park land.

A second wave would be the commercialization of this (our) neighborhood. This area as of now has an orientation of recreation usage (including Irish's marina sans power boat sales), and of residential usage both present and future, once this "seed" boat selling building is "planted" the Ferry Avenue "corridor" will follow.

A third wave would hit those of us who have already invested a premium amount to enjoy our "moving picture postcard" view of lake activities. The wave would rob us of a sizable portion of this view, and likely value losses at times of sale, a real loss in taxes to the community as a direct consequence.

A fourth wave can go beyond just our corner of Charlevoix. Because of the ever present threat to surrounding land usage and values wherever and whenever an owner of our precious open shoreline exercises his present legal rights to build.

The present Charlevoix city council can best serve the community should it again defer its approval of Irish's plans to allow time for a more equitable to all solution to shore land "wake action." Even though the Irish boat sales building is small compared to previously built shoreline structures and to other future threatening structures it can serve as an excellent role model on which to formulate new legal guidelines.

I suggest that now is the time and Irish's power boat shoppers emporium is the place to put "no wake" land wave regulations in place. As an ardent boater for well over a half century I always power down in a waterway posted "no wake" whether the sign also reads "rule" or just "please." My experience is that all true boaters do likewise. True boaters shouldn't make waves on "no wake" shoreland either! Even when the boat is sitting on dry land!

Santa shop again was successful

To the Santa Shop Shoppers:

Thank you for coming to Santa's Shop, December 3. All the youth enjoyed helping the community children pick out Christmas presents for their family and friends.

There are at least 3 shoppers

If you are any of these shoppers please call the church office at 547-9122 or 547-5803 to pick up your gifts and/or glasses.

So far, it's been a sticky drawer, a leaky faucet, and a plugged up sink drain. And it's only 10 A.M.

"The goal of all inanimate objects is to resist man and ultimately to defeat him."

Russell Baker, in The New York Times

Copyright 1988, Charles Duerr.

If you are a veteran of military service, the chances are pretty good that among your memorabilia — tucked away in a dresser drawer — is a set of "dog tags" on a ball-link metal chain.

When I was in the Army during the Korean Unpleasantness, I was issued such a set of tags and ordered to wear them at all times under all conditions.

I was a good soldier and never took them off — even in the shower.

But I did unhook the clasp from time to time to add or remove doughnut-shaped Japanese coins. It was nice to have a ready supply of cash to pay rickshaw drivers.

I also kept a variety of foot-locker keys on the chain, but I don't know why. I never owned anything worth locking up.

BY THE TIME the Army bid me farewell, I had so much hardware hanging around my neck I was becoming stoop-shouldered. I think that's why they let me go.

The tags themselves, however, weigh next to nothing. They are made of a lightweight aluminum alloy crimped at the edge so they keep their shape. The only ominous thing about them is a deep notch at one end. The story goes that if you are killed in action, the person who finds you is supposed to put one of the tags in your mouth with the notch between your teeth. The other tag is to be sent to the Department of the Army.

I don't know if the story is true, but I assume it is. If not, why would the Army give you two dog tags instead of one?

The tags are imprinted with some basic identification information. Mine read: Clock, John R., US 55096330, T51. Elsewhere on the tag are "O" and "P."

I don't know what the "T" stands for, but I assume it means that I was "Transmogrified" into the U.S. Army in 1951. The "O" is my blood type and the "P" means I am a Protestant and would Prefer a Pint of Pernod to the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church.

ALL OF WHICH brings up a mysterious dog tag which has fallen into the hands of Brian Warner of Charlevoix.

The tag was given to Brian by a Boyne City homeowner who found it in a load of topsoil Brian delivered to him some time ago. The topsoil came from the farm of Brian's father, Doyle Warner, who lives on Warner Road near Barnard. The tag is made of brass and is rounder than my Army tags. And there is no notch. The tag reads:

Leo Philip Misner, 314-03-43, USNR-O, T-844-P.

I attempted to reach all four Misners in the telephone book. Two didn't answer and one party, anticipating my call, had requested an unlisted number.

But I did have a nice talk with Ray Misner, 75, of Petoskey who still carries his dog tags on his key ring.

He said he had never heard of a Leo Philip Misner although he thinks they would have been about the same age.

I don't know much about Navy jargon, but it sounds like Leo Philip served with the U.S. Naval Reserve during World War II and was "Transmogrified" in August of 1944. It sounds like he also had type "O" blood and preferred Pernod to communion wine.

But I'm not sure. And neither is Brian.

It bothers Brian that Leo Philip has lost one of his dog tags. He knows that most veterans wouldn't trade their dog tags for a million bucks. You can't help develop an emotional attachment to something you have worn next to your heart while doing KP. Witness the fact that Ray Misner still carries his tags on his key ring. And I keep mine in my dresser drawer.

Furthermore, Brian can't imagine anyone being so careless as to lose a dog tag.

For that matter, what was Leo Philip Misner doing on Doyle Warner's farm? Hunting?

Could be.

Brian says the topsoil was removed from a wooded area of the farm, quite a distance from the road. He wonders if Leo Philip could have met foul play while walking in the woods.

Perhaps someone stole Leo Philip's dog tag and lost it while fleeing across the Warner farm. Perhaps Leo Philip gave the tag to his girlfriend as a token of his affection and she threw it away in a fit of pique when he started making big eyes at the meter maid.

Whatever happened, Mr. Misner's dog tag is in good hands. He can claim it by contacting Brian Warner at 547-4156.

... Park Place conflict revisited

surveyed other Charlevoix condominium complexes and found that all of the required parking spaces are very rarely, if ever, fully utilized.

He also noted that if the parking lot center is paved, two large birch trees will have to be destroyed.

Berlage said that to maintain the park-like atmosphere, he had placed a restriction on the property prohibiting of any garages or carports at the Park Place in the future.

In his request for a variance, Berlage also included a $3,000 check payable to the City of Charlevoix. He asked that the check be placed in an interest bearing account for a five-year period. He suggested that if the city ultimately decided the parking lot center should be paved, that money would be used for the paving cost.

After listening to objections to the variance requests from five people among the audience (see accompanying story), the planning commission began deliberating toward a decision.

A motion to recommend denial of the sideyard (balcony) variance passed with minimal discussion or dispute.

Planning commission member Barb Fels, who made the motion, said, "I can't see any reason for granting an additional variance. I don't see any hardship or practical difficulty."

The recommendation passed 4-0, Fels, Dave Novotny, Russ Lewis and Nancy Wood voting in favor while June Cross and Carol Sullivan were absent.

The parking lot request drew more discussion.

City planner Gerry Harsch brought up the possibility of requiring a turf-stone to be used in the area in question rather than pavement. Turf-stone involves putting paver blocks or a plastic mesh substance in the soil and allowing grass to grow up in between. Harsch said the area would then look like a lawn, but would be stable enough not to be torn up by vehicles occasionally parking there.

A motion by Lewis to allow the area to remain simply grass failed for lack of support.

Subsequently, a motion by Wood supported by Novotny to allow turf-stone rather than pavement, passed. The motion also stipulated that rather than 10 spaces, seven spaces (which would bring the total to the required 22) would be sufficient. Another stipulation was that the edge of the turf-stone area be graded so that it would be conducive to parking.

The motion passed 3-0 with Lewis abstaining.

... action on variance requests

could be turf-stone rather than asphalt. (See accompanying story.)

Miles, Puhl and Probert, along with Doris Lundtgen spoke in opposition to the variance requests. Miles and Puhl claimed the mediated agreement stipulated that Berlage would make no more variance requests on the Park Place complex.

In an interview following the meeting, Miles said that by asking for variances, Berlage is asking the city to break the mediated agreement.

During the meeting, Berlage's response to those arguments was that they were arguments which focused on the mediated agreement rather than the public interest of the community. He said his request for the sideyard balcony was to enhance the appearance of the building and the front yard parking request was to keep a park-like atmosphere in harmony with neighboring Hoffmann Park, as opposed to a sea of asphalt.

The people who objected to the variance requests said Berlage knew about the development of Hoffmann Park at the time the site plan, which calls for paved parking spaces, was approved. They also said that in violation of the mediated agreement, Berlage paved all the way up to the eastern property line, rather than leaving three feet for a buffering hedge.

Berlage said he and city planner Gerry Harsch have discussed the pavement problem and he has agreed to remove the three feet of pavement to allow for the hedge.

There was also a question of two Park Place lamp poles which were mistakenly put on the Hoffmann Park side of the property line. Berlage said that if the city desires, he will remove and reposition the lamp poles.

Harsch said the lamp pole problem occurred because a property stake got moved while a new sidewalk was being put in, but he and Berlage are negotiating a resolution of that situation.

One of the more interesting exchanges of the meeting involved Berlage and Probert. When Probert got up to voice his objections to the variance requests, Berlage objected to Probert speaking on the issue.

Berlage claimed Probert, as a city councilman, shouldn't try to sway a planning commission decision as the city council appoints planning commission members.

Probert said the mayor, not the city council, appoints planning commission members.

Berlage contended that Probert is personally biased and prejudiced against him. Berlage asked planning commission chairman Dave Novotny to not allow Probert to speak due to this bias.

Novotny said that until he receives advice to the contrary from the city attorney, he will allow Probert to address the planning commission on the issue.

At a city council meeting earlier this year, Berlage made a similar request for Probert to disqualify himself from discussion and voting in matters related to Berlage. On that occasion, Probert didn't say too much following the request, but when it came time to vote, he voted.

At the planning commission meeting, Probert said the side yard variance request violated the rights of other city residents, possibly would set a precedent and might also create a fire hazard.

Addressing the parking request, Probert said it was possible to save two large birch trees and still add seven spaces to the area in question, which would give the Park Place the necessary parking.

Probert also charged that Berlage "has attempted to coerce me in many ways." He said Berlage had tried to find out "what it would take for me to keep my mouth closed."

Probert said he would no longer complain if Berlage complied with the zoning ordinance.

Following the meeting, the Courier asked Berlage how he felt about the planning commission's action in recommending denial of the side yard variance and approval of a modified parking plan. Berlage politely declined to comment, explaining that he doesn't want to say anything which might escalate the controversy surrounding the Park Place project.

In response to the same question, Puhl said he feels he can go along with the planning commission action although he feels that according to the mediated settlement, there should be no variance requests and by making the requests Berlage is "pushing" things.

Bartz-Colvin

Deborah and James Colvin

Deborah Bartz and James Colvin were married by the Charlevoix County Magistrate on Wednesday, November 3.

The bride is the daughter of Michael and Kay Bartz of Charlevoix, and her bridegroom is the son of Floyd and Lois Colvin of Sault Ste. Marie.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a tea-length gown of imported white lace and carried a bouquet of pink and white satin flowers made by Jo Walker.

Darla Paquette was her sister's matron of honor. She wore a pink dress and, carried white flowers. The bride's daughter, Katie, served as flower girl, wearing a pink and white dress. Steven Colvin, the bridegroom's brother, assisted as best man.

The bride's parents hosted a dinner at the Holiday Inn in Petoskey following the wedding.

The bridegroom is stationed aboard the United States Coast Guard Cutter Mesquite, now serving in Florida waters. The ship will return to Charlevoix in April.

Tina Waun, who moved from Charlevoix to Royal Oak, was recently crowned homecoming queen at Don Dero High School there. She is the daughter of Bob Waun and Cindy Centers.

Stop smoking class offered

Those making new year's resolutions to quit smoking can do it and have fun in the process through the "Freedom from Smoking" program beginning Tuesday, Jan. 17, at 7 p.m. at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The weekly sessions sponsored by the Charlevoix Area Hospital and the American Lung Association will conclude on Tuesday, March 7. Cheryl Jacobs, respiratory therapist and program leader, says, "The program really works because we don't quit 'cold turkey' the first night and people find the support they need in the group to make breaking the habit permanent. The first session is an orientation meeting when the program outline will be explained.

A minimum of 12 registrations must be received in order to hold the class. Cost for the program is $50. For further information, or registration, call Cheryl Jacobs or Nancy Ellison at Charlevoix Area Hospital 547-4024.

Yearbook sales begin

Orders for the 1989 high school Rayder Yearbook are now being taken at the high school principal's office.

Yearbook orders will not be taken after Dec. 22. Yearbooks must be ordered during December as no extras will be ordered from the publisher. Yearbooks will arrive at the school and be distributed in May, prior to graduation.

B-ball team still winning

Although Charlevoix's varsity basketball team hasn't always been winning big this season, they've still been winning.

Last week Charlevoix ran their season record to 3-0 beating Harbor Springs 67-59 Tuesday evening and Gaylord 54-52 Friday evening.

At Harbor Springs, the game was close in the first half, but in the second half the Rayders dialed "D" for "Defense" and Harbor Springs wilted.

Faced with Charlevoix's aggressive defense, the Ram's offense had a game that would arouse jealousy in many a baker. The Harbor Springs troops made 34 turnovers in 32 minutes.

However, early in the game, Harbor Springs wasn't the only team experiencing offensive woes. If the Ram offense could be compared to masons, the Rayder offense could be compared to masons. Instead of sweet, net-ripping jumpers, they were putting up bricks, particularly in the first quarter.

By the second half, the Rayders had gotten squared away and put Harbor Springs away in the third quarter. Bob Jess played a crucial role in the offensive rejuvenation as he buried two three-point shots.

Jess finished the game with a team-high 16 points. Shawn Putman had 13 points and Webb Friedly finished with 10 points and seven rebounds.

Friday evening Charlevoix played host to Gaylord in the teams' first league game of the season.

Charlevoix led for most of the game, but never by a particularly comfortable margin. Although the Rayders trailed 12-10 after the first quarter, they were up 26-21 at the half and 39-34 entering the fourth quarter.

Down, but not out, Gaylord rallied and drew within a point at 53-52 with 30 seconds left. Charlevoix's Jason Corwin hit a free throw with five seconds left to boost the Rayder lead back to a solid two points. A Gaylord rainbow at the buzzer missed the pot of gold.

Friedly led Charlevoix in scoring, left-handing his way to 22 points. Jess was also in double figures totalling 14 points.

This Friday evening Charlevoix will host Grayling.

Wrestlers off to a good start

Charlevoix's wrestling team split a pair of matches last Thursday evening, beating Sault Ste. Marie 36-32 and losing to Elk Rapids 40-36. In the first match of the evening, Sault Ste. Marie beat Elk Rapids 54-18.

One of the most exciting matches of the evening occurred in the 125 pound division as Charlevoix's Shawn Young (top) decisively beat Sault Ste. Marie's Joel Sudman in a battle that took several turns.

Meg Fowler helps Alma field hockey

Meg Fowler of Charlevoix was the top performer on Alma College's field hockey team during 1988's good news-bad news season.

Alma's team had another successful season, finishing second in the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association.

Unfortunately, the 1988 season is Alma's last in field hockey. Along with most other MIAA colleges, Alma is dropping field hockey and adding women's soccer as in intercollegiate sport. Field hockey was first played at Alma in the 1920's as an intramural activity, and through the years the Scot women have been excellent competitors in the sport. The Scot ladies have claimed four MIAA field hockey titles since 1978.

Fowler led the MIAA in scoring in 1988 with 17 goals and one assist for 35 points. She was one goal shy of the league record 18 scored by Kim Niemeyer, also of Alma, in 1985.

A Charlevoix High School graduate, Fowler was named Alma's co-most valuable player along with Kelly Holcomb from the city of Alma. She also was a first time selection of the All-MIAA Field Hockey Team and in the NCAA Penn Monto Regional All-American Awards.

A senior majoring in elementary education at Alma, she is the daughter of David and Nancy Fowler.

DNR reports deer kill figures

The 1988 firearm deer hunting season set a new harvest record of 289,000 deer, exceeding last year's take of 257,360. Poor weather during much of the season held the harvest below the expected take of 321,000 deer.

Tests conducted by the Michigan Department of Public Health at the highway deer biological stations showed no "Ixodes ticks" (lyme disease carrying ticks) were found on the 4,157 deer examined.

"This confirms our belief that there is little, if any, danger of contracting lyme disease during deer hunting season," said Dr. Stephen M. Schmitt, Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Wildlife Veterinarian.

Deer were in excellent shape and will be entering the winter in a healthy condition, in spite of this year's severe drought.

Archery deer hunting season began again December 1 and will end January 1, and the muzzleloading season is December 2 through 11 in the Upper Peninsula and from December 9 through 18 in the Lower Peninsula. About 50,000 archers and 100,000 muzzleloaders are expected to participate in the December seasons.

Hunting pressure was lighter during firearm season on public lands than last year, and about the same on private lands. Antler development was very good—many 1½ year-olds had six and eight-point racks.

Thirty-six injuries, compared to 33 in 1987, occurred during the firearm deer hunting season; 3 additional accidents resulted in fatalities, down substantially from 6 in 1987.

Marlyn K. Friedly

Charlevoix resident Marilyn K. Friedly, 43, wife of John D. Friedly and mother of Webb and Megan, died Dec. 7, 1988, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Mrs. Friedly, a northern Michigan resident since 1974, worked on behalf of numerous civic, school and community organizations in the area.

The former Marilyn Kay Phillips was born Sept. 5, 1945, in Yale, the daughter of Hugh and Irene (Mumby) Phillips. She grew up in Utica and attended Utica public schools. After graduation from high school, she entered Oakland University in Rochester, graduating in 1967 with a bachelor of arts degree in psychology and sociology. She did post graduate work at Michigan State University and Central Michigan University.

On Feb. 3, 1967, she married John D. Friedly in Pontiac. The Friedly family has resided in Charlevoix since 1974, moving there from Grand Blanc.

Mrs. Friedly was actively involved in Charlevoix civic and community programs. She was a member of the Parent's Advisory Council of Charlevoix Elementary School and a volunteer in the Charlevoix Public Schools, particularly the gifted program. She gave freely of her time with the computer class, Olympics of the Mind and Future Problem Solving and as a school aide.

In the community, she supported and served on the advisory board of the Charlevoix Public Library and the Charlevoix Water Advisory Board.

She was a past president and board member of the Chip Counseling Center and actively supported the Women's Resource Center in Petoskey. She was a board member of the Charlevoix Cooperative Nursery and directed the parenting program for East Jordan Public Schools.

During the summer, Mrs. Friedly loved to sail and was a member of the Charlevoix Yacht Club.

She is survived by her husband; a son, Webb, and a daughter, Megan, both at home; her parents, Hugh and Irene Phillips of Port Huron; two brothers and three sisters.

A memorial service was held on Saturday, Dec. 10, at the First Congregational Church. The Rev. Philip Schairbaum officiated.

The family suggests memorials to the Marilyn Friedly Memorial Fund for Children c/o Charlevoix Area Hospital. Arrangements were handled by the Winchester Funeral Home.

Church concert

The Northern Michigan Youth Orchestra will present a Christmas concert at 7:30 p.m. Friday evening, December 16, at the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix.

The orchestra is composed of elementary through high school students from Charlevoix and Emmet Counties and is directed by Krista Knight.

The orchestra will present a variety of music, including selections from "The Nutcracker Suite" and Handel's "Messiah", Greensleeves Jig", and traditional carols. Several chamber ensembles will also perform.

The public is invited to attend the concert. Donations will be accepted for a scholarship fund.

Nature preserve maps available

The Little Traverse Conservancy has published a complete guide to its nature preserves in time for the Holidays. The directory contains a description of each of the 42 nature preserves the Conservancy has acquired and includes information on the location, characteristics, and accessibility of each preserve. Maps and driving directions to each preserve are also included.

All Conservancy preserves are open to the public. Several have trails which are suitable for snowshoeing or skiing in the winter, or walking in the summer. Many, however, are wild areas one should expect to explore with no trail to follow. Ideal for wildlife enthusiasts or those interested in spring orchids and wildflowers, these preserves should be explored with compass in hand.

Copies of the Directory are for sale at the Conservancy office for $10 each. Mail orders are accepted; include $10 plus $2 for mailing and handling to: Little Traverse Conservancy, 3264 Powell Road, Harbor Springs, MI 49720.

Charlevoix
Church Services

by the Rev. Floyd R. Henderson
East Upright Church of God

One often hears the subject of spirituality being discussed in the realm of the church. What is spirituality and how can we know just who is spiritual and who isn't? Some folks judge spirituality by the outward appearance while others measure it by physical manifestations.

According to God's word, God is a spirit and God is love. I believe that spirituality is something on the inside. It is an inward thing. If God is in your life, then you will produce a spirit of love. I once read something about spirituality which went like this:

If you are spiritual then:
It's loving as He loved, loving those who hate you.
It's blessing those who curse you.

It's helping those who have harmed you.

It's forgiving those who have not asked.

It's compassion for those who have faltered.

It's doing right when all your human nature says, "Do wrong."

Spirituality is letting God control our life. One of the best ways to know when you have reached spirituality is how do we react when God is blessing others and not us. When you can rejoice when God is blessing others and seemingly not blessing you, it is a good sign that you are becoming spiritual.

It is remembering all that we have is from God. When we look at those less fortunate, the prostitute, the drug addict and many others, remembering it is only by the grace of God that it is not us. Then possibly we are becoming spiritual. "For God so loved the world," Loving and caring about people is God's nature. Taking on His nature is spirituality.

SHOPTALK

JACQUELINE MERTA

Jacqueline Merta is executive director of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

Open House is this Friday, December 15 at Charlevoix stores. It gives shoppers the opportunity to shop and enjoy the hospitality of each establishment. You are invited to browse, shop and partake goodies.

Each year many residents of Charlevoix, whose livelihoods are supported by Charlevoix, get in their cars and head for Petoskey, Traverse City, Grand Rapids and various destinations to Christmas shop. While it's true that you can't find everything that you'd wish to purchase in Charlevoix; it's also true that you can find a majority of desired items.

In a previous Shop Talk article I wrote about ten good reasons to shop in Charlevoix and these points all related to the economic well being of our community. Now I'd like to feature some emotional well being reasons to shop in Charlevoix. Christmas time is a time of stress with what seems to be a million things to get done in a limited amount of time.

Fifteen more good reasons to shop Charlevoix first! Because...

1. The owners and store employees are nice to you, not rude...more often than not they know you.

2. You don't have to fight the crowds.

3. Charlevoix shops really do care about you...the customer! You're not just another person in the crowd with no face, no identity to find your way through a maze of metropolis shopping.

4. Parking is convenient! Free at this time of year.

5. Charlevoix stores offer unique gifts!

6. Most Charlevoix stores gift wrap free as a courtesy to you, the customer. Also they always seem to produce the perfect box for the item you purchase, again free of charge.

7. You don't have to worry about your wallet or purse being stolen while you shop.

8. You will save money! You won't be spending extra dollars on gas, eating out, and a motel (if you shop at distant cities).

9. You will save time! If you value your time and if your time means money or the opportunity to enjoy extra curricular activities Charlevoix is the perfect place to shop. All you have to do is ask what you're looking for and if the shop you're in doesn't have the item they'll refer you to a shop that does.

10. Charlevoix offers easier, stress free shopping.

11. If your packages are extra large, heavy or cumbersome, someone will gladly carry them to your vehicle.

12. You can leave your children with a friend or at nursery school while you shop and not worry.

13. If you need to return a gift after Christmas you don't have to get in your car and do the extra driving episode all over again.

14. If you do need to exchange or return a gift you will be greeted with a smile and courtesy! (You won't be asked to take a number and get in line. You won't have to go from counter to counter and fill out forms to get a credit or exchange).

15. You can feel good that you're doing business with businesses that believe in Charlevoix.

Debators place second in league

Charlevoix High School's debate team has finished second in the Northern League and now enters the invitational debate season, looking forward to state-wide competition.

Varsity debaters Robert Sell and F.L. Dammann took the league's second-place honors with 710 accumulated points, in the experienced division. Dammann and Sell were both selected as First Conference Speakers, with Sell gaining 108 personal points and Dammann gaining 106 points. In addition, Marcle Beaudoin, a novice debater for Charlevoix won her division's Top Speaker award. The Northern Debate League top team was Big Rapids, a Class B school. Beginning this month, the Charlevoix debate squad will debate at invitational meets throughout the state and then enter the District Debate competition, January 14.

Noting that the Charlevoix Debaters finished higher than many larger schools including Traverse City which was considered one of the state's top teams last season, coach Connie Ford commented, "All our debaters are performing well. We have a lot more depth than in past years at both the varsity and novice levels. During the recent 'swing' debates at Petoskey, Sell and Dammann finished 10th out of 20 teams, debating both sides of the issue. Novice debaters Marci Beaudoin and Troy Bonar placed eighth out of 18 teams."

This year's debate topic is based on a resolution stating that the "federal government should implement a system to guarantee retirement security for the elderly."

In preparation for their debates, Charlevoix's team has studied federal documents, innumerable magazine and newspaper articles and met with such experts on health care for the elderly as Bill Jackson of Charlevoix Area Hospital.

TO PURCHASE ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES AT 7-ELEVEN.

COME OF AGE.

Alcohol abuse is a serious problem, particularly among people who are not of legal drinking age. The 7-Eleven stores in this area want to help do something about this problem. We want to assure that the laws regarding the sale of alcoholic beverages to those not of legal drinking age are upheld in our stores. We are asking our customers who are age twenty-five and younger to have a driver's license or military identification available for inspection when purchasing alcoholic beverages from us. We try to be good neighbors and to live up to our responsibilities as a corporate citizen. This is not the first time we have been involved in community concerns. We've been involved with you in the Mothers March of Dimes. We enlisted your aid in the fight against muscular dystrophy and, through your generosity, 7-Eleven stores have raised over $35 million to fight this crippling disease. Now we ask your cooperation and support in helping us adhere to the law. If you come to 7-Eleven to purchase alcoholic beverages, please come of age.

Our concern is people.

SCRAPBOOK

Falling snow and colder weather will soon be bringing skiers to the Mt. McSaubia Ski Area just north of Charlevoix. The above picture, taken in 1987, shows two great-grandchildren of Chief Amick Saube, for whom the area is

Exchange Student Jose Montes-Jovellar

Spanish exchange student interested in enterprise

Jose Montes-Jovellar, an exchange student at Charlevoix High School from Madrid, Spain, told us he wanted to have an "enterprise" as a life career.

At first we didn't know exactly what he meant, but finally determined he wanted to be a stock broker, as is his father. This interested us because Jose is the first exchange student we have interviewed in some time who has indicated he wanted to go into business. Most have talked about professional or government careers.

Although Jose lives in a large city, he attends a small private school of about 200 students, where he remains in the same room all day studying (last year) math, general science, literature, history, English, religion, art, and gym.

"We don't need lockers because we don't move around from room to room and we don't have a lot of different books like they do here," Jose explained. "We have big, flat books like notebooks that we keep all our lessons in."

Jose says he is having a great time in Charlevoix. He is finding his classwork somewhat difficult because of his poor command of English, but feels he is making progress and studying is becoming a little easier. At Charlevoix High, Jose is studying Spanish (for the grammar), English, math, business, computers, and U. S. history, and playing soccer, tennis, and basketball.

Jose's hosts are Ivan and Lucy Witthoef and their son Charlie, also a high school senior. He and Charlie are good friends and they and other seniors have been having a good time driving around the area, going to sports events, taking in shows, and bowling. Jose hopes to learn to ski before the winter is over.

We asked Jose why he decided to come to the United States to study, and he explained that he had spent a summer visiting relatives in Tulsa, Oklahoma and liked the country. He also knows he will have to speak English well to be a successful business man, even in his home country.

While television shows like "Miami Vice" are seen in Spain, people don't really think it is like real life here, Jose says. "We just laugh at it."

Next year, Jose will enter a university near home to begin preparation for a business career. He is now 17 and has two sisters aged 11 and 15 and an eight-year-old brother. His mother works for the Spanish government.

Jose will be wishing them all "Feliz Navidad" by telephone.

McRae and housing commission at odds over Pine River Place

Mayor Ralph McRae, who formerly was a city housing commission president, is unhappy with the management of Pine River Place.

Pine River Place is a 62-unit low-income senior citizen housing complex on Garfield Street. It is overseen by the housing commission.

This past February, McRae contacted the Housing and Urban Development (HUD) office in Grand Rapids and asked them to review the complex. HUD is a federal agency which administered a federal grant funding construction of the approximately $2.3 million complex which was dedicated in the autumn of 1981.

Tom Jones, HUD director of Housing Management, said that periodic management of HUD funded projects are routine, normally occurring about every four years, and that even before McRae's contact, Pine River Place was on the HUD review schedule.

"We had one planned," Jones said, "We told the mayor we would let him know when we did it."

The review was done in early July. Results were published in late September.

The review broke down into two segments, one dealt with the physical upkeep of the building, the other covered management of the facility.

Matters cited in the physical section of the review were things such as some kitchen cabinets which didn't close tightly and the state inspection certificate on the hot water heater needing to be updated.

The management section of the review was lengthier and interpreted differently by McRae and members of the housing commission as well as housing commission executive director Ed Gregory.

"I felt it was terrible," McRae said of the management report and its findings. He said he felt the most disturbing comments concerned Gregory's performance as executive director.

The review section McRae referred to read, "In reviewing the findings noted in this report, we (the HUD inspectors) feel that the core cause of the problems deals with the lack of training, delegation of administrative responsibilities to the maintenance people, and failure by Management to monitor these assigned duties. It is the opinion of this office that Mr. Gregory's full-time profession (a law practice) requires considerable time and is given preference over the duties and responsibilities assigned to your Executive Director. Thus the impact of two professions has obviously affected the administrative operation of the Housing Commission. We believe that the Commission Board should evaluate the report findings and the concerns of tenants regarding the availability of Management, and consider whatever actions are appropriate."

McRae said he feels Gregory wasn't spending enough time at Pine River Place and was delegating his work to Jeff Pine River Place, a 62 unit public housing complex for the elderly is the subject of a disagreement between former city housing commission president Ralph McRae and current housing commission members along with Pine River Place executive director Ed Gregory.

Wilhelm, who is the maintenance man at the complex.

Gregory disputes McRae's contentions, claiming he has adequate time to perform the duties of executive director. He said that in the past, he may not have gone to as many training seminars as he should have to keep up with changing federal regulations, but is doing that now. Gregory said that Wilhelm does administrative work 10 hours a week, partly so that there will be a qualified replacement for Gregory in years to come.

County seeks waste grants

by PEG OHLE

Charlevoix County hopes to get some of the money from the Clean Michigan Fund appropriated by the people of Michigan at November's General Election.

The county has applied for funds for two projects that would help relieve problems associated with solid waste disposal in the area.

The larger project application is for a solid waste transfer station on Beaver Island at which waste would be compacted and shipped by barge to a licensed landfill on the mainland. The transfer station would replace the unlicensed landfill on the island which the Department of Natural Resources has threatened to close. Total cost of the transfer station and necessary accessories is estimated at $300,000.

The smaller project application is for a "recycling" building, to be built on county property near the Sheriff's Department. It would be used by the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club to store paper and plastic materials before transfer to recycling facilities.

The Kiwanis Club presently operates a successful newspaper storage and transfer facility in an old garage on State Street. A larger building would make it possible for them to accept papers other than newspapers and provide space for storage bins for plastics. Total cost of this facility is estimated at $14,000.

The proposed Charlevoix facility would later be augmented by similar facilities in East Jordan and Boyne City, and finally by a central processing facility or portable baler or something similar, according to county plans.

County Planner Larry Sullivan, who prepared the grant applications, noted that the solid waste disposal problem

In the spirit of Christmas, for each $20 or $25 Christmas club account opened this year the Charlevoix County State Bank gave a toy puppy to be distributed to needy children through the following organizations: Charlevoix Ministerial Association; Central

Days: The long and short

Barring what few vampires there are among us, December 21st is a day we all should have been looking forward to with great anticipation.

Finally, the days have stopped getting shorter. Each successive day from now until late June there will be a little more light in daylight.

Providing you're not working the night shift, there will come a day in February when you can drive to work without using your headlights.

Rejoice. One of these days in the not-too-distant future, you'll arrive home from work and there will still be enough daylight left so you can get something meaningful accomplished outdoors.

Next year, perhaps we can all pay closer attention and not let the earth get away with short-changing us on daylight during November and December.

This problem is caused by the earth tilting the northern hemisphere away from the sun during the late summer and autumn. To counteract this, in July of 1989 all of us are going to have to start leaning to the south for at least few minutes each day.

Perhaps you've heard the saying, "The South shall rise again." Well, next year they aren't. At least not in terms of hemisphere and celestial station.

All of us northern people are just going to lean into the world and keep our days long and warm.

Of course we'll have to be careful not to overdo it. If we lean too hard we might change the rotation of the earth. Instead of spinning from side to side, it might start spinning from top to bottom.

First thing you know, the sun would be rising in the south and setting in the north.

And what a disaster that would be. Sunsets certainly wouldn't be the same. Instead of watching the beautiful sunsets on Lake Michigan, all of us in Charlevoix would be watching the evening sun drop behind Atwood. Oh boy!

There'd be other ramifications as well. All of the people who installed solar power panels on the southeast wall of their homes would have to move them.

Worst of all, if the earth changed its rotation, lost hunters and mushroom pickers would never find their way out of the woods at night because there's no telling which side of the trees the moss would grow on.

Perhaps we shouldn't try to change the process which shortens and lengthens the days. We're past the winter solstice. The days in our part of the world are now growing longer. For our own good, let's let nature take its course.

... Pine River Place dispute

of the review, Gregory prefaced his response by noting that a housing commission project normally is audited, or reviewed, more frequently, but this is the first time in six years Pine River Place has been reviewed.

"Given that, I thought it was a pretty good audit," he said. "There's always room for improvement, we (Gregory and the members of the housing commission) realize that."

Jones from HUD said of the review, "Basically, it wasn't that bad. There were some questions of accountability and delegation."

He said one of the main problems was an apparent lack of regular office hours.

Gregory said that since the review, the housing commission has made changes, including establishing regular office hours at Pine River Place from 8 a.m. to noon each week day. During those hours, either Gregory or Wilhelm is in the office.

The housing commission has drafted a response to the HUD review which along with establishing office hours also includes other procedural changes.

McRae isn't satisfied with the response.

"It's not complete. They still have a long way to go yet," he claimed.

McRae would like to see Pine River Place staffed 24 hours a day and says that for the same money the housing commission is paying Gregory and Wilhelm, they could hire a couple to live at the facility. Gregory and Wilhelm are paid a total of between $35,000 and $40,000 annually. Gregory is part-time and Wilhelm full-time.

"For the amount they're paying these people they could have a very capable couple who would be there most of the time, be more acquainted with people and have some social activities," McRae stated.

Housing commission president Mary Geiken said she doesn't feel a live-in director is necessary. The facility is not meant to be a medical care facility, but more like an apartment house, she contends.

"When you live in there, that's like your own little home in that building," she said. "It's independent living. Most of the tenants deal with that very well."

Geiken also said that Gregory and Wilhelm now carry beepers and in case of an emergency, one or the other can be reached at any time, day or night. In Geiken's opinion, both Gregory and Wilhelm have done an excellent job.

McRae doesn't feel Gregory and Wilhelm have done an excellent job. He also said he realizes the facility is set up for independent living, but says, "It's a little bit different having one house with one person than 75 people living in one house."

Although there were differing opinions on management philosophy and interpretations of the HUD review, all parties interviewed agreed that Pine River Place is needed and is successfully providing affordable housing for senior citizens.

McRae was one of the initial proponents of the project. He began working on it in 1974.

"You could talk to the people in there and they're very happy," he said. However, he expressed concern that there could be some type of emergency in the future which could go unnoticed for too long.

on Beaver Island is especially difficult and a solution will be expensive. The two townships on the island would probably have to pay for shipping the waste off the island, which could cost as much as $1,000 a barge-load.

It would cost about $160,000 to construct a transfer station and another $72,000 for a dozen 40-cubic-yard waste storage bins, and the rest for a truck to move the waste from storage bins to barge. Since competition for Clean Michigan funds is intense, it will be some time before Charlevoix County is advised of the success or failure of the applications.

Turn in your shovels

I've shoveled a fair amount of snow, but I never realized how dangerous it was until I read a recent news release from the Michigan Chiropractic Society.

"Incorrect methods of snow shoveling can trigger sciatica (a shooting pain and sensation in leg) or brachial neuralgia (a burning, tingling numbness or pain down the neck, shoulder and arm)," the news release cautions.

For me, that's said enough. Being duly warned, I'm swearing off snow shoveling forever. Oh sure, shoveling snow is a lot of fun and no doubt there will be times when I'll really miss it, but when faced with the threat of sciatica, there's only one course for a reasonable man to take.

And the brachial neuralgia thing is what really sealed my decision. "A burning, tingling numbness or pain down the neck, shoulder or arm." Makes me queasy just thinking about it.

Several people I'm acquainted with, many who don't even have any medical experience, have fervently offered up the diagnosis that I already suffer from a terrible numbness above my shoulders. To shovel snow and risk inflicting a similar problem below my shoulders would be wantonly reckless.

Although sciatica and brachial neuralgia are the big names in snow shoveling health problems, lumbrosacral disc disorders can not in good conscience be neglected.

"...Improperly lifting a single shovel of snow can put as much as 200 pounds of additional pressure on the lower back."

Worse still, "...a single shovel load of wet snow itself weighing between 10 and 15 pounds held in front of the body can increase the pressure on the lumbrosacral disc by 15 times the weight being lifted. The lumbrosacral disc (the lowest disc in the spinal column) carries most of the body's weight and is often the site of back problems."

There you have it, a clinical explanation of the biological proof that shoveling snow can literally be a pain in the butt.

Fortunately, there are several things, short of moving south for the winter or staying indoors until spring, which can be done to prevent back pain and injuries caused by snow shoveling.

When shoveling, stand in an erect position and bend at the knee, not at the waist. (That's assuming you're not so cold that you can't bend at all.)

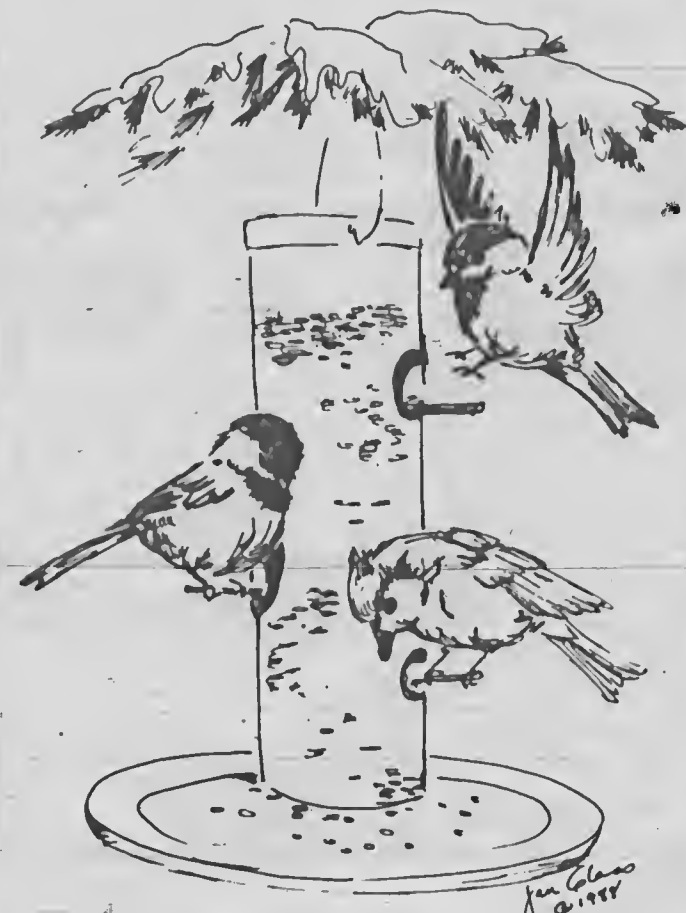

Pace yourself, do not overexert, rest frequently. (Each person has his own standards, but for most people 30 seconds to five minutes, never more than half-an-hour, of shoveling snow is about as much fun as can be stood at one time.)

Do not shovel in extremely frigid weather. (Shoveling in normally frigid weather is OK. You should be used to that. But avoid shoveling snow in extremely frigid weather.)

Normally, I'm a skeptic, set in my ways and reluctant to change. However, in this case I've seen the light. Because of the possibilities of incurring physical problems due to snow shoveling, I've retired my shovel.

Our future's white

The departure of the Coast Guard cutter Mesquite from Charlevoix for duty in the Caribbean this winter has left a "lonesome place against the sky" at the city dock.

For a few days, the "lonesome place" was filled by the cutter Mariposa out of Detroit, which traveled north to take care of some of the buoys the Mesquite couldn't lift before she left.

In return for the favor, the Mesquite was to pull buoys in Lake Ontario normally serviced by the Mariposa. The Mesquite had to travel through Lake Ontario in order to reach the St. Lawrence Seaway and the Atlantic Ocean.

The Mariposa has now left Charlevoix and is lifting buoys in Lake Erie before winter ice arrives. Erie is one of the shallowest of the Great Lakes and reportedly will freeze after three wind-free nights of zero temperatures.

While in Charlevoix, the crew of the Mariposa had planned to place a gigantic weather buoy in the middle of Lake Michigan about 40 miles south of the Beaver chain.

However, foul weather set in and the buoy is still on shore.

According to a crewman aboard the Mariposa, the buoy will be operated by solar energy and will be programmed to broadcast weather information to a receiving station in New Orleans every 30 minutes.

It seems sort of strange that the details of our vicious winter storms on Lake Michigan will be known first by folks in such a balmy locale as Louisiana.

Apparently placing of the buoy has been postponed until more favorable weather returns in the spring.

WHAT KIND of ice conditions are we going to have this winter — since we won't have a cutter, buoy tender or icebreaker to bail us out?

Because Lake Michigan warmed up so much this summer, I think the freeze won't come until late winter — maybe March. And the ice won't last long, meaning we're in for an early spring.

But I expect lots of snow as icy Canadian winds howl over the relatively warm water.

Last weekend's snow storm (13 inches) is a good indication of what's in store.

Fortunately, the heavy snow cover came before the ground froze, meaning the snow will disappear rapidly in the spring — with very few muddy roads to contend with.

Lake Charlevoix, which normally freezes the first week in January, will drag its feet this year. I can't see the lake freezing very solid until February. The shallow South Arm, which sometimes freezes by Thanksgiving, was still open this year in mid-December.

For me, the highlight of the season falls today — Dec. 21 — the winter solstice.

This is the shortest day of the year. From here on, every day will be a little longer until the third week in June.

June! Is there a more beautiful word?

SPEAKING OF beautiful words, how about Mariposa?

Like all Coast Guard cutters of its class, the Mariposa was named after a plant — the Mariposa lily, which is another word for "tulip."

But somehow "tulip" doesn't sound like a very good name for a broad-shouldered, bare-chested Coast Guard vessel.

Neither does "butterfly," which is what Mariposa means in Spanish.

But Mariposa has a nice ring to it — as do the Sundew, the Acacia, the Bramble and, of course, the Mesquite.

I SAW SOME interesting figures about seat belts recently.

It seems that fatal and severe injury automobile accidents in Michigan dropped a full 25 percent between 1984 and 1987, thanks to the state's mandatory seat belt law.

This information comes not from law enforcement officers but from insurance claims.

In light of such findings, why not buckle up, particularly over the holiday season. Roads are likely to be snow-covered and slippery. And you're going to have to share the right of way with a lot of tipsy drivers.

A seat belt could be your ticket into 1989.

Charlevoix Middle School students collected 2,995 food items for the Community Food Pantry. The food items were collected as part of a school-wide contest. The contest has taken place for the past four years, but this year there was more enthusiasm than ever before and the total amount of food collected was almost twice as much as the previous high. Kay Fiedorek's eighth grade class won the competition and banana splits with a strong finish on the final day.

Winter's cold slush failed to crush Christmas spirit on Beaver Island

(The following story appeared in The Detroit Free Press on Sunday, December 20, 1942. A copy was recently sent to David Miles of Charlevoix by a friend in California. We are reproducing the story (shortened only slightly) as a remembrance of Christmas past in northern Michigan.)

When Santa Claus Missed the Boat to Beaver Island
By James S. Pooler

There's always one Christmas you remember best. This one was when we were marooned on Beaver Island.

The snow came in great gushes early that fall and filled Lake Michigan with slush ice. The mail boat, afraid of losing a propeller, stopped coming over from Charlevoix by early December and we were cut off from the mainland. The daring fish tugs hauled out their last hooks and nets, and soon on all the big horizon around the island there wasn't even the distant smoke of a freighter.

You could look across 30 miles of water to the mainland, across water that looked like ice cream that didn't quite freeze. Sometimes the lake steamed from the cold and you couldn't see across. More often it snowed.

It was a lonely feeling standing on the shore when you could see the mainland as only a dirty little fingernail laid low on the farthest edge of the water. You couldn't go there and no one could come out to you.

Around you, a few islands stood darkly in the water—Garden, Hog, and Hat, and far to the west was High Island, where King Benjamin sent dissenting Israelites from the House of David. Isolated more than ever by winter, they made it even lonelier there out in the middle of Lake Michigan.

The old fishermen would come down, too, and look at the lake from which they drew their living. Weatherwise, they would squint at slush and sky and fall into warm arguments on whether the lake would freeze all the way across that winter.

"She's going to be a cold winter," went one school of thought. "The lake'll be friz solid by the tenth of January."

"This is goin' to be one of them winters where she just snows and snows and never sets down to a real biting spell," was the other school of thought.

The sudden assault of winter that year had brought a tragedy to the youngsters of the island—Mr. Lafferty's shipment of Christmas toys hadn't come across from the mainland before the mail boat stopped running!

No matter how much you stood on the shore and wished for terrible cold weather, the old fishermen would tell you that the lake couldn't possibly freeze over before Christmas.

Mr. Lafferty had the only store on the island. That's a great, rolling Irish name. "Lafferty", in keeping with all the other rolling Irish names on the island and the name on the side of the store isn't too weather-beaten, look at it closely. You'll see that the first of this family to come to the island was a Frenchman named "La Ferte". But it's "Lafferty" now to everyone on the island, even the man who owns the name.

Mr. Lafferty spread out the few toys left over from the Christmas before and pieced out the thin display with a box of those tiny nickel dolls with thin wire arms that broke off at the first fitting. It was all he had to offer, a few unwanted knick-knacks and the whole kit and kaboodle wouldn't make a decent showing under a modern kid's Christmas tree.

But it was enough to set off the talking, the building up and suspense children always create for Christmas. You passed the store window daily on the way to school and watched the disappearance one by one of the bigger toys from the window. You wondered "Who?"

... a memorable Beaver Island Christmas of the past

The kids. The older ones carefully building up the old legend again for the younger ones and coming to half-believing themselves. And always the rampant skeptic whose work had to be undone.

In our case, it was Denny O'Toole, who lived with an aunt who didn't believe in Santa Claus, and he was hit with snowballs and kept well ostracized on the playground. He was a small kid and by two weeks before Christmas, had come to sanding around the fringe when they were telling the firstgraders about "Santa Claus", and he didn't look quite as wise as he had. At least he kept his mouth shut.

But there was no escaping Mr. Lafferty's show window on the way to school. Two weeks before Christmas it was bare. The canny kids noticed, too, that the old fishermen were talking around that the Year of the Big Wind in Ireland, Santa Claus hadn't made it. It didn't sound good. Even the littlest ones were conditioned with the idea that with all the tearing around he had to do, Santa Claus could miss the small dot of an island out in Lake Michigan.

What's good faith, though, if you haven't got it when you need it most. He might miss the Beaver, the kids admitted, but he never had. We went right ahead planning, confiding loudly what we expected and being as good as was expected. But none of the older folks were offering much encouragement.

We all knew we'd eat well. The kitchens were going overtime and the island was full of turkeys. They had a strange way of sorting out their turkeys on the Beaver. When spring came, the turkeys would come out of the farms onto the single road that led down the island and wander to the thick forest for nesting.

When fall came and the leaves tumbled, the turkeys would come home, browsing back along the single road. Whatever turned into your farm was yours. Maybe 20 had taken off from your farm and only six came back. You'd reckon that "pneumonia must have got them". At the next farm, where only two started out, 60 might come home. You just had to figure that his turkeys had nested often. There was plenty of sharing on the island, and by letting the turkeys decide, it saved wear and tear on the mind and arguments.

The turkeys were killed and sized for families. Bread was put out to get stale for dressing. Cookie cutters were traded around among the women to get all the variety of animals possible. The jars in the pantries began to brim over and the best specimens in the cookie menagerie were taken out for special frosting treatment for the tree. Those fine odors of Christmas drifted out on the road where you sniffed them in going and coming.

On the Saturday after school closed, the kids took the family axes and headed to the woods to cut their own trees. If a kid was too small to drag his home, there always were six kids from another family to give him a hand. It didn't turn out to be as much fun that year as we expected.

The word got around that about all we'd get that year was a beautifully trimmed tree and a lot to eat. There couldn't possibly be much under the tree. So we picked out the best we could, trying to measure a tree in the woods against the size of a room, dragging our trees home, looking again over the slushy lake, the empty store window, and not shouting much.

And we passed Denny

O'Toole, who hadn't gone to cut a tree because his aunt didn't believe in such nonsense, and wondered if maybe he didn't have the right idea. You wouldn't be half so miserable with no tree at all as with one all dressed up and nothing but empty floor under it.

We sewed the popcorn onto strings, got out the fancy cookies and the boxes of baubles and dressed up the green trees in their finery. Christmas came mightily close then—and dread. There wasn't a small kid on the

... conclusion of an old-fashioned Island Christmas

The day before Christmas came and there were as many kids as seagulls perched on the shore. It was snowing and the lake still was mush ice. The big kids told the little kids that it sure looked like a tough night for Santa Claus. In a snow storm like we were having, he could never find the island.

Christmas Eve came and the last loitering youngster left the beach. That's the night you always had the corned white fish for dinner and broke into the Christmas cookies. That's the night when the old stories were told again, and at our house Denny Boyle talked so long of the Potato Famine of the old days, how tough things were then, that all the kids knew he was only conditioning us for the disappointment of Christmas morning.

That's the night, too, when everybody trooped off to midnight mass, leaving one of the family home to see that the candles didn't set the tree afire.

We went down the long road, past the homes where the yellow candles shone out and made the cold feel singler. Down through the woods where the light of the lanterns began to take hold and turn everyone's shadow, even the small kids who stuck closest to the lantern, into giants on the snow.

The old magic began to take hold again and those small ones looked up into the snowy night and listened for they all knew that Santa Claus always came mysteriously while they were at midnight mass.

Then we came somberly back, lanterns, long shadows and quiet people in the hush of a snow storm. The candle lights began to swim up out of the falling snow. And we no sooner passed the first homes when there was a shout that began to spring up like a string of firecrackers going off behind us. It was a shout they must have heard over on the mainland. The kids whose homes were farther ahead started running.

I don't think there ever was a Christmas like that one for the kids on Beaver Island, for any kids who had hung on to faith against all reason. They'd never found as much under the Christmas trees. Not ordinary toys. These were things made with the hand and heart. These were the things that grown-up children had remembered fondly from their own childhood and recreated.

The fishermen had made boats, tugs and schooners, and Freddie Martin got one with a clockwork engine. They had made steam rollers, using the wooden corks from their nets for the big wheels. There were toboggans, polished like mirrors, and home-hewn ball bats and the finest baseballs you ever saw wound out of fishing twine.

There were rag dolls made with the art mothers remembered from their own rag doll days. There is no knowing how many old sweaters were ripped up, dyed and knitted into new mittens, bonnets and sweaters. Fur coats re-emerged as a half dozen muffs. There's no remembering all the toys they contrived with tin cans for the small ones. The cans with waxed strings in them that howled deliciously when they were pulled. And tin cans with their sides half cut out so that they were rocking cradles, just a size for the nickel dolls.

Every one was a toy some parent had prized in the long ago and made with a doubled pleasure. They all had been time-tried and wrought with the affection that one has for something cherished. They couldn't miss.

I think that Danny O'Toole got more than any kid on the island and was deeply shaken in his skepticism. Everybody told him that Santa Claus had left something under their tree for him and he went around collecting baseballs, bats, toboggans and boats. He was pretty mad at his aunt and, I'm afraid, he probably was well along in high school before he lost faith in Santa Claus.

That's why it seems today to hear people moaning about not being able to get electric trains and rubber dolls—of the blight of war on the young. You don't buy Christmas. You make it—with your hands and in your hearts.

Arts council explains Charlevoix projects

by PEG OHLE

The many ways in which Crooked Tree Arts Council serves Charlevoix County are outlined for members of the Charlevoix County Board recently when Crooked Tree board member Edith Gilbert appeared before them.

Since 1985, year-round classes in visual arts and dance have been offered at the Charlevoix Public Library, with this fall's enrollment reaching 55 students in five classes. Summer visual arts classes have also been offered since 1985. Similar classes have been offered in East Jordan and Boyne City.

This past year, Crooked Tree sponsored a performance of the New Reformation Dixieland Jazz Band at the Charlevoix Congregational Church. Similar performances have been offered since 1983.

Approximately 1,200 students from schools in Charlevoix County attend at least one gallery show at the Virginia McCune Arts Center during each school year. Funding is available from Crooked Tree for those districts which cannot afford transportation costs.

Approximately 70 students from schools in Charlevoix County participate each year in Hands-On workshops in connection with a gallery show.

Park Place debate replayed

Item six B of the public hearings section of Monday evening's city council agenda referred to a development plan review of Don Berlage's Park Place Condominium complex.

Berlage has requested two variances, one regarding leaving a parking area green rather than paved and a second to put a balcony around a tower at the northeast corner of the complex.

At a planning commission meeting earlier this month, the planning commission recommended the council deny the tower variance, but allow paver-blocks (a grass stabilization system) to be used for some parking spaces rather than requiring paved parking. However those recommendations were made pending review by the zoning board of appeals.

The zoning board of appeals did not act on the matter between the planning commission meeting and Monday's council meeting. With that in mind, city manager Mike Wiesner recommended that council defer the matter until January, which would give the zoning board of appeals time to act.

This recommendation was made prior to any discussion at Monday evening's council meeting. In the end, an end which came more than a half-hour after the beginning and followed a meantime filled with much haggling over pretty much the same arguments addressed at the planning commission meeting, the council deferred the matter until January, thus giving the zone board of appeals time to act.

Dave Miles, who owns property next to the Park Place complex and was involved with the city, the WATCH environmental group and Berlage in a circuit court agreement on the project, led a contingent of people opposed to the variance requests.

Miles and the faction supporting him contend that according to the court agreement, Berlage isn't supposed to be asking the city for any more variances on the project.

They also argue that light posts for the condominium parking lot were placed on the wrong side of the property line and are in Hoffmann Park and that Berlage paved the parking lot up to the property line rather than leaving a three-foot space as stipulated in the court agreement.

Berlage, who at the planning commission meeting, said he is willing to move the light posts and tear up the three feet of pavement, says he's only asking for the variances because they will enhance the appearance of the building and the park-like atmosphere of the area in conjunction with Hoffmann Park.

Although much of Monday evening's discussion was the same old stuff, two new wrinkles did come up.

Wiesner said that to make sure, Berlage moves the electric poles and the three feet of pavement, the city is looking into holding up occupancy permits on some of the condominium units.

Berlage says that type of enforcement isn't necessary and people objecting to the project are only "nitpicking."

He said that if encroachment is to be discussed, at the north end of the Park Place property there is a channel walkway and channel lighting on private property. He also said that a curb on the eastern edge of Hoffmann Park was poured two feet out into a private alley.

"If you're going to nitpick, maybe there'll be some other nitpicking," he said.

Members of the council asked Wiesner about the right of way on the north channel walkway. Wiesner said he'd talked to the Corps of Engineers and their right of way person said they had sufficient easements for the walkway. Nothing else was said about the curb.

This year rather than exchanging gifts among themselves, the staff of the Charlevoix County State Bank donated a total of $1,172 to the Community Food Pantry.

Shown in the front and center are bank officer Lo Anne Brown and food pantry officials Lucille Martin and Mary Helen Riggle.

VFW hall remains active

The recent gift of the old Charlevoix Township Hall to Charlevoix Area Senior Citizens brought to light some questions about the present use of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall by the group.

Some news stories stated that the Senior Citizens paid rent for using the hall. Both they and the County Commission on Aging stress they have not paid out cash for rent but have contributed materially toward heating and snow plowing bills.

Since January, 1987, when the Senior Citizens moved into the hall, they have paid $910.22 for heat and $537 for snow plowing, according to Senior Center records.

The Commission on Aging also reports that in December, 1986, it paid $8,132 to have the men's and women's washrooms in the V.F.W. Hall made barrier-free.

Charlevoix Area Senior Citizens say they have been grateful to the V.F.W. for permission to use the hall, but they need more space to carry on their activities.

Area farmers recognized by state Farm Bureau

Two area farmers were honored recently at the Michigan Farm Bureau annual meeting.

Gail Rubingh, a 1977 graduate of Charlevoix High School now living in Ellsworth with her husband Glenn, was the winner of the Outstanding Young Farm Woman contest. Linda Matchett of Charlevoix was among the finalists in the competition.

Marvin Rubingh, of Ellsworth, was named the state's Distinguished Young Farmer.

As a prize, the Rubinghs have the option of a January trip to San Antonio, Texas for the American Farm Bureau Federation annual meeting or a March trip to Washington D.C. for the Michigan Farm Bureau's annual lobbying mission. They also received a $1,500 product certificate from Great Lakes Hybrids Company.

The Farm Bureau's state meeting took place in Grand Rapids. Delegates from the Antrim-Charlevoix County Farm Bureau were LeRoy and Betty Nicloy from East Jordan, Tim and Linda Matchett from Charlevoix, Tom and Ardith Wieland from Charlevoix, Gert and Jim Rubingh from Ellsworth and Dick and Doris Wieland from Ellsworth.

The local Farm Bureau chapter hosted their annual meeting Oct. 18 at the Country Star in Boyne City. Approximately 125 local members attended the county meeting.

Cholesterol tests to be available

Charlevoix Area Hospital will offer cholesterol tests to the general public Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, January 10-12. Testing will take place from 7 a.m. to 9 a.m. in the hospital classrooms on the lower, lakeside level.

Anyone 20 years old and over is invited to take part in the cholesterol screening clinic. Cost is $5.

Those interested in having the test done should fast for 8 hours prior to the testing. Anyone unable to fast for that amount of time due to illness or physician instructions should follow their doctor's advice.

According to Chief Lab Technician Ralph Corwin, the test will provide a reading as to the cholesterol level in the blood. High levels of cholesterol in the bloodstream can lead to narrowing and eventual blockage of blood vessels. The result can be a heart attack, or stroke. It is important to maintain a level of 200 mg. or below throughout life to alleviate these dangers.

After they are processed, test results will be mailed to each participant along with a brief explanation of their meaning.

Boating classes offered

The United States Coast Guard Auxiliary, Flotilla 1602 located in Charlevoix is sponsoring three safe boating classes.

"Basic Boating Skills and Seamanship" and "Sailing Skills and Seamanship" will be taught at the Boyne City High School. Classes begin on Monday, Jan. 9, 1989, and run for 13 weeks, from 7-9 p.m. Cost for materials is $20. To pre-register contact: John Rozycki 582-9860, Roger Tyrell 536-2417, or Adult Education direction Shelly Martin 582-6765.

"Advanced Coastal Navigation" is being offered at the Petoskey High School beginning Thursday, Jan. 12, 1989, from 7-9 p.m. Cost of materials is $30. Instructor: William Sutton. To pre-register contact Margo Sutton 347-6861.

Expect childbirth class

Childbirth classes for expectant parents in mid to late term will begin Wednesday, Jan. 4, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Kay Beatty, R.N., is the instructor for the six weekly classes which will run until Feb. 8. The sessions are held four times a year with the next series to be held in April. Beatty requests that expectant parents choose the class series which is closest to their due date.

Topics covered during the six sessions include the discomforts of pregnancy and how to get relief from them; exercise in preparation of childbirth; the physiology of labor; the newborn; what to expect postpartum; breastfeeding; C-section delivery and parenting. Each class session includes a discussion with audiovisuals and breathing exercises. A tour of the hospital and doctor's lecture is scheduled for the fifth evening.

Expectant mothers should be accompanied by either the father-to-be or a "coach" of their choice. A $20 per family fee covers the entire series and is payable at the first class. To register call Kay Beatty at 547-6347.

Cribbage tournament lives on

The 59th Annual Charlevoix Oddfellows-Masons Cribbage Tournament will begin 10 weeks of play on Thursday, January 5.

The games will be played at the Masonic Temple, located above the Dockside Pharmacy with entrance on Mason Street. Captain for the Masons is Kenneth Ketchman and captain for the Oddfellows is Frank Sneathen.

All cribbage players are welcome to participate in the tournament. Membership in the Oddfellows or Masons is not necessary.

Tammy and Todd Essenberg

Tammy Lambert and Todd Essenberg exchanged marriage vows Saturday, December 3, at the Belltower Reformed Church in Ellsworth.

The Rev. James Heneveld officiated in which the bride was given in marriage by her father. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Lambert of Charlevoix, and her bridegroom is the son of John Essenberg of Atwood and the late Edna Essenberg.

Approximately 100 guests witnessed the ceremony, for which the church was decorated with hurricane lamps adorned with greens and red and white carnations, and the altar was decorated with a candelabra adorned with red satin bows, and with poinsettia plants.

The bride wore a white satin gown fashioned with a sweetheart neckline trimmed with Venise lace and pearls, shirred long puffed sleeves, Basque waistline, chapel-length train, and a fingertip veil of illusion. She carried a bouquet of red carnations, white daisies, baby's breath, and cascading ivy.

Lee Ann Campbell assisted the bride as maid of honor, and the bride's sister, Angela Lambert, was bridesmaid. They wore red satin gowns featuring sweetheart neckline, puffed sleeves, waist sash, and back bow. They carried red and white single carnations accented with baby's breath.

Amy Freidinger served as flower girl, wearing a red satin tea-length dress with a sweetheart neckline, bouffant sleeves, and a back bow. Todd Freidinger was ringbearer.

Henry Freidinger assisted the bridegroom as best man, and Scott Essenberg, a brother, served as groomsman. Lester and Mark Essenberg, also brothers, served as ushers. Music for the ceremony was provided by organist Artie Jones.

The bride's parents hosted a reception at the American Legion Hall in East Jordan. The bridegroom's sisters, Monna Essenberg and Carla Trulson-Essenberg, served the wedding cake, and Don and Judy Schneider assisted as host and hostess.

The bridegroom's father hosted the rehearsal dinner at the Weatherlane Inn in Charlevoix.

Following a wedding trip to Florida, the new Mr. and Mrs. Essenberg are at home in Atwood. The bridegroom is employed by the Klooster Equipment Company and the bride is employed by the Bullfrog Light Company. (Photography by Jim Elzinga)

VanTreese pleads guilty to lesser charge and resigns

Former city attorney Jeff VanTreese has pleaded guilty to a felony drug charge and formally submitted his resignation to the city council.

Monday morning, VanTreese pleaded guilty to possession of cocaine, less than 50 grams. At Monday evening's city council meeting, the council received a letter of resignation written by VanTreese. The letter was dated Dec. 16 and was read by city clerk Arlene Staley. VanTreese was not at the council meeting.

As a result of a Charlevoix County grand jury investigation, VanTreese was originally charged with two counts of conspiracy to possess less than 50 grams of cocaine. That crime carries a maximum sentence of up to four years in prison and/or a $12,000 fine.

The reduced charge which VanTreese pleaded guilty to a maximum sentence of up to four years in prison and/or a $2,000 fine.

However, the guilty plea is conditional and based on a lengthy agreement signed by VanTreese, his attorneys and special prosecutor Joseph Kwiatkowski. According to the plea agreement, VanTreese will file for first offender status under Section 7411 of Michigan's Controlled Substance Act. For first time drug offenders, if 7411 status is granted and all court orders are followed during a special probationary period, no conviction is recorded in the case.

The plea bargain also stipulates that VanTreese will be placed on probation for one year and will not practice law during that year.

Due to the circumstances of the guilty plea, there is some uncertainty about whether that will be the only stipulation regarding VanTreese's again practicing law.

At Monday evening's city council meeting, VanTreese's former, or at least soon-to-be former, law partner Robert Hoffman said VanTreese will be leaving the firm within the next few weeks.

Monday morning, VanTreese offered his guilty plea in Cheboygan before Cheboygan County Circuit Court Judge Robert C. Livo. In court, VanTreese admitted to receiving about two grams of cocaine from Mary Thuss, a former client whom he defended in a drug delivery case in 1986 and 1987.

Livo pointed out that if the court chooses not to follow the conditions set forth in the plea bargain agreement and doesn't grant VanTreese special disposition under Section 7411, Van-Treese may ask to withdraw his guilty plea and go to trial on the original charges in the indictment.

Although the case originated in Charlevoix County, Livo has been assigned as the judge in the case. Cheboygan County prosecutor Joseph Kwiatkowski is serving as a special prosecutor in the case. Charlevoix County prosecutor Kraag Lieberman withdrew from the case and was called as a witness in the district court preliminary examination.

Bessie Whitley

Funeral services for Charlevoix resident Bessie Faye Whitley, 66, were held Monday, Dec. 19, at the Community Church of God in Charlevoix, with pastor Bruce E. Hamilton officiating. Burial was in Brookside Cemetery.

Mrs. Whitley died Dec. 13, 1988, in McAllen, Texas.

She was born Aug. 22, 1922, in Webster City, Iowa, the daughter of Hubert E. and Ellen (Wentzel) Skeel. The family moved to Marion Township when she was 12 years old. She attended the Bentley Hill Standard School in Atwood.

On April 6, 1942, she married James T. Whitley in Charlevoix.

The couple has lived in Charlevoix ever since and have spent the past few winters in Pharr, Texas.

Mrs. Whitley was a member of VFW Post No. 1153 Auxiliary, the Community Church of God in Charlevoix and the W.C.G. of the Community Church of God.

She was employed at the Ellsworth Canning Factory as a quality inspector for 10 years and then worked for Weathershield in Charlevoix for nine years, retiring in 1979.

Mrs. Whitley is survived by her husband, James T. of Charlevoix; five sons, Edward R., James T. Jr., John F. and Michael L., all of Charlevoix and Carl K. of Eastport; five daughters, Mrs. Nancy J. Russell of Norwood, Mrs. Mary E. Nachazel of Atwood, Mrs. Faye A. Flendt, Mrs. Cathy R. Lawson and Sally A. Whitley, all of Charlevoix; 19 grandchildren; three brothers, Otto Skeel of Central Lake, Everett Skeel of Mount Morris and Louis Skeel of Charlevoix.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the Charlevoix Area Hospital. Envelopes for this purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix where the arrangements were made.

John P. Murphy

John P. Murphy, 81, of Banks Township, died Dec. 18, 1988, at Total Living Center, Mt. Pleasant.

Funeral will be 11 a.m. Wednesday, Dec. 21, at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix. The Rev. James K. Gardiner will officiate and burial will be in Calvary Cemetery, Mt. Pleasant.

Mr. Murphy was born Dec. 31, 1906, in Mt. Pleasant, the son of Hugh and Cella O'Hara Murphy. He attended St. Joseph Seminary in Grand Rapids and later attended and received his degree from Central Michigan University. He was married to Mary Creed on Oct. 29, 1938, in Mt. Pleasant. They resided there and in 1977 they moved to Banks Township. Mrs. Murphy died in 1967.

Mr. Murphy was the founder and publisher of the Oil and Gas News in Mt. Pleasant from 1929 until his retirement in 1972.

Survivors include: six sons, Timothy S. and Michael Murphy, both of Mt. Pleasant, Patrick C. Murphy of St. Joseph, Brian Murphy of Scottsdale, Ariz., William Rory Murphy of San Diego, Calif., and Sean Murphy of Chicago, Ill.; four daughters, Mrs. Bruce (Mary Sharon) Nolan of Mt. Pleasant, Mrs. Warren (Ann) Doten of Williamsburg, Meegan Murphy of Mt. Pleasant and Mrs. John (Bridget) Slipke of Rancho Cucamonga, Calif.; 13 grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. Edwardine McQuaid of Mt. Pleasant; several nieces and nephews.

The family suggests memorials to the Hospice of Central Michigan, 1012 W. High St., Mt. Pleasant, 48858.

It is common fact among historians of the Middle East that there really was a child born in Bethlehem named Jesus. His parents were Joseph and Mary according to the census taken in Nazareth, about the time of Jesus twelfth birthday. No longer can the atheist make attempts of discrediting this long-held tradition, as well as the incident of His death in AD 30. Eighty percent of all nationalities have some form of Christmas story involving a baby born in a lowly place. Many of the stories vary in their account and tradition. However, it is no mere coincidence of their missive.

Though tradition plays a vital role in the birth narrative and the way we perceive it today, we must not hold solely to tradition. Scripture gives us the foundation for the story. After all who could give a better account of God's Son than God Himself?

Let's look at some facts in Scripture to see how our traditional story could change. Most of us have heard how the angels sang at the birth of Jesus. Well, there is no scriptural indication that angels sing. Don't be alarmed! There is nothing that tells us they don't sing. How about the wise men, the bearers of gold, frankincense and myrrh? Tradition numbers them at three. Scripture does not give a number but there were more than likely five or more. Wisemen or possibly astronomers often traveled in larger numbers for safety's sake, especially because they were carrying valuable gifts.

Traditionally, the wisemen went to the stable to see the Baby in a manger, however, Matthew Chapter 2 tells us "they came into the house and saw the Child with Mary His mother." Because of King Herod's decree that all male babies two years of age or under be killed, this indicates the Child to have been older than two.

Now I hope none of these ideas disappoint you because they are not all that important.

The Christmas story must never degenerate into sentimentality. The significance of narrative lies in the Book of John chapter 3, verse 16. "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

Christmas is for you and yours. God's gift to you is eternal. Do you have it? Contact a local Pastor to find out.

Rayders quickly dispatch Grayling

By TIM HENNE

The kindest term for Charlevoix's victory over Grayling this past Friday evening would be "blowout."

In what Charlevoix coach Jim Kanine described as "great team-playing," 11 of 12 Charlevoix players contributed points in a 55-38 homecourt win which ran Charlevoix's season record to 5-0.

Charlevoix dominated from the opening tip and for all intents and purposes, the game was decided by the end of the first quarter. When the buzzer sounded to end the opening quarter, Charlevoix was up 22-4.

In the second quarter, fresh maroon Rayder jerseys provided more of the same. And the act was repeated in the second half.

Rayder standouts included Shawn Putman, who was the only Rayder to score in double figures. He had 12 points and four rebounds. Among the other Rayders playing a strong game were Webb Friedly, Bob Jess, Matt Cunningham and Dave Miller.

Earlier last week, on Tuesday evening, Charlevoix beat Boyne City 53-46.

This Friday evening, Charlevoix will face a strong test when they host the St. Ignace Saints.

Wrestlers place third of six

Charlevoix's wrestling team had two individual titles and finished third among six teams at the St. Ignace Invitational Tournament Saturday.

Jason Whitley, who is unbeaten this year, won the 152 pound weight class with three wins and no losses, including a 5-4 decision over an opponent from Gladstone in the finals.

Jamie Monteith won the 171 pound division. Monteith went 3-0 for the day and pinned an opponent from Sault Ste. Marie in the finals.

Scott Novotny finished second in the 130 pound division, losing in the finals on an over-time decision.

Charlevoix will host St. Ignace this Thursday evening.

KCB lighting contest winners announced

Charles and Sue Meir, Jr. of North Pointe are the overall winners of the Third Annual Residential Lighting Display contest sponsored by Keep Charlevoix Beautiful.

The contest was open to all homes in the Charlevoix area. Judging took place last Friday night. Judges for the competition were: Don Dannecker, Jan Glass, Dale Boss and Jackie Kruttsch.

There were three categories in the contest, broken down by areas of the town.

On the north side, first place went to Lou and Rita Orlovski of McSaubia Road while second place was captured by Dianne and Bill Dreyer of Nettleton Street.

In the area of town west of U.S. 31, Bill Vogel of Antrim Street took first place while Gayle and Lyle Gennett of Clinton Street received second.

In the section of town east of U.S. 31, first place went to Roger and Annette Nesburg while second place went to Chip and Nancy Allison.

Contest sponsors are encouraging people to drive by these homes during the holiday season to view the decorations.

Charlevoix Area Hospital employees said Merry Christmas on Monday by contributing over 300 food items and six rejuvenated bicycles to needy families. Left to right are: Fay VanLoo, Charlevoix Hospital employee; Vasco Zucchiatti, Volunteer Services Supervisor for the Department of Social Services; Jean Graves, hospital employee; Lois Lewis and Maxine Bergmann, Community Christmas Project workers.

CARDS OF THANKS 070

We would like to extend a heartfelt thank you to all the wonderful people who have given of themselves this past year to help our daughter and sister, Marilyn Friedly and her family, during her illness. You gave in so many ways: Flowers, food, gifts, ironing, phone calling, transportation, wedding, feather pillows, a wheel chair and ramp, manicures, sponges and an air mattress. Plus the time spent sitting, listening, consoling, exercising, turning, reading, laughing and visiting. Your acts of love and kindness reassured us that Marilyn's life was rich with friends. She often expressed her gratitude. We will always remember the example of your kindness.

Sincerely,
Hugh & Irene Phillips and Family

A look at the ups and downs of 1988

(The following summary of events and happenings in and around Charlevoix during the last year was gleaned from Courier headlines. Some stories are continuing, some are a one-time mention, some have changed the face of Charlevoix, and some reflect only ideas, but they will give the reader a capsule report of what happened in 1988.)

JANUARY

"United Way Tops Goal". Received $42,500; goal was $37,500.
"Leadership Development—the Key of the Future of Charlevoix County." Workshops through February and March to be sponsored by County Extension Service.
"Lake Proposal Clears Hurdie". Approved by County Planning Commission after three years of writing.

"New Year's Baby at Charlevoix Hospital". Clifford Hugh Graham, born to Dennis and Denise Graham of East Jordan.

"Parking to Remain on Bridge." Changes rejected by city council after State Highway Department had recommended eliminating parking on both sides and having three lanes of traffic with center line for turns.

"New Landfill Owner Plans to Expand Facility." Representatives from Waste Management, Inc. appear before County Board of Commissioners to introduce selves and tell about plans for Charlevoix County Landfill in Eveline Township.

"What's in Bridge Street Park.

Future?" Proposal presented for 29-foot walk and seating area along side of Burnside's Building to allow building to be converted into five shops. City council hears proposal.

FEBRUARY

"New Landfill Owner Promises Improvements."

"Coast Guard Units Survive Cuts." Mesquite and Charlevoix Coast Guard Station to remain despite cuts and closings of Coast Guard operations throughout the country.

"Condos OK, Other Accord Terms Secret." All day mediation session results in settlement of Park Avenue building dispute. Terms kept secret ex-

ZBA concurs with planning commission on Park Place

The zoning board of appeals (ZBA) has concurred with planning commission recommendations on two variances requested by Don Berlage for the Park Place condominium project.

Berlage asked for a sideyard variance to attach a balcony to a tower on the northwest corner of the building and for a parking variance to leave a grassy area in the center of the parking lot in front of the complex. He contended the balcony would complement the architectural design of the building and the grassy area would enhance the park-like atmosphere of the area in harmony with adjacent Hoffmann Park.

The planning commission recommendation, which was formulated Dec. 12 and affirmed by the ZBA Dec. 21, was to deny the balcony request, but compromise on the grassy area in the parking lot.

Prior to the parking variance request, plans called for 10 paved spaces in the center of the parking lot. There currently are 15 spaces elsewhere at the Park Place.

According to the zoning ordinance at the time Berlage began the project, a total of only 22 parking spaces are necessary. (Two parking spaces per condo unit, and there are 11 units.)

At the planning commission meeting, Berlage said that from watching other local condominiums over time, it is apparent that all parking spaces aren't used all of the time. In other words, although there are certain occasions when the parking lots are full, most of the time there are more parking spaces than necessary.

Planning commission, and subsequently ZBA members, have agreed. But to handle those occasions when maximum park-

Ahead-lines

Are Ohio State fans bored?

Wonder what Ohio's college football fans are going to be doing this Sunday?

If memory serves correctly, it seems there once was a time when one of those Ohio schools had a fairly decent football team? Wonder what happened to it? Is that team even going to a bowl this year? Certainly not one that anybody's heard of.

Now Michigan college football fans will have plenty to do. Our state's got two teams playing bowl games. Michigan's playing the University of Southern California (USC) in the Rose Bowl and Michigan State plays Georgia in the Gator Bowl.

No telling if either U of M or MSU will win. Past history is certainly no cause for glowing optimism. But at least they're playing.

Michigan is going into the Rose Bowl as an underdog for a change. It can't hurt.

Not everyone believes U of M mind that barring a little sloppy tackling against Notre Dame and a sad closing against Miami of Florida, U of M looked pretty sharp. Nobody in the Big Ten had any fun playing them.

Apparently Michigan's regular starting quarterback, Michael Taylor, won't be playing. And that's too bad. Over the season Taylor became something of a hero to folks who find a football to be about the most awkward thing there is to try to throw straight.

Taylor isn't one of those quarterbacks who throws crisp, tightly-spinning bullets. His passes are fowl. They may fly like wounded ducks, but they home in on his receivers like pigeons.

Taylor will be replaced by Demetrius Brown. He does throw bullets, but sometimes his scope gets out of adjustment and his bullets go astray.

Michigan State folks also have should be an underdog. Keep in reason both for pessimism and optimism. The legendary Georgia football coach Vince Dooley is retiring. No doubt, his players plan on sending him off on a high note.

MSU has an opportunity to spoil those plans. Granted, the Spartans started the season in an ugly way, but they closed strong.

And keep in mind, for the first three games they didn't have their All-American offensive tackle Tony Mandarich. Mandarich is 315 pound native of Canada. That's a whole lot of Canuck to have blocking for you. When he turns pro, he may not only play tackle, but also guard simultaneously.

So what will those Ohio football fans be doing this weekend? Gearing up for the pros. Let's we Michigan fans gloat, keep in mind they've got Cleveland and Cincinnati. We have the Lions.

... ZBA reviews Park Place

 ing is needed, they stipulated that although the center of the parking lot may be left green, it must be able to handle occasional parking.
 To accomplish this, they said Berlage must grade the area so it is readily usable for parking and install a "paver-block" or "turf-stone" material. City planner Gerry Harsh explained that the material is either blocks or a mesh which stabilizes the soil, but allows grass to grow. The net effect is an area which looks like a yard, but doesn't get torn up if it's parked on once in a while.

Following the ZBA action, the matter will go back through the planning commission to the city council. It was before the council Dec. 19, and was discussed for about 40 minutes. But since at that time it hadn't been before the ZBA, the council could only defer action until next month.

At all three meetings where Berlage's variance requests were discussed, people have voiced objections to the requests. Last spring, Berlage, the city, the WATCH environmental group and Dave Miles who owns property near the Park Place went to court over the project. A mediated court settlement resulted.

Miles and others who object to the variance requests argue that according to terms of the settlement, Berlage isn't supposed to be asking for more variances. At the city council meeting, mayor Ralph McRae and some of the council members indicated that at the time of the settlement, they were under the impression that the settlement resolved and concluded the Park Place issue.

A toy is what you make of it

I refuse to let age infringe on and maturity and dignity ruin certain things in life. Playing with Christmas toys is one of those things.

When I was young, playing frivolously with Christmas toys was not only accepted, but expected. Now that I'm older people sometimes look askance when I do the same thing.

I remember one Christmas when I was a boy and we got an electric race car set. We assembled that race car track in a spare room and my brother and I, dad too for that matter, had a fine time with it.

It took a few minutes to catch on to the finer points of high speed racing. If you went too fast on the curves, the cars flew off the track. My youngest brother didn't play with that toy. He was just a little tyke at the time and a kid's got to be at least five or six years old to fully appreciate big-time auto racing.

Remember when air hockey was all the rage? Air hockey was the game where air blew up through a million little holes in a table and kept a disc floating. Two people would stand at opposite ends of the table and try to knock the disc past each other into the goals. Pity they don't have major league air hockey. I could have gone pro.

This Christmas, I suffered the misfortune of being an adult. Well, at least technically speaking I pass for an adult. But when it comes to Christmas, I refuse to have my fun spoiled by a mere technicality.

My wife and I got ourselves a video cassette recorder (VCR) this Christmas and I was bound and determine to treat it like a toy.

As soon as the VCR was hooked up, my wife started reading the owner's manual. What fun is that? The fun of any toy is learning by doing.

I snatched up the remote control. There are 43 buttons on that animal. I'm sure if you press the right combination you can beam yourself up to the starship Enterprise.

Unfortunately, some of the buttons are overrated. They don't always do what they say they will.

I pointed the remote control at my dog and pressed fast forward, but he still just laid there. The next time my wife gets after me about something, I'm going to point the remote control at her and hit the button to turn down volume. If the button doesn't work and she figures out what I'm doing, the effort could end up being counterproductive.

One frivolous game which works with the VCR and remote control is duelling. To duel with a VCR, you pick up the remote control, march five paces across the room, wheel and fire.

It's better than old fashioned duelling. If you lose, you're not dead. If you win, you get to watch a movie. It's almost as much fun as air hockey.

Editorial

Organize council discussions

For the sake of the community, let us hope the 1989 city council is a productive one.

Not that the 1988 city council was unproductive, however as in most things there's definitely room for improvement.

Priority number one in terms of improvements is for discussions at council meetings and work sessions to be focused, concise and directed toward making a decision.

Too often in the past council discussions have deteriorated into free-flowing bull sessions branching off into numerous directions and going round and round like a puppy chasing its tail. That's not real productive.

The members of the council bear some of the blame for the unproductive discussions, but they aren't alone by any means. Audience members speaking at meetings have also been a substantial part of the problem.

While it is just and right that people from the audience be allowed their fair say, it is also just and right that people who choose to speak at the meetings be expected to do their part in keeping the discussion orderly and moving.

There are three things audience members should bear in mind when they get up to speak at a council meeting.

First - Don't repeat points other people have already made. If you support something someone else has said, simply say you support that person's position.

Second - If you have questions, ask them in a concise and direct manner. Give the person who answers your question a chance to answer it completely.

Third - Make your points quickly and efficiently. Don't preface your statement with an off-the-cuff history of the community. Don't talk about respected members of the community who are now dead and ponder what they might have done in this situation. Just state your feelings on the issue. Most importantly, say all you have to say, then stop talking and sit down.

There are similar simple points in the discussion process councilmembers should keep in mind.

First - When an issue comes before the council, the first thing the council should decide is if it's an issue that they should decide. If the matter is something better handled by the planning commission, zoning board of appeals or some other body, then let them handle it.

Second - If a problem is something within the council's purview, each councilmember should determine some goals as far as what he feels is important in any solution to the problem. It's easier to accomplish something when you know what you want to accomplish.

Third - Determine the possible solutions. This is an area where city staff members can be utilized. It is completely appropriate at this stage of the process for the council to tell the staff, "This is the problem. These are the things we want to see in a solution. Research the matter and bring us back some options. Let us know the pros and cons of each option. Make a recommendation."

Fourth - Weigh the benefits and drawbacks of all possible solutions and make a decision. Make a decision.

Discussions must lead to decisions. Discussions are only important because they lead to decisions, actions and improvements to the community. A discussion which leads to nothing but more discussion is just a waste of time.

Air travel safety

Air travel.

It's the way to go in the 1980s. But many travelers are keeping their fingers crossed as they board airliners this holiday season following the tragic crash of a Pan Am jumbo jet in Lockerbie, Scotland, the evening of Dec. 21.

At week's end, the toll had reached 230 — including 258 on the plane and 22 on the ground, making it the worst air crash ever in Great Britain.

Many of the victims were Americans returning home from Europe for the Christmas holidays, including one group of 35 students from Syracuse University.

Although cause of the crash is still uncertain, a good possibility remains that the jumbo jet was destroyed by a terrorist bomb planted aboard.

In fact, American officials in Germany had been warned several weeks ago that a Pan Am flight from Frankfurt to New York would be targeted for destruction before the holidays.

Most airline officials knew of the warning — but obviously not many of the passengers did, or they wouldn't have boarded the flight.

The problem is that threats by so-called terrorists are almost routine at airports around the world, according to airline officials.

Although all threats are taken seriously, air traffic would come to a virtual standstill if all the threatened flights were canceled.

Furthermore, most of the threats appear to be without substance. Occasionally, however, one is carried out, resulting in a staggering loss of life.

Although security has improved and continues to improve at airports around the world, new and deadly plastic explosives are capable of deceiving the most sophisticated detection devices.

Furthermore, a tiny amount of plastic explosive — a thin sheet about the size of a package of cigarettes — carries enough punch to blow a hole in the side of a giant airliner. Such a "bomb" could easily be smuggled aboard a plane in the lining of a suitcase or a camera ditty bag.

SO WHAT IS the traveling public supposed to do? Stop traveling?

This is hardly a feasible alternative since jetliners have become such an important part of life in the 20th Century.

Of course, airlines could conduct strip searches of all passengers, perform item-by-item luggage inspections and provide their own tamper-proof luggage boxes. But such a thorough safety regimen would put the cost of air travel beyond the price range of most of us.

The only other feasible course would be an international effort to collar the terrorists who are causing all the trouble and put them behind bars — forever.

Until that happens, air travel — particularly overseas — is going to carry a certain amount of risk.

David Holmes, supervisor of the FBI Bomb Data Center in Washington, D.C., is probably right on target when he says, "I don't think there can be 100-percent safety."

THE FRUITCAKE sickos are at it again.

Even on Christmas Day, the noble fruitcake was roundly condemned by columnist Dave Barry in the Detroit Free Press Magazine.

He couldn't even wait until after the holidays to deliver his knock-out punch.

Barry contends that fruitcake is threatening Earth's already endangered ozone shield. Listen to this:

"Speaking of threats to human survival, I want to remind everybody of the recent alarming holiday discovery that fruitcake is destroying the planet. Yes. Leading environmental scientists named Bob and Ted are now telling us that fruitcake, being the densest substance known to man, emits gravity rays so powerful that they suck on the Earth's precious ozone layer, causing it to stretch and eventually break like a cheap brassiere repeatedly washed in harsh detergent."

Another dispicable story making the rounds is that there is only one fruitcake in the world and people keep sending it to one another.

I know of no other food that has been libeled so viciously for so long.

If it keeps up, I see the whole fruitcake question being decided in the courts. It won't be a pretty sight.

at 108 Clinton." Three possibilities considered: Tear whole house down and build 32 parking spaces, sell front half of the house and build 14 parking spaces on back half, or tear down the house and sell the front 40 feet of the lot and build 27 parking spaces on the back of the lot.

NOVEMBER

"Four Young People Killed in Traffic Accident." Car hits tree on U. S. 31 near Bayshore.

"County Tax Revenue Increases 10 Percent." Charlevoix area increases are: City of Charlevoix, seven percent; Charlevoix Township, 11 percent; Eveline Township, 10 percent; Hayes Township, five percent; Marion Township, eight percent; Norwood Township, 12 percent; Peaine Township, 12 percent; St. James Township, 26 percent.

"We're Still No. 1." Charlevoix High School boys' cross country team retains its State Class C title beating its nearest competitor by 28 points.

Hospital bans smoking

Beginning New Year's Day Charlevoix Area Hospital will be smoke-free.

Employees, visitors and patients will not be allowed to smoke in the building or the vicinity of the front of the building. The hospital becomes the third in the area to have a policy which prohibits smoking everywhere in the building.

Richard L. Krueger, administrator, said "Our physicians and staff are solidly behind the new policy and we expect the transition to be a smooth one. We apologize for any inconvenience this may cause any of our patients, however, we can no longer ignore the fact that even a brief exposure to smoke can cause distress and harm to some of our patients and employees. We thank everyone for their cooperation."

In August Governor Blanchard signed into law Public Act 315 which strictly regulates smoking in health facilities. That law will become effective on April 1, 1989. Under this law smoking would be allowed in hospitals where specific construction and ventilation ensured a smoke-free environment in patient care areas and common areas. "The cost of this renovation is prohibitive for Charlevoix Area Hospital," Krueger said, "and we firmly believe a complete prohibition is in the best interests of the health, safety and speedy recovery of our patients."

Scott Miller is individual state champion.

"Council Favors Parking Lot." Informal decision centers around demolishing or moving house at 108 Clinton Street.

"North Point Reaches Fund Goal." More than $700,000 was raised to purchase 27 acres in Charlevoix Township for a Nature Preserve.

"Council Votes to Demolish House at 108 Clinton." Area will become parking lot.

"Van Treese Requests and Receives Leave of Absence." Following district court preliminary examination, city attorney Jeff VanTreese is bound over on drug charges.

"Mesquite to Caribbean." U.S. Coast Guard Cutter will leave home port of Charlevoix to serve until April as part of United States Drug Interdiction Program.

DECEMBER

"Local Seniors Get their Own Place." Keys to old Charlevoix Township Hall turned over to senior citizens group who will renovate building at Norwood Road and Carpenter Street.

"Hayes-Fox Zoning Case Going to Supreme Court." After four years of litigation, the State Supreme Court next month will hear arguments about the legality of portions of the Hayes Township Zoning Ordinance governing use of lake frontage.

"VanTreese Pleads Guilty to Lesser Charge and Resigns".

Burleson - Graf

Donna Burleson and Thomas Graf

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Burleson of Midland announce the engagement of their daughter, Donna, to Thomas R. Graf. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Graf of Charlevoix.

Both young people are in their first year of the Interflex Medical Program at the University of Michigan Medical School. The future bride is also employed by the Jackson Medical Service as an Emergency Medical Technician. Her fiance is employed by the University of Michigan Medical Center as a Laboratory Technician.

The wedding is planned for August 12 in the First United Methodist Church of Midland.

Kotowich - Underberg

Timothy and Sabine Kotowich

Sabine Angela Underberg of Frankfurt, West Germany and Timothy Jordan Kotowich of Florence, Italy were married in a civil service December 23 in Munich, West Germany. A church wedding, also in Munich, is planned for next June.

Sabine was graduated from the Foreign University of Florence in 1986 before beginning her present position as a flight attendant with Lufthansa, the National German airline. She is the daughter of Bodo and Silvia Underberg of Munich.

Tim, a musician, is a native of East Jordan, a 1972 graduate of Interlochen Arts Academy, and a 1979 graduate of Berklee College of Music in Boston. He is the son of Thora Kotowich and the late Teddy Kotowich of East Jordan.

Oh Boix!

A compilation of praises won by Charlevoix people for good deeds, good work and hard work.

Albion College senior, Catherine Shepherd, spent the fall semester participating in the Washington Semester in Washington, D.C., as part of the off-campus study program at Albion College. She is the daughter of Dr. Gordon and Sue VanWieren of Charlevoix.

The program, offered at American University, features seminars examining the federal government's executive branch, Congress, political parties and interest groups, and the federal judiciary. In addition to this course work, students complete an internship and research project on a topic in economic policy, American politics, foreign policy, justice or journalism.

SPORTS

St. Ignace hands Charlevoix first defeat

By Tim Henne

Despite a four point lead at the end of the first quarter and only a one point deficit at the half, the Charlevoix Rayders were defeated 67-53 Friday evening by an intense St. Ignace team.

The game stayed almost even in the first half with the lead changing hands several times. Charlevoix was helped by a fast start from Bob Jess who had 10 points and nine rebounds.

In the second half, Jess and his Rayder teammates slowed down.

James Corwin led the Rayders scoring, collecting 13 points despite playing most of the second half with four fouls.

For St. Ignace, Jimbo Brown had 17 points and Bill Fraiser chipped in 12.

A crucial turning point in the game came in the fourth quarter. With the score tied, Webb Friedly came to the line for a free throw. Although he made the free throw, he was called for stepping across the line early and the point was taken away.

Following that call, St. Ignace scored six unanswered points courtesy of three straight Charlevoix turnovers.

Despite Charlevoix's first loss, coach Jim Kanine wasn't disappointed with his team's play. "We didn't do a bad job," he said. "They (St. Ignace) really took it to us, and in the third quarter we gave up a lot of points. But over all, we played pretty well."

Charlevoix guard Jason Corwin (25) carves out a little space among the taller players during Friday evening's game against St. Ignace. Standing beneath the basket are Mike Himelbauch (21) and David Miller (4). Charlevoix came out on the short end of a 67-53 score, the team's first loss of the season.

Charlevoix's Bob Jess sends up a jump shot from the corner and Jason Corwin waits beneath the basket.

Wrestlers lose to St. Ignace

Charlevoix's wrestlers lost 44-24 to visiting St. Ignace Thursday evening. It was the Rayders' last match prior to the Christmas break. They won't wrestle again until Jan. 5.

Against St. Ignace, six of 13 Rayders won their matches, but only three by pins.

Chris McCallum, 119 pounds, Scott Novotny, 130 pounds and Robyn Mervyn, 171 pounds, picked up pin victories.

In the evening's most exciting match, Jamie Montith won a come-from-behind 7-6 decision in the 189 pound division after trailing 6-2 with 40 seconds left.

Brian Livingston also won a decision in the 135 pound division.

Other Rayders who wrestled in the meet, but lost were Paul Cunningham, Dave Bordas, Shawn Young, Jason Pajtas, Brian Darrah, Joe Ehrcke, Gabe Brock and Jim Marquardt.

Some of the wrestlers who normally wrestle for the Rayders were ill or injured and did not compete against St. Ignace.

Big Rock benefit

A Christmas benefit dance organized by employees of Consumers Power Company's Big Rock Point nuclear plant resulted in a donation of cash and toys to the Salvation Army.

Benefit organizers Patrick M. Donnelly and William J. Trublowicz presented cash and checks totalling $1,020 to Lieutenants Gary and Karen Felton of the Salvation Army during the dance, which took place at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Petoskey, Friday, Dec. 9.

"When we planned the benefit, we thought we would have some fun and raise several hundred dollars for the Army," Donnelly said. "We didn't expect that we would be this successful." Donnelly is Big Rock Point's nuclear assurance administrator; Trublowicz is the plant's operations supervisor.

The benefit also resulted in the collection of dozens of toys for the Salvation Army to distribute during the holidays to needy families.

In receiving the donation, Felton noted that the Salvation Army is trying to raise $40,000 locally in its "Tree of Lights" campaign. Proceeds from the campaign support the Army's year-round commitment to help the needy.

Helping make the benefit dance a success were caterer Nancy J. Kelly of Levering, the Pickerel Lake Trading Post, and Larry Wojcik's 16-piece Big Band. Members of the band came from as far away as Mount Pleasant to take part in the program.

Charlevoix's trout tournament was a 1988 success. Proceeds from the trout tournament funded a fish cleaning station at Ferry Avenue Beach.

SHOPTALK

JACQUELINE MERTA

Jacqueline Merta is executive director of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

In Britain, the day after Christmas is known as Boxing Day; in other countries it is a holiday simply called the Day After Christmas. It's been told that it became known as Boxing Day because it was the day when presents were given in boxes to the postmen. It's nice to remember that the occasion of gift-giving and gift-receiving need not end with Christmas.

At this holiday season, I have been impressed by the outpouring of generosity shown by businesses, organizations, churches, students, and individuals. Also I know that in Charlevoix giving happens year-round, year after year. We have many people giving of their time, talent and resources for many causes. Causes that benefit the Charlevoix area.

As we enter the new year, I wish all businesses a prosperous 1989 for many reasons. The most important was succinctly stated by Theodore Roosevelt in 1912, "I hold it to be our duty to see that the wage-worker, the small producer, the ordinary consumer, shall get their fair share of the benefit of business prosperity. But it either is or ought to be evident to everyone that business has to prosper before anybody can get any benefit from it."

This year's county budget compared to last year's

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners is holding a hearing on its 1989 proposed budget today at 11 a.m. in the Commissioners Room of the County Building Annex. The budget that is being proposed is presented herewith along with last year's budget for comparison purposes.

It should be noted that next year's budget is only $22,884 above the 1988 budget, due to several cuts and complete elimination of capital outlay expenses.

Copies of the proposed budget are available in the office of the Charlevoix County Clerk.
